ANTI-DOPE LAW DRIVES 2 MEN TO END LIVES

Steinberg Will Ask County Board to Admit Users to Hospital.

THOUSANDS SUFFER.

The Harrison federal drug law, forbidding the sale of narcotics, has been in force one week. Conditions already have become such that emergency measures must be taken to alleviate the sufferings and to effect the cure of thousands of unfortunate victims of the drug habit.

Two suicides outside Chicago, one in Detroit and the other in Logansport, Ind., took place yesterday as a result of inability to obtain drugs. The lives of both might have been saved if proper treatment had been given in time.

The Cook county hospital refuses to admit "dope" patients. There is no public institution which will receive them, except the bridewell hospital and the asylums. A majority of the drug victims are neither criminals nor insane. Many of these are not in a position to pay for private treatment. In this emergency "The Tribune" has appealed to Peter Reinberg, president of the county board, to throw open the doors of the county hospital to these unfortunate citizens. He has promised to present the matter to the county board today.

GASHES WRIST TO DIE.

Detroit, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—Bernice S. Burroughs, aged 29, son of the late William Seward Burroughs, inventor of the Burroughs adding machine, today gashed his wrist with a piece of broken lamp chimney in a cheap boarding house on Michigan avenue. He died in St. Mary's hospital soon after being discovered.

The cause of his self-destruction is said by physicians to be his inability to obtain morphine since the Harrison "dope" act recently became effective. The fact that he was addicted to the use of narcotics was suspected by the company officers some time ago.

When the victim died Joseph Boyer Jr., son of the president of the Burroughs company, was at his bedside. He had been called by the police and hospital attaches, to whom young Burroughs told his pitiful story.

Blows Out Brains.

Less than a minute after Frank Sullivan spoke those words to his father-in-law, C. E. Kearns, last night he had blown out his brains.

Sullivan was a confirmed morphine user. Though only 32 years old, he had been addicted to the use of the drug for years. He worked in the Pennsylvania railroad shops and earned good wages. Saturday afternoon he received his pay and started to make a round of the drug stores in this city. One after another he visited, only to be refused the drug. Then he went home and killed himself.

SITUATION GRAVE IN CHICAGO.

Unable to obtain admission at the county hospital, unwilling to go to the bridewell hospital or an asylum, scores of victims of the drug habit, cut off from the supply they crave by the Harrison law, are flocking to private institutions in Chicago to seek relief from mental and physical suffering. Hundreds of drug users in poor circumstances, without funds to pay for treatment, are in desperate straits.

To meet this situation, which threatens to fill the jails and asylums unless emergency measures are taken, President Peter Reinberg of the county board will introduce a resolution to throw open the county hospital to treatment of drug users who find themselves forced to break habits of many years' standing.

He said he expected no trouble because of lack of room at the hospital.

Recognizes Desperate Situation.

"Something must be done to care for drug users who haven't the money to pay for private treatment," Mr. Reinberg said. "I am confident that in this work the county board will be found in accord. The board has power to pass a resolution authorizing treatment of drug cases in Many Flee Reign of Terror in Mexican Capital for U. S.

New Orleans, La., March 7.—[Special.]—Out of Mexico today came new stories of anarchy, pillage, and murder. More than 100 refugees, including several priests and nuns, arrived here on the steamship Texas from Vera Cruz late Saturday. Nearly all of them were from Mexico City, having fled from the capital eight days ago.

Felix Lacunas, who is said to be a prominent and once wealthy Mexican, said:

"We left Mexico City eight days ago, when the city was in the throes of a veritable reign of terror. Many Mexicans of prominence have been executed during the last few weeks, most of them without trial, and hundreds of others were crowded like rats in the famous Belem prison and the penitentiary.

300 Priests Put in Jail.

"Among the prisoners were more than 300 native Catholic priests who were thrown into jail on the orders of Gen. Obregon and held for $500,000 ransom. Every foreign Catholic priest in the capital was expelled from the country after the military authorities had confiscated all of the property found under their control.

"Every church, convent, school, hospital, or other institution conducted by the Catholic church has been closed and pillaged by the troops, and sisters had been turned into the streets and warned against doing any work in behalf of Catholicism.

"The bread winners of thousands of families have disappeared and the dependent women and children have been denied the slightest bit of information as to the fate of these husbands and fathers by the ruthless military authorities.

Plan to Rush U. S. Troops?

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—It was reported today that informal inquiries were being made on behalf of the war department of steamship companies to learn what vessels would be available for charter in case of need for the transportation of troops to Mexico. Officials of the war department denied such inquiries were being made.

In the last few days there has been much talk to the effect that the president may find events taking such a bad turn that he will be unable further to ignore the problem and refrain from vigorous action.

A joint intervention in Mexico by the United States and certain South American governments is being much talked of here. The difficulty is that while the proposal meets with considerable favor in unofficial circles, it is wholly frowned upon in every quarter directly interested.

No Relief in Mexico City.

The intolerable conditions existing at Mexico City under the oppressive rule of Gen. Obregon continue unabated, according to advices received in Washington today. The administration is still waiting for a reply to its urgent representations to Carranza.

Bread is almost unobtainable in Mexico City, and there is a lack of foodstuffs. Many bakeries are putting out bread made of bran and extortionate prices are charged for it. Charcoal is used for cooking and is sold for $7.50 a sack where formerly it was bought for 50 cents.

Cardinal Takes Up Outrages.

Baltimore, Md., March 7.—[Special.]—Cardinal Gibbons has started for New Orleans, where he will confer with Archbishop Mora of Mexico City concerning outrages upon priests and nuns in Mexico.

Villa Moves to Attack.

El Paso, Tex., March 7.—The main army of Gen. Villa entrained today at Guadalajara and started toward Aguascallentes. The number of troops in Villa's command was not given in the advices, but it is understood their movement from the west coast metropolis is the initial movement in the expected attack on the Carranza garrisons at Vera Cruz and Tampico.

GIRL ATTACKED BY NEGRO; FLEES WHEN HELP COMES.

Servant Struck on Head While Entering Home—Cries Awaken Employer, Who Rushes to Aid.

The police were notified last night of an attack made Friday night by a colored man on Miss Mary Durkin, employed in the home of Edward Irwin of 6110 Vernon avenue.

Miss Durkin said she had been to the home of Miss Margaret Pendergast of 6151 Rhodes avenue Friday night and was returning home. While unlocking the rear door she was struck on the head with a club by a colored man. Her cries for help awakened Mrs. Irwin and the latter went to her assistance. The negro fled.

Liner Touraine Nearing Havre; Fire Conquered

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, March 7.—The French liner La Touraine, which yesterday sent out wireless calls for help, saying it was afire in the Atlantic, apparently is safe.

"Sunday, March 7, 3:45 p. m.—La Touraine having a fire in one of its holds asked for help, but is continuing the journey to Havre, escorted by the steamer Rotterdam. I hope to get control of the fire. There is no immediate danger. The weather is good but foggy.

"I hope to dock Monday evening if everything goes well."

Statement Made to Public.

Following the receipt of this message, the line made public the following statement:

"The fire was less serious than was at first thought. The fire is under control and all passengers are safe.

"La Touraine has resumed its voyage to Havre under its own steam, but, nevertheless, for further security, it is being escorted by the Rotterdam, and probably will arrive at Havre Monday evening."

Think Passengers Are Safe.

The company is confident that the passengers are in no danger and regrets the alarmist stories that were cabled here from New York about the fire being of incendiary origin, or that it was the work of German spies. According to officials of the company they have not been informed what caused the fire.

Grave fears for the safety of La Touraine were felt in this city until the positive announcement was made that it was in no danger.

CLEVELAND POLICE GET CLUE TO DIAMOND ROBBERS.

Small Bits of Paper Found in Suitcase Lead to Arrest of Two Suspects.

Cleveland, O., March 7.—[Special.]—Small bits of a letter found in a suitcase in the Hannah hotel, 1122 Superior avenue, this morning by detectives may enable Chicago police to round up the band of diamond thieves which stole $15,000 worth of gems in Chicago three months ago.

Two men in whose room in the Hannah hotel the letter was found are under arrest. They are being held here pending word from Chicago police.

The bits of the letter were pasted together, and a copy of it, with a description of the men, was sent to Chicago.

BOYS CONFESS AUTO HOLDUPS; BRAG TO GIRL

DISCIPLES OF WEBB.

"Sullivan," said the captain, "I believe you drove that car on Thursday for that stickup bunch. There isn't another kid in Chicago that can drive like you, and there's only one kid in Chicago who could speed like that chauffeur did on Thursday."

The boy's chest swelled. His eyes warmed with a kind of pride. He twisted his cap nervously.

You Know Me, Cap.

"Say, captain, I'm the livest chauffeur in the city," he blurted. "When it comes to running a car I can run it anywhere. And speed! Say, captain, you should have been with us the other day! We went fifty miles an hour at times, and we hit some sharp corners. There ain't a driver in Chicago got anything on me when it comes to speed. Give me a good car and I can run all your motorcycle cops raggedy."

"You are pretty frank about it, all right," replied the captain. "Now sit down and tell us all about it. Tell us just how fast you did drive that buzz wagon."

The boy did. He babbled for an hour, and when he got through the mystery of the bandit crew who terrorized the city by a daring daylight sweep through the north, west, and south sides on Thursday and snatched the purses of a score of women, finally escaping in a shower of bullets fired by two motorcycle policemen, had been solved.

Here Are Boy Bandits.

A few hours later the boy's three accomplices were in custody and had confessed. The boy bandits are:

Virgel Litzinger, 16 years old, of 2734 West Thirty-ninth street; son of Albert Litzinger, a policeman detailed at South Englewood station, and nephew of former Ald. Litzinger of the Fifth ward.

Trained in Pool Halls.

It was an early training in the poolroom kindergartens of crime along Thirty-first street where they picked up a chance acquaintance with members of Teddy Webb's bandit crew, a fund of information gathered by loafing around garages, a few petty thefts, and a visit or two to the Boys' court that sent the four youths on their first real robbery cruise last Thursday.

They boasted with boyish braggadocio of their friendship for Webb and of their misdeeds. They jested with a dozen frightened women victims who visited the station during the day and identified them.

A boast made by the Sullivan boy to a girl brought about the four arrests. He is known to almost every policeman and detective at the Thirty-fifth street station. Two weeks ago he unscrewed all the electric light bulbs from the front of the Monogram movie theater and went around the next evening to sell them back to the proprietor. He was arrested, but the proprietor refused to prosecute after the lights had been returned.

Sullivan First Suspect.

When the reports of the holdups were flashed to the Thirty-fifth street station suspicion fell on Sullivan. It was not until an informant appeared, however, and reported that the boy had been bragging about his driving feat that the police started out after him. They knew he frequented the Monogram theater at Thirty-fifth and Halsted streets. Word was passed he was in the theater Saturday night.

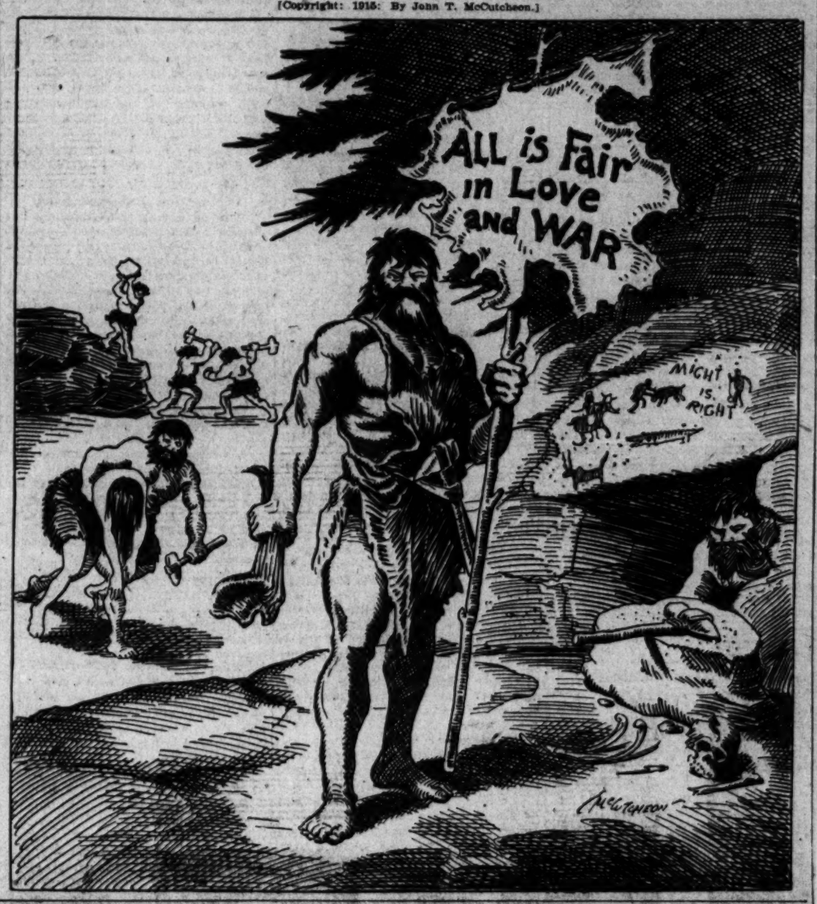

Detectives Egan and O'Conner went to the place, but Sullivan saw them and slipped out of a fire exit into the arms of Detectives Adams and Coffey. He confessed to Capt. Cronin, but before making a full confession insisted on talking the matter over with Father Murphy of the Church of the Nativity. Then he gave the names of the other boys.

It was after midnight when he finished, and the police set out after the other three. The Carlson boy's parents insisted on a search warrant being produced at

IS CIVILIZATION REVERTING TO THE CODE OF THE CAVE MAN?

NO MORE 'PIFFLE' IN HIS COLUMNS

Victor Murdock Leaves Congress to Direct a Different Wichita Eagle.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Victor Murdock of Kansas, who retired from congress on March 4, started back home tonight, and on Tuesday he will begin the job of editing his Wichita paper, the Eagle.

Mr. Murdock after twelve years in congress is bulging with ideas on how to run a newspaper. He intends to introduce what he describes as a "sane and adjectiveless society page."

He is going to be a "bear" on Washington news and will print one page that a man can read at arm's length. He will also run a Saturday review of the stories and articles in the weekly and monthly periodical press.

No More Items Like This.

If Mr. Murdock has his way about it, he says, there will be no more items in the Wichita Eagle reading like this:

The beautiful and charming Mrs. Wilberforce Dustin-Rocks gave a delightful dinner party last evening to a select party of friends. The hostess was becomingly attired in a Paris gown of exquisite satin, trimmed in gold lace. The house was profusely decorated with beautiful cut flowers and trailing evergreens.

This item, appearing as Mr. Murdock would have it written, will run this way:

Mrs. Wilberforce Dustin-Rocks entertained a party of friends at dinner last evening. Only a few guests were invited.

Will Leave It to Imagination.

Editor Murdock would leave something to the imagination of the reader. According to "the Hon. Vic," any fool reader would assume that Mrs. Dustin-Rocks was dressed to "kill," etc., etc.

"I don't know whether I'll be able to get by with that sane society column stunt," Mr. Murdock said, "but it ought to be done. I get tired of reading those fluffy society notes in the newspapers."

Another Editorial "Murdockette."

Mr. Murdock has another idea. A transcontinental train passes through Wichita once a day.

"My idea," he said with enthusiasm, "is to print the names of the Pullman passengers on this train. How many times has the average fellow looked through a Pullman window and wondered if he knew anybody inside? I believe I could make a distinctive feature of this with a heading something like this:

Writes to London Morning Post, Which Replies "He Bites the Hand That Fed Him."

LONDON, March 8, 4 a. m.—In a letter to the Morning Post, Prof. Kuno Meyer, writing from Chicago, protests against resolutions adopted at Liverpool university, where he taught for many years, condemning him for acting in America "as an agent for sedition, and imputing treason to loyal Irish soldiers now prisoners of Germany."

Meyer says the resolution "speaks of my being an agent for sedition, as if I were a British subject. It assumes my indebtedness to England for its hospitality an hopor that should have made me disloyal to my native country when it called upon me in its hour of need. It denies facts about the truth or untruth of which none of those who voted for the adoption of the resolution can have any knowledge."

The Morning Post, commenting editorially, says: "There is nothing repugnant to his (Prof. Meyer's) standards of decency and honor in biting the hand by which he has been fed for more than a quarter of a century. Truly even such benefits as this country has conferred on him might with any one but a German professor have been a bar to a deliberate effort to foment disaffection in and bear false witness against a nation by which he had been so well treated."

Prof. Meyer is at the University club. He declined last night to comment on the action of the Liverpool university or his letter to the Morning Post.

ANOTHER FIRE DAMAGES EDISON PLANT BUILDING.

Inventor Directs Fight to Save the Record Plating Mill at His West Orange Works.

West Orange, N. J., March 8.—[Special.]—Another fire started in the plant of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., on Lakeside avenue, shortly after last midnight. The record plating mill, where the master plates for records are made, was partly destroyed. The damage, so far as the building is concerned, amounts to little, but how many master plates were destroyed cannot be determined.

Thomas A. Edison was at work in his laboratory when the fire started. He rushed over to the burning mill and directed the fire fighting, aided by Miller Reese Hutchison, his chief engineer.

The fire last December did damage amounting to more than $2,000,000. It did not disturb Mr. Edison in the least.

EDITOR'S ILLNESS IS GRAVE.

Condition of W. R. Nelson of the Kansas City Star Unchanged —Family with Him.

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—The condition of William Rockhill Nelson, editor of the Kansas City Star, was unchanged today. Mr. Nelson has been confined to his home for several months, and yesterday his condition became so serious that members of his family were summoned. Today was Mr. Nelson's seventy-fourth birthday anniversary.

ROAR OF GUNS CONTINUOUS IN DARDANELLES

BULLETIN.

LONDON, March 7.—The continued progress of the allied fleet in the Dardanelles and the possible partition of Turkey at the end of the war is rapidly pushing Greece into the conflict on the side of the allies. The Athens correspondent of the Daily Mail says a declaration of war against Turkey is expected at any time.

This correspondent says M. Venizelos, who resigned as premier, originally was for neutrality, but was converted to the necessity of war action by the Dardanelles incident. Other dispatches said M. Venizelos had announced his party could not support the neutrality program insisted upon by M. Zaimis, his successor, and even the relationship of King Constantine to the kaiser probably will fail to keep Greece out of the war.

Messages from Athens say the Greek press is insistent on war, and that the university students are parading the streets, calling for war and cheering the legations of the allies.

Turkey is reported to have warned Greece massacres will follow any declaration of war, and the German and Austrian ministers have informed the Athens officials their nations will declare war if the Hellenic nation begins hostilities against the Turks.

BY GEORGE RENWICK.

[Correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle.]
(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

ATHENS, March 7.—The first real eyewitness story describing the bombardment of the Dardanelles forts by the allied fleet was brought here by a man from Tenedos island, who from Mount Ilios saw the battleships pour their fire into the strongholds.

"The sight was a most magnificent one," he said. "At first the fleet ranged in a semi-circle some miles out to sea from the entrance to the straits. It afforded an inspiring spectacle as it came along and took up its position and the picture became most awe-inspiring when the guns began to boom.

"The bombardment at first was slow, the shells from the various ships screaming through the air at the rate of about one every two minutes. The gunners' marksmanship was excellent, and with strong glasses I could see huge masses of earth and stone work thrown high up into the air. The din even at that distance was terrific, and when the largest ship with the biggest guns in the world joined the martial chorus the air was filled with the ear-splitting noise.

TURK FORTS HOLD FIRE.

"The Turkish batteries, however, were not to be drawn, and, realizing this, the British admiral sent one British ship and one French ship close in shore towards the Siddul Bahr forts.

"It was a pretty sight to see the two battleships swing rapidly away towards the northern cape, spitting fire and smoke as they rode along. They obscured the pure atmosphere with clouds of smoke from their funnels and guns.

"Through it all I could see they were getting home with their shots. They fired as they went in. They sped right under the guns of the shore batteries, which could no longer resist the temptation to see what they could do. Puffs of white smoke dotted the landscape on the far shore and dull booms echoed over the placid waters. Around the ships fountains of water sprang high up into the air. The enemy had been drawn but its marksmanship was bad. I think I am right in saying that not a single shot directed against the ships came within 100 yards of any one of them.

"Out came the two ships again ineffectively pursued by shells from the Turkish batteries. As they retired they continued to make excellent practice

GIRL FIGHTS GIRL WITH HER FATHER

If Dr. Merritt O. Hoover had stuck to his decision to remain in jail overnight, the occurrences here chronicled would not have taken place. Miss Margaret Kirby would still have a new spring bonnet, and there would be no story to write.

But after refusing the good offices of his wife, who signed his bonds, and telling her he would stay in jail until he retted, he was induced to accept his release by Miss Kirby, who is his assistant.

The doctor and Miss Kirby were leaving the police station together when who should appear but the physician's daughter. She had come from the Hoover residence at 1342 North Rockwell street to the South Clark street station in an automobile to take her father home.

It was shortly before midnight when the automobile drove up. Miss Kirby held the doctor by the arm as they walked away.

Daughter Leaps Out.

Out of the car sprang Miss Hoover and she immediately "waded" into her father's escort, first with her left and then with her right. Miss Kirby, being a novice in the boxing art, was unable to parry the blows.

Five minutes later there was nothing left of the bonnet. Miss Hoover tore it from the wearer's head, and stamped on it until it no longer resembled a headgear. The daughter then took her father by the arm, shoved him into the automobile, and said to the chauffeur, "Home, William."

Dr. Hoover was arrested by a South park policeman on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated. After he was locked up he asked that his wife be notified. She hastened to the station in a taxi, and on her arrival signed bonds for his release. He balked and refused to leave the cell. "Drunks," "bos," "cadgers," and "con" men were his companions in adjoining cells.

Miss Kirby Informed.

Miss Kirby was later informed of the doctor's predicament, and she had no difficulty in inducing him to go home.

"It's a shame the way the doctor's daughter attacked me," said Miss Kirby. "And my new hat is ruined. I have been studying medicine with Dr. Hoover for the last two years, and I have assisted him in most of his operations.

"There is no love between us, as the wife and daughter seem to think.

"The idea of a love affair between the doctor and me is preposterous. I am 23 years old and he is 45.

"I never had a sweetheart in my life."

end the parting shots were quite as good as their first.

"The position and the number of the enemy's batteries had been discovered as a result of this brilliant little piece of work and soon the Turkish guns were under a hail of the most deadly shells warfare ever has known.

"From a distance which must have been ten miles at least, monster projectiles dealing destruction and death were poured in upon the forts guarding the entrance, and each one appeared to create a frightful inferno where it landed.

"The people of the little island gathered on all the high points to see the awe inspiring spectacle, and the wonder of it struck them with utter amazement."

SAW FLEET ENTER STRAITS.

Later my friend was able to witness a subsequent stage of the bombardment from a nearer point still. What he saw while on an island of the Rabbit group was still more interesting. When in the early part of the bombardment the allies successfully dealt with the entrance fortifications, several ships were able to enter the straits and on the broad sheet of water inside were carrying on the work of destroying the batteries farther up the arm of the sea.

Before that was done, however, the forts at Kum Kale had to be dealt with, and that was done in an extraordinary manner. One section of the fleet, protected by the extreme point of the Gallipoli peninsula, fired over the hilly promontory at the forts, making splendid practice.

FIRE ON TURK TROOPS.

Another part of the squadron from a sheltered position off the coast northeast of Tenedos island directed a telling fire on the same forts, besides turning attention with obviously great effect on groups of Turkish troops seen moving on the mainland. The silencing of the Kum Kale forts finally has opened the entrance to the Dardanelles.

Upon the fleet entering the straits the operations were not yet beyond the watcher, and my friend was still able to observe the work of warships in clearing the passage.

On one occasion he tells me parties of marines landed during the day in order to complete the destruction of the enemy's works. These forces were always withdrawn at nightfall and their work was always accomplished without loss to themselves.

TERROR IN TURK CAPITAL.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 7.—Dispatches today from near eastern points indicate that the situation in Constantinople is becoming increasingly serious as a result of the success of the allied fleet's attack on the Dardanelles, which has driven hundreds of fugitives from the Gallipoli peninsula and the Asiatic side of the strait in terror to the capital.

Foreigners, not even excluding Germans, are in a precarious position and massacres of Christians are feared.

A message to the Daily Mail from Sofia tonight says:

"A trustworthy messenger from Constantinople, who has arrived at Dedeagatch, says that Constantinople is greatly alarmed at the attempt to force the Dardanelles and that the population refuses to believe the assurances by the authorities and the press that there is no danger.

Fugitives Crowd City.

"The city is crowded with fugitives from the Gallipoli peninsula and the coast of the sea of Marmora. The authorities are daily becoming more suspicious of foreigners and Christians, and the position of the Germans in the capital is precarious.

"Arrests, searches, and robberies are of daily occurrence, and all gold in the possession of private individuals and banks is being seized indiscriminately."

A dispatch from Bucharest says the exodus of the well-to-do residents of Constantinople has begun, and entire families, mostly Greeks, are arriving there.

Fifty German military men who have been in Turkey passed through Bucharest yesterday on their way to Berlin, the dispatch says. Others, with some women and children in the party, arrived here today.

Sultan Ready for Flight.

"According to the latest advices received here," says a Reuter dispatch from Sofia, "the sultan and the government are still in Constantinople. The government is prepared to cross to Asia Minor at any moment, but the sultan is in favor of remaining in the capital.

"It is understood that it has been decided to entrust the defense of Constantinople exclusively to the Germans under command of Gen. Liman Von Sanders, the instructor of the Turkish army, while Bedri Bey, the prefect of police, will be invested with the general control of the city, with powers equivalent to those of a viceroy.

"Measures of precaution already have been adopted to prevent the capture of the city. It is reported that all the troops at Adrianople and Demotica have been hurriedly dispatched to the Gallipoli peninsula."

Fire Across Gallipoli.

It is apparent from the official reports that the warships on March 5 and 6 bombarded the forts on the Asiatic side across Gallipoli peninsula, the range being about seven and one-quarter miles over hills 700 feet in height.

The result of each shot was aerographed to the Queen Elizabeth by the warships inside the strait. It is figured out that the missiles thrown by the fifteen inch guns on the dreadnaught totaled twenty-five tons in weight on March 5 alone.

The vicinity of Constantinople, including the Bosporus, Phanaraki, Princes Island, and Chatalja is being constantly fortified and heavy guns are being placed in position. Enver Pasha, leader of the Young Turks and commander in the Caucasus, has returned to Constantinople.

A dispatch from Athens says arrivals from Smyrna say Rahim Pasha Vali of Smyrna is determined to surrender Smyrna on the first summons. Forty thousand Turkish troops who are assembled at Smyrna are in pitiable condition; their uniforms are in tatters, and many of them wear no boots, the arrivals assert.

A dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Bucharest says the Roumanian parliament has passed a law empowering the government to proclaim a state of siege until the end of the war, if such a step should be deemed necessary.

Keep Up Fire on Forts.

PARIS, via London, March 7.—The bombardment of the Dardanelles fortifications continued Saturday by the allied fleet, according to an official statement issued this evening. The communication says:

"The British battleship Queen Elizabeth, posted in the Gulf of Saros, bombarded by indirect fire two big works on the Asiatic side alongside of Chanak and defending the straits (Forts Hamidieh and Hamidieh Sultanieh).

Fort Chanak Silenced?

ROME, March 7.—A wireless dispatch from the Island of Rhodes says that the Anglo-French fleet has bombarded and silenced Fort Chanak in the Dardanelles.

It is persistently rumored that an Italian expedition is now in Aegean awaiting orders to land and occupy Adalia, on the south coast of Asia Minor.

HEAD OF THE PERSIAN GULF SCENE OF BITTER FIGHTING.

British and Indian Troops Engage Turks in Series of Battles with Success.

LONDON, March 7.—British troops occupying the head of the Persian gulf located two Turkish forces accompanied by hostile tribesmen during the last week, and in the fighting which followed heavy casualties were inflicted on the Turks and their allies, according to a report on the fighting issued tonight by the Marquis of Crewe, secretary of state for India. The statement says:

"For some time it had been known that about two or three regiments of Turkish troops, together with Turkish Beni Fam tribesmen from Amara (on the Tigris river), with contingents of Persian Beni Lamu Turcef and other disaffected tribesmen hostile to the sheik of Mohammerah, had been collecting west of Ahwaz (in Khuzistan). The Ahwaz garrison was dispatched on a reconnaissance in force to ascertain their numbers and disposition.

"On March 3 the enemy turned out in great strength. Their number was estimated at about 12,000. Several hand-to-hand encounters took place, in which the attackers were held successfully at bay while our party made good its retirement. The enemy lost no less than 200 to 300 killed, including brothers of the sheik of the Beni Turcefs, besides from 500 to 600 wounded. Our casualties were: British officers killed, five; wounded, three; Indian officers killed one; wounded, four; Indian rank and file killed, fifty-five; wounded, 115.

"On the same date a cavalry reconnaissance was made in the direction of Nakala, about twenty-five miles north west of Basra (on the Persian gulf). The reconnoiterers, on returning to camp, were followed by a body of some 1,500 hostile horsemen. The enemy was skillfully drawn on to a concealed position occupied by infantry with machine guns and field artillery. The enemy fled back to Naksla after having suffered heavily."

OLDER GERMANS TO FRONT?

Reported Subjects of Kaiser Up to Age of 55 Years Have Been Called On to Train.

COPENHAGEN, March 7.—Germans up to the age of 55 years, who two months ago were declared unfit for military service, it is reported here, now have been called on to train with younger recruits.

French Airmen Up 18,000 Hours: 1,116,000 Miles.

PARIS, March 7.—An official statement giving statistics concerning the aerial flights of the French airmen during the eight months of the war was issued tonight.

"Approximately 10,000 aerial reconnaissances have been made," the statement says, "amounting to 18,000 hours in the air. The distance covered was over 1,116,000 miles, which would amount to about forty times around the globe.

"Unfortunately, these results are not obtained without serious losses, which equal, and sometimes even surpass, other methods of warfare."

NORTHEAST FRANCE, March 7.—According to the report of eye-witnesses, a Zeppelin which appeared over the French lines near Bethune on Wednesday was brought down and captured.

Several French and English airmen went in pursuit of the airship as soon as it appeared, climbed above it, and dropped bombs which penetrated the envelope.

The rear part of the balloon was seen to break away from the rest, and the Zeppelin rapidly fell to the ground in a collapsed condition.

Greece Being Driven to War; Warned by Teuton Nations.

ATHENS, March 7.—The resignation of Premier Venizelos has brought to a crisis the question of whether or not Greece shall enter the war on the side of the allies.

The premier's resignation was due to the fact that the king did not approve the government's policy regarding intervention. M. Zaimis was appointed his successor, and indications of a serious division were given in an address by M. Venizelos in the chamber of deputies tody.

"M. Zaimis," the retiring premier said, "will follow the policy of neutrality, and I hope that this policy will not endanger our newly acquired territory."

"Our party," M. Venizelos continued, "will refuse to support any government which may be formed. Besides, M. Zaimis, if he forms a cabinet, will not come before the chamber."

One report is that should M. Zaimis accept the office of premier, the chamber probably will be adjourned or dissolved. Otherwise his cabinet would be overthrown.

Threat Made by Turkey?

The probability that Greece may enter the war is reported to have brought a threat from Turkey. The Ottoman minister here, Salih Bey, is quoted as having openly declared that massacres would take place in Turkey if Greece broke with the Porte, while Count Mirbach, the German minister, is said to have informed the diplomatic corps that Austria and Germany would immediately declare war on Greece the day that Greece moved against Turkey.

A grand council of former Greek premiers, which was summoned by the king, met this afternoon. King Constantine presided. M. Venizelos and former Premiers Dragoumis, Theotokis, and Rhallis, and Gen. Dousmanis, chief of staff, attended. M. Venizelos explained at length the policy which his government thought it necessary to pursue. M. Dragoumis and M. Rhallis also spoke. The decision they reached was not given to the public.

The university students in the capital made a demonstration today in favor of immediate action by Greece. The legations of the triple entente powers were visited by the students and cheered.

Venizelos Explains Change.

The Journal Patris, which is regarded as a Venizelos organ, gives the following account of the crisis:

"During the second sitting of the crown council Premier Venizelos proposed that only one division of troops should be sent to aid the allies against the Dardanelles, thus overcoming the objections raised previously by the military staff that, on military grounds, it was not in the country's interest to join the allies.

"M. Venizelos then pointed out the danger to which Greece was exposed by the threatening descent of the Austro-German forces on the Balkans, adding that since no guarantee had been offered by Austria or Germany that they would respect Greek interests Greece was obliged to join the allies, who had given such a promise. He said he was convinced that on the allies' winning, not only were the present possessions of Greece guaranteed but further advantages to her interests would accrue.

Others Join in Attitude.

To this M. Theotokis (former premier and minister of war) answered:

"I formerly advocated a pro-German policy but now recognize that that policy seems obsolete and against public opinion."

M. Rhallis (a former premier) then addressed the king as follows:

"Your majesty knows well that I am an opponent of M. Venizelos. On this occasion, however, I am fully of his opinion and heartily congratulate him on the policy he wishes the country to pursue."

M. Venizelos further stated his belief that Bulgaria was ready to join the allies in an attack on Constantinople. The king nevertheless announced that taking into consideration the present international position, he considered it not in the country's interest to abandon neutrality. Therefore he accepted the cabinet's resignation.

Greek Press Urges War.

LONDON, March 8.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company from Athens says that the Greek press, in its comment on the operations against the Dardanelles, has declared itself in favor of Greece taking part in the war, taking the ground that no breaking up of the Ottoman empire should be permitted to take place without the participation of the Hellenic troops.

"The beginning of the operations against the Dardanelles," the Daily Mail correspondent says, "changed M. Venizelos from a partisan of neutrality into an advocate of war. He feels strongly, and it is impossible to doubt that the great majority of the nation ardently supports the view, that Greece must show herself worthy in arms of her great heritage. The war seems to be opening the hopes of this vigorous and ambitious people.

Declaration Expected Soon.

"For the last three days Athens has expected a declaration of war. M. Zaimis and his colleagues are partisans of a neutral attitude with a flavor of a benevolent interest in the entente policy; in fact, they are sitting on the fence. The temper of the people seems to desire a simpler and more decided action. Their feelings are confused because of the temporary difference in opinion between such national heroes as King Constantine and ex-Premier Venizelos, the joint architects of the present prosperity of Greece.

"Remarkable patriotic demonstrations occurred here on March 4. Large crowds cheered outside the British, French, Russian, Serbian, and Belgian legations. Mr. Elliot, the British minister, and other representatives of the allies, met the crowd as it was leaving the French legation. Mr. Elliot was carried on the shoulders of the crowd, while thousands collected around the Gladstone statue and cheered."

Comment by Paris Press.

PARIS, March 7.—The crisis in Greece is commented on extensively today by the principal Paris papers, although the announcement concerning the situation was received here late.

"What will Greece do?" naturally is the principal question asked, and there is much speculation as to her probable plans. Some of the papers declare that the crisis exceeds in proportion the mere change in the ministry.

The Figaro says that Greece wants the right to be admitted into the partition of Turkey, and has her eyes fixed on Smyrna and the numerous colonies of the Anatolian coast.

The relation of the king of Greece to the Emperor of Germany through marriage as a factor which might work against possible intervention and the sentiment of Premier Venizelos in favor of the allies of the triple entente, are discussed from various points of view.

BULGARIA TO ACT SOON.

LONDON, March 8, 3 a. m.—The Sofia, Bulgaria, correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the Bulgarian premier has promised to make a definite statement regarding the government's position and policy to parliament in a secret session. This, the correspondent states, is in reply to a question by the opposition regarding the "attitude of the government in view of the decisive move of England in the Dardanelles."

GERMANS KILL 300 TURKS?

Kaiser's Officers Have Clash with Allies Following Retreat from Suez War Area.

LONDON, March 8, 3 a. m.—Telegraphing from Cairo, the Daily Mail's correspondent says: "During the retreat of the Turks after the recent Suez operations, the German officers had an open conflict with their allies and 300 of the latter were killed in a single affray near Jerusalem."

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, March 7.—The czar has notified the American relief clearing house that he accepts the presidency of the Russian committee, which is being organized on the same lines as the existing Belgian, Serbian, French, and Montenegrin committees.

ROCKEFELLER TO CUT OUT DISEASE CANKER IN CHINA

Foundation Will Aid Medical Schools and Establish Scholarships.

New York, March 7.—The Rockefeller foundation announced tonight that it had decided to undertake a comprehensive plan for the improvement of medical and hospital conditions in China.

For this purpose the foundation has established a special organization to be known as "the China medical board of the Rockefeller foundation," and plans as the first step toward effective work the development in China of medical education.

Extent of Assistance.

This will include aid for the two or more medical schools in China, described as inadequately equipped; the strengthening of the staffs of mission and other hospitals, assistance in the establishment of two modern tuberculosis hospitals, and the establishment of six $1,000 scholarships, with traveling expenses, to enable Chinese graduates in medicine to prosecute further studies abroad; and of five scholarships to enable Chinese nurses to obtain training in this country.

The foundation says it has in mind in granting the fellowships "the building up of a body of Chinese medical men who will in time be able to take the lead in teaching the medical sciences in their own country." These fellowships already have incumbents, one of whom has arrived in this country, it is stated.

The action taken was based, the foundation says, upon an exhaustive report of its special commission, which last year made a firsthand exhaustive study of the public health and medical practice in China and reported that the need of medical relief there was great.

Members of Medical Board.

The China medical board includes the members of the investigation commission, who were Harry Pratt Judson, president of Chicago university; Dr. Francis Peabody of the Harvard Medical school, and Roger S. Greene, the then United States consul general at Hankow, and Frank J. Goodnow, president of Johns Hopkins university; Dr. Simon Flexner, Wallace Buttrick, and others associated with Rockefeller philanthropies.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. is chairman, Mr. Buttrick director, and Mr. Greene resident director in China, with headquarters at Peking.

Little Petroleum in Germany.

COPENHAGEN, March 7.—Reports received here from Schleswig are to the effect that the supply of petroleum in Germany has become so low that persons who formerly were permitted to purchase one bottle a week now have been deprived of that privilege. The stock in Schleswig nearly is exhausted.

WOMEN REALLY TO BLAME FOR EUROPEAN STRIFE?

Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer of Budapest, at Indianapolis Says Fair Sex Wants Vote for Peace.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 7.—"We want suffrage for peace," declared Mrs. Rosika Schwimmer of Budapest, Hungary, in addressing the opening session of the Mississippi valley conference of suffragists here today.

"As you read your papers, this war seems to be a great sport," she said. "One side wins five yards and kills hundreds of able bodied citizens. Back of the scenes are the women of Europe, the greatest victims of the greatest tragedy. We can't blame any man or group of men for this war. Rather we must blame ourselves for having allowed the continuing of 'preparation for war in time of peace.'"

DID NOT SINK SUBMARINE?

Berlin Message Contradicts Captain of British Steamer—Boat Returned, Claim.

AMSTERDAM, March 7.—A message received here from Berlin contradicts the assertion of the captain of the British steamer Thordis that his vessel rammed and sank a German submarine off Beachy Head.

In competent German quarters, the dispatch adds, it is declared that the Thordis on Feb. 28 did attempt to sink a submarine, but that the underwater boat suffered only slight damage and returned to port.

"THE SHOE THIS YEAR IS THE KEY TO THE COSTUME"

"THIS CREATIVE O-G SHOE DESIGNING IS REALLY WHAT DETERMINES THE FOOTWEAR FASHIONS OF AMERICA."

It is doubtful if ever in the history of American Fashion has footwear been as supreme in importance as it is this spring.

The art of dressing the foot artistically, dashingly and withal tastefully, has become the foremost test of the skill and judgment of both designer and wearer.

Women's finer shoes have reached their deserved dignity, and this year share with the loveliest of millinery the honors of a primary importance among the cherished indulgences of carefully groomed women.

The quotations in the heading above, from a well-known writer on fashions, confirm the pleasant fact that a milestone in the achievements of O-G has been reached, the style-creating ambitions of 12 years of scrupulous devotion are splendidly rewarded, and we are alive to the increasing responsibilities placed upon us by the faith and reliance of the greatest clientele of refined and critical women who ever looked to a single shoe house for style-guidance, quality-surety and fitting artistry.

WE SHOW HERE TWO ONLY

out of nearly 40 different exclusive spring novelties in high boots to be seen in our women's stores alone—all of them notable for the elegance, distinction and detailed superiority expected of O-G Shoes. (The short skirts of the day make footwear a vital consideration. Something better and prettier than "just shoes" is imperative.)

"MUSKETEER"

GLOVE-FITTING not merely shoe-fitting. We have been selling these out of regular stock ever since January 1st.

"FASHETTE"

All-over gray kid, with blue kid trimming, and blue kid covered Louis heel; very light welt sole.

To the woman who likes pretty footwear styles (and doesn't want to take any chance of missing "the very thing she wants"), an inspection of O-G shoes is as necessary as the feet to put into them.

RUSS CONTINUE TERRIFIC DRIVE ON GERMAN ARMY

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PETROGRAD, March 7.—The Germans continue their retreat under heavy pressure by the Russian army on the left bank of the Niemen, according to the official war bulletin issued tonight.

"Annihilation" is the word used in connection with an Austrian defeat southwest of Lutowisko, along the River San. The official statement does not give the number of Austrians engaged.

Russian War Statement.

The war office communication follows:

"Our offensive continues on the left bank of the Niemen and in the district northwest of Grodno. Our troops drove the Germans back behind the front of Sopotskin-Lypskov and then pushed on vigorously.

"In a similar manner in the Mlawa district our attacks were crowned with success. We took about 500 prisoners, including seven officers, and also three machine guns.

"In the Carpathians, between the Ondawa and San rivers, the Austrian attacks continue. Southwest of Lutowisko the enemy tried to cross to the right bank of the San, but in a counter attack Saturday night the Austrian units which had succeeded in crossing the river were annihilated."

German War Statement.

BERLIN, March 7.—The official war statement given out today covering operations in the eastern theater follows:

"Our operations northwest of Grodno are proceeding to our plan. A Russian night attack on Mocarce northeast of Lomza was repulsed as were strong Russian attacks west of Prazasnysz.

"Our attacks southeast of the Rawa river were successful. We took 3,400 Russian prisoners and sixteen machine guns were captured."

Austrian War Statement.

"In Poland yesterday, fighting occured in limited areas.

"The Russians were compelled by our artillery to evacuate advanced positions in the Carpathians, where at several points fights for favorable heights continue. The Russians have suffered considerable losses.

"Night attacks by the Russians were everywhere repulsed. Five officers and seventy-five men were captured.

"In northeast Galicia calm continues."

Mystery of Woman Who Screamed; Or, What of the Waving Slipper?

EVANSTON, already under suspicion of being the home of the ghostly, driverless, electric coupé which appears every now and then along the north shore, has a new mystery motor.

If there had been just one more pint of gasoline in the tank of the police automobile early yesterday morning the mystery might not now be so deep. But as it was, and is, the strange case of The Woman Who Screamed has taken rank with the most important of the weird, curious, and bizarre criminal matters on record at Evanston headquarters.

First of all, there were the screams. Mrs. Mary Pharen of 2316 West Railroad avenue, was awakened by them. A woman was in distress. It was enough. Mrs. Pharen jumped for the telephone and the alarm was given.

Almost as soon as she hung up the receiver the motor of the rescue car was throbbing and the brave boys of the night watch were piling aboard.

Out Simpson avenue dashed the department auto. Near Railroad avenue a big, high powered car was encountered, rushing in the opposite direction.

Dimly the police discerned two men and a woman in the strange machine. Back to their ears floated the same blood curdling scream that had awakened Mrs. Pharen:

"Whoop-ee! Whoop-ee! Whoop-ee!"

Surely that was the woman in the case. There could be no doubt. The police motor, whisked around with the briskness of a trick bicycle, took up the chase. Queer sounds drifted back—shouts of defiance, snatches of song, demoniac laughter, the shrill screams of the woman. There was certainly something wrong, underhand, sinister about it all.

For a half mile the chase continued. Gradually the police machine gained. Its crew could see the woman's hand and arm reached out of the tonneau, apparently in supplication. She seemed to be beseeching them to hurry—hurry.

Now a hundred yards separated the flying machines—ninety, eighty, seventy, sixty, fifty, forty, thirty, twenty—

"Sput, sput, sput," gasped the pursuer's engine. Faithful to the last the trusty police motor died in the road. The fugtive car drew swiftly away. While over the side of the tonneau the screaming woman waved a helpless, hopeless farewell.

"A durn strange case, I call it," said one of the Evanston officers of the law later. "That's what it was, a regular case. 'Nother funny thing, too, I could 'a sworn it wasn't her hand the woman was waving out of the car that last time. Say—would she have a slipper and a silk stocking on her arm? It's a case, I tell ye."

POTATO PATCHES TO COVER BERLIN; WOMEN IN LEAD

Fair Sex of German Capital Will Adopt Gov. Pingree Plan; Move to Cut Down Meals.

(By the Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Feb. 24.—[Correspondence.]—Gov. Pingree's potato patch plan, tried by the Michigan governor many years ago, is being copied in Berlin.

A movement, supported by many women of high position, to utilise all available garden plots and vacant land in Greater Berlin as truck farms for the immediate raising of vegetables, has been started.

It is the consensus of opinion that the present war requires some such step.

Truck Farmers to Aid.

To accomplish this purpose it is proposed to enlist the aid of all available truck farmers and agricultural experts and to get them to give instruction in vegetable raising and, so far as possible assist in the actual work. It is expected that it will not be difficult to interest women in large numbers to carry on the work of feeding the people.

Women willing to assist, it is proposed, will first take a short free course at the Royal Gardening institute.

Women to Live Cheaper.

Berlin is the scene at this time of numerous meetings, largely attended by women of every class, at which ways and means of more economical living are discussed by prominent physicians.

The women are being urged to cut down the consumption of meat by at least 15 per cent and to resort more to the use of milk. The women are asked to think of the men in the field and the hardships they have to endure if economy in eating seems to be too difficult.

Soup in place of coffee for the early morning breakfast is being urged by some physicians, especially for adults, and then the omission of the German "second breakfast," to the consequent saving of thousands of pounds of foodstuffs.

SAYS ITALY CANNOT STAY NEUTRAL MUCH LONGER.

Paper Close to Government Declares Balkan Situation Demands Intervention in War.

ROME, March 7.—The Giornale d'Italia, which, although it is not the official government organ, represents the political majority supporting the cabinet, in an editorial argues that it will be difficult for Italy longer to remain neutral, declaring that the attack by the allied fleet on the Dardanelles has brought up three great problems affecting Italian interests.

"The first of these problems," the newspaper says, "is the new rule to allow Russia access to the Mediterranean through the Dardanelles, the second concerns the equilibrium of the Balkans, and the third the partition of Asiatic Turkey, which affects the equilibrium of the eastern Mediterranean.

"It is impossible for Italy to keep out of the solution of such problems unless it is satisfied to see not only the powers of the triple entente settle these affairs according to their interests, but also the small but audacious and resolute nation, Greece."

More Called to the Colors.

ROME, March 7.—A sudden recall to the colors today of all the noncommissioned officers belonging to the four classes of the Italian army, together with other military measures which are pending before parliament, has filled the city with reports according to which important developments are imminent.

Today deputies who thronged the corridors of parliament openly admitted that any further delay was not advisable, as intervention by Greece would mean an irreparable loss to Italy's sphere of influence in Asia Minor in favor of Greece.

GERMANY TAKES MORE MEN.

BERLIN, March 7.—Among the items given out today for publication by the Overseas News agency is the following:

"Members of the Prussian diet, who have been visiting prisoner camps, have received information that at present there are 781,000 war prisoners interned in Germany, an increase since the end of 1914 of over 200,000 men."

ADVISES LAWS TO GUARD CHILD

Graham Taylor Tells Educators That the Church Should Aid State.

PROPAGANDA OF PEACE.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 7.—[Special.]—The twelfth annual convention of the Religious Education association held two meetings today, at which the principal speakers were Graham Taylor of Chicago and the Rev. Charles S. McFarland, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Both spoke on the general topic of "Peace."

More than 100 prominent educators from all portions of the country took part in the four days' deliberations. It was the concensus of opinion that the Sunday school, as now conducted, had fallen far short of its aim and that conditions demanded the establishment of a curriculum that will place it on the same basis of instruction as the day school. Resolutions were adopted arraigning society for its neglect of the welfare of the child in general.

Peace Propaganda Needed.

In his address Prof. Taylor declared that liberty of life and labor, both for the child and nation, demanded now as never before the committal of the church to a propaganda of peace, since now as never before war menaced the right of individuals and nations to live and work and threatened child life with its sacrilege of motherhood and birth.

To attain this world peace, Dr. McFarland said, there must be a new order of internal social life. The nations of Europe, he stated, were fighting a foe without cause; each failed to fight a foe within. What method of religious instruction would bring this revolution about he left for the experts of the association to determine, but he declared that teaching the universal brotherhood of man must be its basis.

Church and State Must Aid.

"If the child is to be 'born again' and the 'second birth' is to mean what it should," Prof. Taylor said, "then the child must be born right at first, and can be guaranteed this birthright only by the state's law and the church's gospel.

"This involves the legal regulations of marriage and parentage laws for the protection of motherhood and for the official registration of births as surely as the church's teaching and discipline inculcating and preserving the sanctities of life and the family.

"Our excessive infant mortality, which denies the right of at least 300,000 children in America to live more than two years, can be reduced only by legal provision for mothers' care, pure milk, sanitation, and houses that are fit for homes.

"To secure this right to life not only by its own teachings but also by its influence upon legislation and civic administration, the church is as obligated to nurture child life as for the saving of the soul.

Labor Laws Necessary.

"Laws prohibiting child labor and extending the school age for compulsory education are as essential as those providing schoolhouses and teachers. Public provisions for well equipped and directed playgrounds and for the prevention of the exploitation and vitiating of recreation are as necessary as the church's promotion of family religion and the Sunday school. Failure to influence the doing of this civic duty is the undoing of the church's work for the young.

"The rights of citizenship are as essential to the welfare of the commonwealth as to that of the child."

PEACE MOVE ON IN GERMANY?

Public Meeting of Socialists Prevented, but Secret Session Is Against War, Report Says.

PARIS, March 7.—L'Humanite today prints a dispatch received from the Swiss frontier which says that the German authorities prevented the holding of a large meeting of Socialists in Wuerttemberg, but that the delegates managed to have a secret session, at which they decided to organize a manifestation in favor of peace.

Girl Captures Thief; Easter Bonnet, Too.

MISS MAY STASCH. FRANK WOTKOWITZ.

Those two "crisp $5 bills" which were stolen Saturday from John Stasch's home at 3100 North Central Park avenue will be exchanged today for a new hat. The hat will be worn by 18 year old May Stasch, who chased the thief down to the loop, pursued him through crowded streets, and finally, with the aid of a policeman, effected his capture. Frank Wotkowitz, the man who stole the money, is locked up.

MINISTER OF FINANCE IN PORTUGAL QUITS HIS POST.

Duties Taken Over by Foreign Affairs Office, Dispatch from Lisbon to Paris Says.

PARIS, March 7.—A Lisbon dispatch to the Havas agency says the minister of finance in the Portuguese cabinet has resigned and that the minister of foreign affairs has taken over his department.

Announcement was made on Jan. 29 that Gen. Pimenta Castro had been intrusted with the task of forming the ministry to succeed the one headed by Victor Hugo A. Coutinho. Gen. Castro assumed the posts of premier and minister of war. The only other appointment which has been announced since then is that of José Rodrigues Monteiro as minister of foreign affairs.

A dispatch received Saturday from Madrid by way of London said that Gen. Antonio Xavier Correia Barreto had been proclaimed president of the "Republic of Northern Portugal" by a congress of Democrats which has been in session at Lamego.

ROUMANIA NEEDS WAR CASH.

Government Demands Appropriation of $40,000,000 for Army Which Is Being Mobilized.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BUCHAREST, via Rome, March 7.—The Roumanian government has demanded an extraordinary appropriation of $40,000,000 from parliament for the army, which is being mobilized secretly.

FRENCH TROOPS MAKE ADVANCES IN THE VOSGES

Paris Report Says New German Troops Fail to Hold Ground in the South.

PARIS, March 7.—The official statement by the ministry of war tonight told of desperate fighting in the Vosges mountains, in which the French gained the advantage in spite of the large number of reinforcements sent into the district recently by the Germans.

"In the Vosges," the statement says, "we captured successively, west of Munster, two summits of little and great Reich Ackerkopf. The enemy twice counter attacked from Muehlbach and St. Oliffwehr, that is, from the south and north. These attacks were repulsed.

"Moreover, on the right bank of the Fecht river we seised Imberg, two-thirds of a mile southeast of Fuitzeren. This success was completed further north by the capture of Hill 856, south of Hautes-shuttes. Finally, at Hartmanns-Weilerkopf, we repulsed five counter attacks by a German battalion, which lost heavily and left many prisoners in our hands."

Gains at Other Points.

Gains also are claimed for the allies at other points on the western front. The statement says:

"To the north of Arras, at Notre Dame de Lorette, the Germans attempted three counter attacks on the trenches we had captured, which did not succeed.

"In Champagne, to the west of Perthes, we gained a footing in a strongly fortified wood and captured prisoners to the north of the same village.

"We repulsed a counter attack on the ridge to the northeast of Le Mesnil Ground was gained and we carried another trench to the north of Beausse-jour.

"In the forest of Consenvoye, north of Verdun, we repulsed counter attacks.

German Official Statement.

BERLIN, March 7.—The following statement on the progress of the war was issued today by the German war office:

"Between the sea and the Somme there were only artillery duels yesterday. Attempts of the enemy to advance during the night south of Ypres failed.

"Our troops made progress in Champagne. We took a few trenches and about sixty prisoners. A French attack in force against our positions northeast of Le Mesnil broke down under our infantry and artillery fire with heavy losses to the French. The enemy's advances east of Badonviller were repulsed.

"Battles commenced yesterday in the Vosges, west of Munster and north of Sennheim, have not been decided."

TINY GERMAN SUBMARINES.

Kaiser Building Fifteen Undersea Boats for Baltic Sea Service—Eight Men in Each Crew.

COPENHAGEN, March 7.—Germany is reported here on what appears to be good authority to be building at Kiel fifteen small submarines of a new type, which will be used for reconnoitering the home coast in the Baltic sea. Each of the submarines, it is said, will carry a crew of eight men.

PEACE BY AUG. 1 OR SOONER, BELIEF IN WASHINGTON.

Rumors Thought to Be Based on Reported Fear of Germany That It Will Lose Present Advantage.

Washington, D. C., March 6.—Half-defined peace rumors continue to be widely circulated here. The administration admits hearing them, but Secretary Bryan says he does not know of anything concrete on which they could be based. There is a feeling, however, of confidence in administration and diplomatic circles that the war will be over by Aug. 1 and probably several months before.

Germany, officials here point out, has much to trade at present. Practically all of Belgium and much of France are now held by the Germans. If the allies begin their spring campaign before peace negotiations are started and are successful and Germany has to fall back on its frontier lines it will lose what is now a material advantage.

It is believed that the knowledge that Germany realizes this is responsible for much of the present peace talk.

DIES AT CENTURY MARK.

Retired Merchant, 100 Years Old Almost to a Day, Found Lifeless in Bed.

Aaron Saslawsky, 100 years old almost to a day, was found dead in bed yesterday at the home of his grand-daughter, Mrs. L. Lilienthal of 3340 Douglas boulevard. Physicians said his extreme age was the only cause of death.

Mr. Saslawsky belonged to a family of wealthy liquor dealers in Warsaw. He was the only remaining member of his family in Russia when he closed up his affairs in 1885 and came to Chicago. Since that time he has devoted himself largely to church affairs and charitable enterprises.

He is survived by a son, Nathan Saslawsky; eleven grandchildren, and thirteen great-grandchildren.

CATHOLIC STENOGRAPHERS PLAN FUND FOR CHAPEL.

Typists of U. S. Start Movement to Collect Contributions for Gift to the Church.

Stenographers of the United States who are members of the Roman Catholic church are to unite in building a chapel, according to an announcement from the Catholic Church Extension society.

Father E. Ledvina said yesterday the idea came from a letter written by a stenographer in Boston, who made the first contribution of $1, and suggested that stenographers from all sections be requested to contribute.

"The plan will undoubtedly be successful," Father Ledvina said, "because there are so many stenographers, and $500, which is necessary to make a chapel possible, although this is not enough to build one, can soon be collected."

Each stenographer sending $1 will be given a vote towards naming the chapel.

Father Ledvina said that school teachers and mail carriers had each contributed towards a similar project, and that several chapels had been built by gifts from the children, in some instances by simply the gift of pennies.

HAMMOND WOULD BAR WAR.

World Court to Settle Disputes Advocated by Him and Dr. John Wesley Hill.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 7.—Abolition of war by means of an international supreme court, a project in which the United States is to take the initiative before the present European struggle is definitely concluded, was advocated by John Hays Hammond and Dr. John Wesley Hill at a massmeeting on international peace at Immanuel Presbyterian church tonight. Mr. Hammond is chairman of the world court committee and vice president of the international peace forum, while Dr. Hill is president of the organization.

SOCIALIST WRITER BLAMES "SYSTEM" FOR COSTLY WAR.

Charles Edward Russell Praises Belgium for Refusal to Agree to Territory Division.

Charles Edward Russell, magazine writer and Socialist, in a lecture on "Lessons of the War" at Power's theater yesterday, laid the cause of the war on "the system."

He declared that the whole cost of the Thirty Years war, which it took 200 years to pay for, was equivalent to only four days' expenses in the present war, and the cost of the Napoleonic wars to only one month of the present war.

Mr. Russell said the invasion of Belgium had been planned as far back as 1913, and that Germany had planned to give Belgium a slice of northern France in compensation for territory to be seized to give Germany a port on the Atlantic.

"The offer was made to Belgium and was refused by this Spartan among nations," said Mr. Russell. "Civilization will not be content with any termination of this war that does not return to Belgium every inch of her original territory."

THREE PRIZE MEN FROM ILLINOIS IN LAST CONGRESS

Stone, Mann, and Foster on the Job; Some Absent from 20 to 52 of 71 Days' Session.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Three members of the Illinois delegation served through the third session of the Sixty-third congress without missing a day at work. Two of these members also served through the session without missing a single roll call.

On the other hand, a number of the Illinois congressmen were absent all the way from twenty to fifty-two of the seventy-one days congress was in session. The house had ninety-eight roll calls.

To Congressman Stone of Peoria goes the high honors in point of faithfulness in attendance upon his work here. Mr. Stone on March 4 completed his second term as a member of congress, and in that time he has not missed a single day at work or a single roll call in the house.

Mann and Foster on Job.

During the session just closed, Minority Leader Mann of Chicago and Congressman Foster of Olney ran him a close second. Mr. Mann was present every day and answered every roll call. Mr. Foster was present every day but missed three roll calls.

The senate was in session sixty-nine days and had 244 roll calls, mostly on points of no quorum. Senator Sherman was absent fifteen days because of illness and missed 115 roll calls. Senator Lewis was absent thirty-two days because of illness and missed 214 of the 244 roll calls. His illness came during the filibuster on the ship purchase bill, when there were a great number of roll calls.

Record of House Members.

The record for the members of the house follows:

	Roll calls missed	Days absent.		Roll calls missed	Days absent.
Baltz	83	16	Hoxworth	67	52
Borchers	11	7	McAndrews	7	5
Britten	37	20	McKenzie	19	6
Buchanan	14	6	Madden	13	4
Fitz Henry	8	2	O'Hair	50	24
Foster	3	0	Rainey	19	10
Fowler	15	6	Sabath	69	29
Gallagher	19	11	Stone	0	0
Gorman	72	29	Stringer	13	8
Graham	25	12	Tavenner	14	8
Hill	16	5	Thomson	23	9
Hinebaugh	48	22	Williams	11	5

Representative Copley of Aurora had a leave of absence for the time he was away, as Mrs. Copley was dangerously ill. Representative Hoxworth of Rapatee also had leave of absence because of illness. Mr. Hoxworth during the entire Sixty-third congress passed only about two months in Washington.

Representatives Sabath and Gorman of Chicago passed the greater part of January and February in Chicago because of the mayoralty primary.

NAVY LEAGUE APPROVES ACTION FOR RESERVES.

Declares Program Adopted by Congress on Number of Vessels Inadequate, However.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—The Navy league of the United States today issued a statement which partly approves and partly disapproves the naval appropriation bill passed in the last hours of congress.

"That the American people have awakened to the vital need of an adequate and efficient navy is demonstrated," the statement says, "by the action of congress in connection with the naval appropriation bill.

"The creation of a reserve of enlisted men is a wise provision, since it assures the continued connection with the navy of trained men and their incorporation into service in time of war. It is believed that at least 25,000 men will accept the benefits of this provision.

"The increase of the navy by two dreadnaughts, six destroyers, two seagoing submarines, sixteen coast defense submarines, and aircrafts, for which $1,000,000 is authorized, is inadequate. We have neutral rights, long coast lines, the Panama canal, and outlying dependencies to defend. The navy should be provided with a sufficient force to permit a proper defense."

GOETHALS WILL RETIRE WITHIN THE NEXT YEAR.

Announces He Has Requested to Be Relieved—Criticizes Inattention to Canal Employes.

Panama, March 7.—Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals, governor of the Panama canal zone, in a speech last night at the annual banquet of the Society of the Chagres, announced his probable retirement as governor within a year. He said he had requested that he be relieved in favor of a younger man and that the request undoubtedly would be granted.

Maj. Gen. Goethals declared he had been opposed to his promotion, together with other officers, when civilian canal employés had been overlooked.

In the course of his speech the governor said he had opposed charging employés rent for their living quarters.

ASK BRYAN TO GET FIBER FREE

Harvester Company Wants 100,000 Sisal Bales Now Held in Yucatan.

Edgar A. Bancroft, attorney for the International Harvester company, will appear before officials of the state department in Washington today to urge some action on the part of the government to obtain the shipment of 100,000 bales of sisal fiber in the Mexican port of Progreso.

The International Harvester company some months ago purchased the sisal fiber which is used in making binder twine, but Carranza closed the port before the fiber could be shipped out.

Carranza Stands Firm.

Attorney Bancroft took up the question of the shipment with the state department several days ago, and Secretary Bryan protested to Carranza. The Mexican chieftain replied that inasmuch as the people of Yucatan, in which is located the port of Progreso, had rebelled against the Carranza rule, he could not permit the opening of the port.

Again the state department urged the opening of the port for the shipment of the sisal fiber, but no reply has been received from Carranza.

The harvester company is willing to divide its supply with the other twine factories of the United States to keep the factories open and the men at work.

Prison Plants Protest.

The managers of the prison plants in Michigan and Indiana also have protested against the Carranza embargo on the fiber. The bulk of the sisal fiber used in the manufacture of binder twine in the United States has been obtained from the province of Yucatan.

It is possible to obtain a small supply of hemp fiber from Kentucky and Manila, but manufacturers say much grain will be harvested without binding if some agreement is not made with Carranza for the exportation of the Yucatan supply.

AUTOMOBILE ROW TO PAY TRIBUTE TO "PETE" ESTEY

All Business to Cease for One Hour During Funeral of Examiner Editor.

F. L. Estey, automobile publicity man and automobile editor of the Examiner, died Saturday in the Harper hospital in Detroit. He was attacked with pneumonia a week before his death. Mr. Estey, or "Pete," as he was known to his friends in the automobile business, was one of the first men to recognize the future for automobiles. He is said to have been the first automobile press agent.

Mr. Estey was born forty-six years ago. He came to Chicago when he was 24 years old, and secured a position in the clerical department of Armour & Co. Clerical work did not agree with him, so he went to Massachusetts. Nearly twelve years ago he started writing for the Chicago Journal.

Joseph Ryan's Partner.

His stories appeared under the name, "Pipe-line Pete." That is where he acquired his nickname. When automobiles were in the experimental stage he formed a partnership with the late Joseph E. G. Ryan and entered the automobile publicity business.

A year later he was engaged as advertising and publicity manager of the Studebaker company. He made a name for himself by the large amount of free publicity he secured for his company. At the time of the Philadelphia automobile show he was sick in bed and couldn't attend to the publicity work of the company he represented.

Gets Space by Joke.

He had an assistant telephone to every newspaper in the city that he had a large amount of advertising he wanted placed in their respective papers. His room was soon crowded and when the press representatives saw the humor of the situation they took it good naturedly and "Pete" received more publicity than any other individual at the show.

About six years ago he became automobile editor of the Chicago Examiner. In this capacity he made many friends along automobile row. For one hour on Wednesday every automobile salesroom, shop, and garage along the row will close as a tribute to Mr. Estey.

Henry J. Schoff of Oak Park Ends Life by Cutting His Throat with Razor.

Henry John Schoff, 82 years old, 223 Ontario street, Oak Park, father of Fire Chief Herman Schoff of Oak Park, and a native of Germany, committed suicide early yesterday by cutting his throat with a razor.

"Father had been in ill health and I don't think his mind was just right, because he had talked about suicide for the last two years," said Chief Schoff.

Mr. Schoff went to Oak Park in 1904 immediately after coming to this country. He retired from the trucking business eighteen years ago.

RICE HUNTED BY POLICE COUNSEL?

HOYNE'S MEN ALERT.

Charles E. Erbstein, attorney for Lieut. John H. Tobin and Thomas Kerwin in the cases involving alleged police graft, departed for the west last night on a mysterious mission. After a conference with some of his clients, the attorney left suddenly.

It was reported he had gone to a town where Ed Rice is supposed to be staying until the trial of the policemen is called.

Confession Worries Them.

Rice's confession is known to have disconcerted the indicted policemen more than any evidence which State's Attorney Hoyne has uncovered since he started the police investigations.

There is little chance, it is said, that Erbstein will connect with Rice, because he is closely guarded by detectives from the state's attorney's office. It was also reported that a meeting with Willard Powell, "the Waco Kid," might be the mission of the attorney.

State's Attorney Hoyne will arrived at his office this morning for the first time since the primaries.

May Testify at Once.

He will turn his attention to the police cases and it is possible Rcie will be called before the grand jury to repeat the confession which he gave to the state's attorney and his secretary, Edward J. Fleming, some time ago.

The preparation of the cases against the policemen already has been started. Lieut. Tobin or Kerwin, the saloon keeper, probably will be placed on trial first. Attorney Erbstein will defend Tobin and Kerwin and John E. Northup, special state's attorney in the vote fraud cases a year ago, will defend Capt. John J. Halpin and Walter O'Brien.

Friend of Busse Taken by Death.

PAUL REDIESKE

SPRINGFIELD 'DRY AS BONE'; ONE SALOON OPENS; CLOSED.

Liquor Dealer "Took a Chance" Only to Be Arrested Under Sheriff Wheeler's Order.

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—For the first time in eight years Springfield today experienced a "dry" Sunday.

With one exception all of the saloons in the city were closed. Joseph Botwinis, who keeps a bar near the state fair grounds, was the only keeper arrested for violation of Sheriff Wheeler's order.

The liquor dealers' organization, comprising most of the saloonkeepers of the city, having decided to make no fight against the sheriff's order, independent saloon men did not care to take the chance on opening.

PAUL REDIESKE, BUSSE AID, DEAD

ONCE RULED ZION CITY.

Paul Redieske, deputy commissioner of public works under the Busse administration, died last night in his residence at 155 Carl street. He had been ill since Tuesday, a severe cold having developed into pneumonia.

Assistant Ruler of Zion City.

Mr. Redieske was appointed to the department of public works by the late Mayor Busse in April, 1907. He had previously come into some prominence as custodian and assistant ruler of Zion City when the Dowie enterprise was under federal receivership, and had also been superintendent of Lincoln park and north town collector.

In January, 1910, he became the central figure in the "shale scandal" which developed out of the Merriam commission's report on the payment of $45,984 bonus to Contractor M. H. McGovern, and he resigned "under fire."

Close Friend of Busse.

He had been for many years a close personal and political friend of Mr. Busse.

Since his retirement from public life he has been connected with the American Asphalt Paving company.

MISS JANE ADDAMS SEES AMERICA SWAYING EARTH.

Head of Hull House Points Out Chance to Unify Opinion of Foreign Population.

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—"This century has been called by many people the century of the child," Miss Jane Addams of Hull house, Chicago, said at the Free Synagogue in Carnegie hall today. She spoke on "War and Social Service."

"Judges and jurists are trying to catch the child criminal earlier and earlier," she said, "that criminality finally may be abolished. It will go on until we shall feel that all over the earth the only rivalry among the peoples is from one generation to another to make each better and finer.

"How widespread among our immigrants is the talk of conditions in Europe. If we can make them understand that we are interested for the peace and happiness of all, we shall have taken advantage of this opportunity to forge a public opinion that will be much more international than could be wrought by any other nation in the world.

"Out in Chicago we started a Boy Scouts company. It had no guns; I wouldn't tolerate rifles. But they were boy scouts. The Russian Jews withdrew their boys at once, and others did likewise, saying: 'We came to America to get rid of this militarism. We don't want our boys contaminated with the military drill.'

"We got one proof after another that the various peoples were prejudiced against militarism. In this present conflict in Europe we realize that never before has the brutality of war so revealed itself.

"The great opportunity of America is to utilize the immigrant population to form a humanitarian sentiment so strong that it will make itself felt in the uttermost ends of the earth."

Owen R. Lovejoy, general secretary of the national child labor committee, spoke on "The War on the Child."

Periscope Plays Important Part in Modern Land and Water Warfare.

EYES OF THE GERMAN ARMY—The officer is hidden completely behind a haystack and is using a periscope field glass for watching the effect of artillery fire.

HYPOSCOPE IN USE IN FRENCH TRENCHES—This picture gives an excellent idea of the value of the periscope under actual war conditions. It permits the soldier to remain in security from direct rifle fire and watch the enemy in the opposing trench.

SPECTACLE MAKER PERMITS MODERN MILITARY METHODS

THE spectacle maker has made modern warfare possible.

He has given the submarine eyes so that it can see above water, while the torpedo laden craft is safely under water.

He has brought the enemy close up with the field glass and telescope so that he cannot find safety beyond the vision of the naked eye and can destroy his opponent with long range fire.

He has made it possible to see around corners. In the lines of trenches in France and Belgium, which are being drawn closer and closer, he has made it possible for the opposing sides to watch the enemy and not be seen.

He has made it possible for a soldier to aim his rifle without exposing any part of his body, not even the top of his head or eye.

Instead of raising his head above the breastworks the present day soldier puts his periscope or hyposcope, as the land instrument is called to distinguish it from that used on the submarine, and which can be turned to every angle of the horizon, above the top of the trench, and gets a clear view of what is going on in front of his position.

Field glasses and telescopes are also equipped in the same manner and instead of looking directly at the image, the military observer of today looks at it through a series of prismatic mirrors and lenses or in the simpler instrument, plain mirrors. A haystack, a tree, a little tuft of shrubbery will conceal the observer and only the small opening of the periscope or hyposcope will be in the line of vision of the enemy.

The fundamental principle of all these devices was discovered in the sixteenth century by Giovanni Battista della Porto, a Neapolitan. He had noticed that when his window shades were drawn almost to the bottom to exclude the bright sunlight, objects passing in the street below were clearly depicted with all their colors upon the ceiling of his room, but in an inverted position.

That gave him an idea for a little toy, known as the "camera obscura," in which he developed the natural principle that light travels in a straight line and bears with it the color of the object from which it is reflected. He overcame the inversion of the image by a system of mirrors and lenses, which today in all essentials is the periscope and hyposcope of modern land and naval warfare.

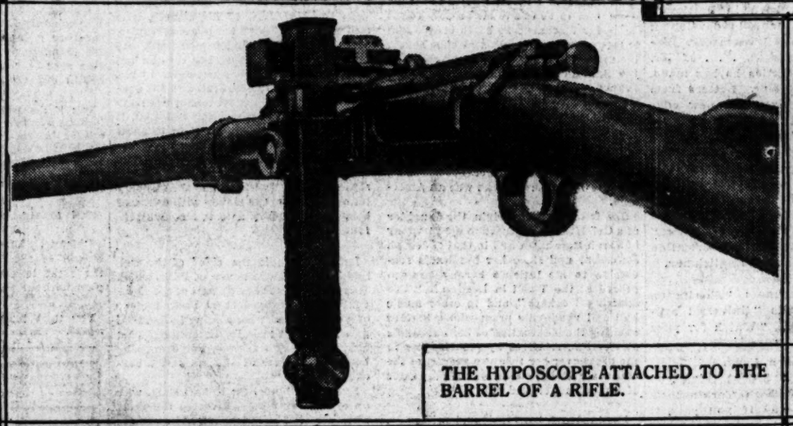

The object to be gained in all these devices is to see what is going on and still keep out of sight. A description of the elementary periscope of the submarine will illustrate readily enough how a simple apparatus may be operated from below the ridge of the trenches. When the submarine is submerged a tube is left protruding above the surface of the water. At the top of the tube is a cylinder which, by manipulating a button below, may be turned in any direction, sweeping the surface of the water.

This cylinder contains on its face a convex lens; within, a mirror, and at its base a concave lens. Thus the rays of light bearing the images of the objects from which they are reflected enter the cylinder through the convex lens and are reflected downward by means of the mirror through the concave lens upon a white surface in a darkened chamber beneath, where sits the observer. As this surface is marked with perspective lines it becomes perfectly plain that, the size of the object being known—a battleship, for instance—its distance from the submarine may be easily calculated. Hence the periscope of the submarine also performs the office of range finder.

The simplest form of periscope or hyposcope used in the trenches is an oblong box held at the bottom by the hand. There are no lenses. The light enters at the side near the top and the images carried with its rays are reflected by a mirror downward upon a white surface at the bottom of the box, where they are observed by the holder looking through carefully shaded eye holes.

These hyposcopes can be used in connection with field glasses, giving the observer a greater range of vision and a concentration of images.

There is also a hyposcope that fits the soldier's rifle stock with which he is able to aim at an enemy while his eye and head are concealed below the trench or breastwork. This device is the invention of William Youlton, an Englishman. Some excellent rifle scores have been made by marksmen using hyposcopes, but there have been no reports that Gen. Kitchener's men are using them in the trenches in France and Belgium.

GERMAN OBSERVER WITH RANGE PERISCOPE.—The Germans have specially built hyposcopes, built much after the plan of the submarine periscope. The top of the tube is carried to a height of 30 or 40 feet along side of a steel pillar, attached to a special carriage. The tube can be turned to all angles and the widest range of vision is possible.

HOW MUCH LONGER?

Senate Democrats who are in grief because the committee in charge of the recount of ballots in the Oak Park and Englewood districts is suspected of shuffling and dawdling with a purpose will be pained to learn that a motive for this is within the reach of an active suspicion.

This is the third session of the assembly since the last census. It has been obligatory upon the legislature since the census—the obligation not being enforcible—to reapportion the state into new congressional and senatorial districts. It has not been done because a majority could not be organized into agreement.

This year the Republicans have control of the house. If the Democrats could have the two seats in the senate which are in dispute in the recount—and which Democratic state officials tried to fill with Democrats—they would control the senate. The assembly, thus divided, would fail again to reapportion the state.

If the suspicions awakened by Democratic tactics do the senate Democrats an injustice let them consider what a glorious and reasonable injustice it is. Two or three Democratic senators have balked, to their credit, at the party program in the upper chamber, even as two Democratic state officials balked at the plan of the state canvassing board; but the fact remains that the legislature assembled in the first week of January and this is the second week in March, and the men elected in the Oak Park and Englewood districts have not been seated yet.

A WEEK OF QUIET AND REASSURANCE.

From a commercial and industrial point of view the best features of the week were negative. The attitude of somewhat anxious waiting underwent no change, but no news was regarded as good news. There were no serious developments in the maritime war, and in Wall street, at any rate, the feeling was that the "crisis is approaching rapidly"—to quote an intelligent chronicler of events—and that the end of the struggle seemed nearer than it did a few weeks ago. Several occurrences in the stock market and in foreign exchange were held to confirm this vague view.

Another event of the week that caused business to heave a profound sigh of relief was the adjournment of what the president has called the "great congress." Great or not, the country was tired of this congress, and the latter knew it and was glad to make its farewell bow. The talk about embargoes and government shipping legislation could not fail to affect business adversely. Now that no one even suggests an extra session, the menace of half baked and hysterical "war" legislation is removed indefinitely.

In the steel trade moderate improvement has continued. The ingot mold demand—a good barometer—is big, and the tone of the steel trade organs is distinctly optimistic.

The foreign trade figures for February, a short month, are as satisfactory in their way as were those for January. Another record breaking excess of exports is registered—the official estimates placing it at over $120,000,000, against an excess of but $23,800,000 for February of last year. Little gold has been imported, but there is evidence of steady foreign selling of our securities. The huge balances are enabling us to absorb these securities and to emphasize the strength and independence of the United States in new directions. The business in "foreign acceptances"—totally new to us, but a business that is certain to grow even after the war, for it is thoroughly sound and represents exports and imports of commodities—by the banks may be bracketed with the business of financing foreign municipalities and corporations that formerly looked to England for such accommodation.

True, all this is but partial compensation for the losses inflicted on our trade and commerce by the war, but partial compensation is better than none. Moreover, the approach of spring is reviving the building and structural trades, and employment agencies in several cities are reporting an increased demand for labor. The railroads are buying more freely.

Altogether, the trend continues to be upward, and in spite of the uncertainties of the war there is every reason for confidence and courage on the part of our manufacturers and capitalists. As a leading Boston financier has said, the American man of affairs who displays a little boldness now, relying on the home market and on such foreign trade as can't help coming to us, will have no occasion to regret his slight "psychological" contribution to national prosperity.

WILD LIFE IN EUROPE.

Observers in rural England are commenting upon the unexpected prolificacy of bird life. Even in the north of England and along the border numerous wintering colonies were found where few were disclosed in other winters. One writer in a half hour's walk observed woodpeckers, blue tits, bramble-finches, hedge sparrows, goldfinches, wrens, robins, missel thrush, starlings, blackbirds, and bullfinches. In Northumberland he found fieldfares and red wings plentiful and in Berwickshire finches, snow buntings, lapwings, twites and rock-pipits numerous.

The query is: Has the war driven the birds to sanctuary? Other than the wintering birds seek Spain, the south of France, and the Mediterranean littoral and there seems to be no reason why the north of France should offer many more comforts, in normal times, to the birds than they might find in England. The cannonading in the war area must have caused a feathered exodus which may have been distracted and migration might have been deflected from its usual courses.

The French, knowing what inroads may be made upon the wild life in the regions subjected to war, are wisely preserving it by rigorous rules, and no hunting is permitted. English officers, to whom a violation of game laws must represent a high social misdemeanor, have caused some sharp comment, mostly in English papers, by disregarding or failing to understand the prohibitions.

The ravages of last year and this might easily make wild life extinct in areas of Europe.

FOR A NEW CONSTITUTION.

The plan to bring the resolution for a constitutional convention to the early attention of the general assembly is wise. If its advocates are able to separate it from the general run of legislation and bring it to the front when the assembly is not deeply involved in the questions of a thousand and one bills the chance for unprejudiced hearings will be better.

A subject so much debated will not make excessive demands on the time of the assembly. The decision is already in the minds of the legislators. There is no question of details to determine. It is the simplest form of a legislative issue. Shall the people of the state decide whether they want a new constitution or not? A negative vote is merely a denial of the right of the commonwealth to determine such a question.

Voters are now middle aged who were born when the Illinois constitution was adopted. If that constitution admittedly were free from defects its continuance in effect might not concern them, but admittedly it is full of defects, and they have a right to demand of their representatives that the question of change be referred to them.

For the legislature to refuse would be simply to avoid a responsibility of the plainest, most insistent kind.

THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION.

It is natural, we suppose, when prominent citizens take up a project which they hope will focus the eye of the world upon it, which will involve great effort and expenditure, which will illustrate vast activities and express high ideals, that they should give the enterprise a resounding, mouth-filling title.

When Chicago undertook to celebrate the four hundredth anniversary of the landing of Columbus and at the same time show the world what Chicago could do, the project was called, if memory of the full official name is correct, the World's Columbian exposition. And now we are invited by San Francisco to attend the Panama-Pacific International exposition, and by San Diego to attend the San Diego Panama-California exposition.

This is the grandiloquent self-indulgence of laymen. If these attractive entertainments were organized by professional showmen they would not be handicapped with a name which no one will bother repeating. Something brief and vivid for effective advertisement would be adopted, something that could be passed from mouth to mouth without a gymnastic exercise.

Of course the public does this promptly for itself. The World's Columbian exposition blazed on official stationery. The people called it the Fair, or the World's Fair. They will make short work of the Panama-Pacific International exposition in the same way. Perhaps to the annoyance of San Franciscans who do not like the nickname, they will call it the Frisco Fair. Certainly they will get rid of the pompous "exposition," and why should Pacific be dragged into the title? There is no Panama-Atlantic fair, and it is assumed that the enterprise is international in its display of foreign art and merchandise.

Ink and effort would have been saved by selecting an official title which was short, dignified, and yet expressive. The Panama Fair, it seems, to us, would have had all these qualifications.

POLITICS AND HONEST POVERTY.

If there is a college president in the country who has horse sense and intellectual vigor that president is Dr. Hadley of Yale. How astonished one was, therefore, to encounter a news report setting forth alleged warnings by Dr. Hadley to students of small means against going into politics, warnings based on the danger of temptation and surrender to more or less subtle forms of corruption.

As a matter of fact, Dr. Hadley never said that only men and women of independent means should "go into politics," and that poor men should solemnly resolve to keep out of public life. Such advice would be undemocratic and reactionary, as Dr. Hadley's critics say, but do they suppose that they are called upon to tell him that?

What President Hadley said was, as usual, sound, candid, altogether wise and useful. He was discussing "the choice of a career" by young men, and he declared that only men of means might adopt "politics" as such a life career. He did not say that young men should not go into a merit protected service—into the consular field, for example, or into administrative work. That he did not regard as "politics." He did not say that poor men should not make politics a study and avocation, should not, as lawyers, business men, or engineers, take active and earnest part in the work of citizenship. What he said was that poor men could not wisely adopt uncertain, precarious, indeterminate "politics" as a life "profession," for they would be exposed to constant fear of dismissal and constant pressure and pull, and that it was not right or safe to put one's soul and conscience in the way of so much temptation and struggle, especially if one contemplated marriage and family life. What Dr. Hadley said to his students is said every day by wise fathers and mothers, by experienced persons and very good democrats and progressives. It is the simple truth, and truth is not aristocratic or reactionary.

"PROTECTING" AMERICANS.

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

An American landowner, with estates in Mexico, Edwin Chamberlain, recently received word from his foreman at Ceritos, near San Luis Potosi, that the Carranzistas were making enforced levies on his property. He immediately laid the facts before Secretary Bryan, with the hope that Consul Bonney would make it perfectly clear to the Villistas that whatever contributions might have been made by the Chamberlain haciends had been collected by force. Later he received word from Mexico that the Villistas were making reprisals and that the manager of the American's ranch had been executed in cold blood. Appealing to the state department again, he got word that the state department was "making investigations." The "protection" afforded by the administration to Americans seems to be diminishing steadily, as the revolution continues, although the state department continues in amicable—and apparently fruitless—negotiations with all rival factions.

THE SUNSET.

I CANNOT accustom myself to the simplicity
Of the writers of nu-fangld verse;
Pegasus pulling an ice-wagon
Is still strange to me.
I may get used to it in time,
For one gets used to anything,
Doesn't one?
At present I feel something like this:
If I were standing on a hilltop,
Looking at an uncommonly fine sunset,
And regretting my inability to formulate
The thoughts that arise in me—
And Mr. Sandburg, or Mr. Lindsay, or Mr. Pound
Happened to join me,
I should expect him to slap me on the back
In his fine free way, and,
Jerking a thumb toward the sunset,
Remark:
"Say, what do you know about that?"

AND now let the high priests of Apollo seal in a silver jar the Mendelssohn concerto, and bury it beneath the temple, for after hearing Fritz Kreisler play it, we wish never to hear it again, from lesser hands. The whole concert was memorable—despite the fact that, as an esteemed colleague may say, the violin, like the piano, is not a solo instrument.

THE stage setting for concerts nowadays is much more attractive than formerly. In the drawing-room provided yesterday for Mr. Kreisler to play in there was an easy chair by the fireplace L, and a sofa R. To complete the illusion Mr. Kreisler's manager should have sat in the chair and Messrs. Wessels and Voegeli on the sofa.

WHILE we are "criticising" this concert we may as well say that the chrysanthemums on the mantel should have been spring flowers instead.

A POPULAR COLYUMIST.

(W. T. Larned in the March Bookman.)

THIS put him [Henry Louis Mencken, column conductor on the Baltimore Sun] in real fighting trim to turn his siege guns against the foes of Germany. Though born in Baltimore (1880), his forbears had a hand in developing the Universities of Leipsig and Wittemberg. Bismarck's mother was a Mencken. . . . If Mr. Mencken is loved for the enemies he has made, all Baltimore will follow his bier. Letters from Evening Sun readers, attacking him, now constitute a special department of the paper. Its owners have been repeatedly asked to dismiss him; instead, they give him a free hand. The next time some critic of the American press rails in my presence against its unfairness—at "the manipulation of the news" in favor of the Allies—I mean to show him a copy of the Baltimore Evening Sun. And to this exhibit of American liberty of speech, I shall add the information that the owners of that paper are—Englishmen.

INGREDIENTS OF COFFEE.

THE London Lancet for 1913 published the report of a commission that had investigated the effects of coffee. For their chemical analyses the members made use of the brew in the cup rather than the berry. To their minds it mattered little what the berry contained, so long as some of the ingredients remained in the grounds. For instance, coffee berries contain 12 per cent oil, but there is only a very small percentage of oil in a cup of coffee.

Ash of extract. 4.66	Caffein 1.23

A cup of coffee is practically without food value. Analyses show a trifling quantity of dextrin, sugar, and traces of alcohol. There is no starch. It contains 1.25 per cent of protein. There is .6 per cent (six parts in 10,000) of a nitrogen containing oil—caffeol.

However, if coffee without sugar and cream is without nourishing qualities, it does not follow that it is without effect on the system. In the first place there is a considerable percentage of caffein [1.23 per cent], a powerful medicine, the effects of which have been described already. Caffein is closely akin to xanthin, and xanthin is a chemical substance produced in the human body supposed to be related in some way to the cause of gout.

Most analysts are of the opinion that coffee contains a small amount of pyridin. Pyridin is formed when paper is burned. It is held to be the substance responsible for the benefit which asthmatics get from smoking asthma cigarets. When roasted coffee is treated with chloroform a chemical, noncrystalline and nonsoluble in ether, is extracted. It has the strong but pleasant aroma and bitter taste of coffee.

Caffein, pyridin, caffeol and this flavoring substance are responsible for the effects of a cup of coffee.

Coffee taken into the stomach is rather quickly absorbed therefrom. It differs in this particular from tea, since tea is not absorbed until it gets into the small intestines. Therefore, the effects of coffee begin to show themselves after a brief period. The person who has partaken feels the influence within a half hour. Hollingsworth's tests showed effects plain enough to register his subjects in an hour, sometimes less, sometimes more.

On the mind the first effect is drowsiness, quickly followed by wakefulness. The wheels of the mind work easily and truly.

In so far as there is any effect on digestion, coffee is of some slight aid. Especially is this true of the after dinner cup of coffee, taken at the end of a full meal. The stimulating effect of some of the ingredients is somewhat more than an offset to the restraining effect of the caffetannic acid. The great outstanding effect of a cup of coffee, though, is the stimulation to brain, nerves, and muscles—a stimulation without a closely following sagging.

BLOOD AND NERVE TONIC.

G. W. Z. writes: "What do you suggest as a blood and nerve tonic?"

REPLY.

There is no better blood tonic than tincture of iron. A good blood tonic is as good a nerve tonic as you need. The dose of tincture of iron is thirty drops three times a day.

Let me advise you not to put your trust in the indiscriminate use of tonics. If you are simply run down, exercise in the open air, sleep in a well ventilated room, and regulation of the food will do as much for you as will a tonic. If there is something of consequence the matter, time and money should not be wasted on tonics. The basic trouble should be sought out.

TREATMENT FOR COLD.

A. S. writes: "Will you kindly advise me if continual cold in the head is liable to cause deafness? Has the latitude or climate in Chicago a tendency to cause this trouble? I have tried remedy after remedy with no avail."

REPLY.

1. and 2. Yes.

3. No cold remedy is worth trying. Keep out of poorly ventilated places; exercise in the open air. If this does not secure relief have your tonsils, teeth, and nose examined.

RHEUMATISM QUESTION VAGUE.

S. writes: "Is there any doctor in the United States who can cure chronic rheumatism in one who has it inwardly and outwardly from the top of his head to the end of his toes?"

REPLY.

Your question cannot be answered. Your loose description might indicate any one of several conditions. Have a thorough examination, get an accurate diagnosis both as to your disease, its cause, and its stage. Then you will have the basis on which your question can be answered.

PITUITARY GLAND.

J. S. writes: "Will you kindly tell me where the pituitary gland is located and what is its function? If diseased, what would be the symptoms, and, if removed, what would be the effect?

REPLY.

On the under side of the fore part of the brain, back of the eyeball, and directly over the back part of the nasal passage. Its secretion has to do with the growth of the body, especially the bones. But one disease of the pituitary body is recognisable during life. It is known as acromegaly. In this disease the bones enlarge abnormally.

Giants are supposed to have, and in some instances are known to have had, diseased pituitary glands. An extract of the pituitary body is the most powerful known stimulant to the uterine muscle.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright, 1915: By the Brentwood Co.]

LORD HALDON, whose appearance the other day in the bankruptcy court in London was declared by him to be due to his anxiety to get his discharge so as to enable him to recover the commission he once held in the army and to take part as an officer in the fighting against the Germans in France, spent a number of years in the United States as Lawrence Palk, prior to his accession to the peerage in 1906.

Moreover, his wife was at one time well known on the American stage, both under her nom de guerre of "Mlle. Miska" and also under the name of her first husband, the late F. D. Drew, who was an American.

She is of Russian origin, the daughter of a Col. Michie; appeared in the company of Sarah Bernhardt and in that of Joseph Jefferson, and since her husband's succession to his father's barony has appeared at the Tivoli in London in "The Sporting Duchess" and in other music hall and vaudeville productions, besides exciting the indignation of her husband's aristocratic relatives by contributing to the press over her title as a peeress of the realm a glowing eulogy of the properties of a much advertised pill.

Her husband, Lord Haldon, has likewise done something in the latter line, for some years ago he blossomed forth as a promoter of patent medicine concerns of doubtful reputation. He also sent out thousands of circulars, many of them to this country, asking people, on the strength of his being secretary of an enterprise known as "The Artificial Teeth Aid Society, Limited," to buy $250 debentures in this company, which he recommended "conscientiously" as an absolutely safe and bona fide investment.

As he was at that time, and still remains, in the position of an undischarged bankrupt, his recommendations cannot be considered as having been very reliable; and I may add that the company in question, which was formed for the purpose of selling false teeth on the installment plan, and even in renting them out, consisted in the main of a man of the name of F. S. Kennedy, who on several occasions was exposed and held up to obloquy by the late Henry Labouchere in the pages of London Truth.

As an undischarged bankrupt, Lord Haldon is debarred from voting or sitting in the house of lords. This has not, however, prevented him from dating testimonials thence on note paper bearing the royal arms, in which he professes to have been "cured of gouty eczema, after eminent specialists had failed, by the Chemical Blood Manufacturing company," the "company" being practically the same F. S. Kennedy of the Artificial Teeth Aid society.

Lord Haldon is altogether a most unfortunate individual. When he succeeded to his father's peerage he was in jail at Pretoria, in South Africa, charged jointly with two disreputable companions with endeavoring to defraud a man named Cowie by offering him a parcel of glass crystals, alleging them to be diamonds.

Ultimately he was acquitted on the ground that he was a foolish tool rather than a confederate of the gang of swindlers with which he had associated himself. When arrested he was acting as checker and conductor on the railroad at Pretoria, a position which he accepted when literally starving.

He had taken part in the Boer war as an officer in the imperial yeomanry, but at its close was mustered out, and was for a time in a state of complete destitution at Johannesburg and Pretoria, dependent upon small gifts and loans of money.

Some years before succeeding to the title Lord Haldon placed himself in an unenviable position by raising money in London on a note which he had indorsed with the signature of his mother, who still survives, making her home at Naples, and who is wealthy in her own right. He wrote to her informing her that he had been compelled by dire necessity to put her name to the document, and she produced his letter in court rather than pay the note. If no prosecution followed, it was because the evidence went to show that the usurer who had discounted the note had been well aware at the time of the fact that the Dowager Lady Haldon's signature was fictitious, and that he only let her son have the money with a view of being subsequently able to blackmail his family.

Lord Haldon is the chief of the well known Devonshire house of Palk, which was founded in the early part of the eighteenth century by Robert Palk, the son of a carrier, and who, coming to financial grief, went out to India, entered the East India company's service, and eventually became governor of Madras and a baronet.

Returning home, Sir Robert Palk, with an eye to the future, invested the great wealth which he had acquired in India in the purchase of land in and around Torquay and became the principal ground landlord of that prosperous seaside resort. His great-grandson, Sir Lawrence Palk, was the intimate friend and schoolmate of Lord Beaconsfield, who eventually obtained for him a peerage, in compliance, it is said, with a schoolboy pledge by Disraeli that when he himself became prime minister he would obtain a seat for Palk in the house of lords.

It was while staying with Sir Lawrence Palk, afterwards first Lord Haldon, that Lord Beaconsfield, then Benjamin Disraeli, made the acquaintance of the eccentric Mrs. Brydges-William, a rich widow, a daughter of Mendes de Costa, and, like Disraeli, a Jew of Spanish origin. Mrs. Brydges-Williams long entertained a romantic affection for Disraeli, and at her death bequeathed to him a large sum of money, enough to extricate him from his financial embarrassments, stipulating only that she should be buried with him, so that her dust now mingles with his and with that of Lady Beaconsfield in the church yard at Hughenden.

The second and late Lord Haldon, popularly known as "Piggy," spent the greater part of his life in financial straits, and repeatedly appeared in bankruptcy court.

He possessed one very strange peculiarity that contributed not a little to his insolvency. Although reluctant to pay his debts, he was always delighted to pay those of his friends. In fact, he was forever borrowing money, not for the settlement of his own liabilities, but for those of his acquaintances. He used to be the most overdressed man in London, and at no time during his stormy career was his impecuniosity betrayed by the character of his raiment.

Lord Haldon has a son and heir by his Russian and actress wife, bearing the name of the Hon. Lawrence Palk, who has been brought up by his mother on her earnings from the stage. Nineteen years of age, and with a pronounced taste for mechanics and engineering problems, he has obtained a commission as a temporary second lieutenant of the Royal Engineers, as which he is taking part in the operations of the British army against the Germans in France.

NO CAUSE FOR BREAKING LEASE.

Chicago, March 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed a lease for one year for an apartment and would like to know if judgment or suit can be brought against me if the lease is broken after living in the same for a period of seven months. My reason for wanting to leave is due to a nuisance which is being committed in the alley below my window. S. H.

It appears from your statement that you are liable for the rent for the full term of the lease, and the facts which you state do not amount to a cause for breaking the lease. This nuisance should be reported to the police or the health department. In order to move without being liable for rent, you should obtain the consent of the landlord, or see that another tenant goes into possession who pays rent in your place.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PLAN APPEARS TO BE UNLAWFUL.

Chicago, March 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Would it be legal for a manufacturer selling goods to dealers to put a ticket in each package retailing, say for 10 cents, one ticket in 100,000 to be an order for an automobile? V. L.

Under the laws of Illinois the disposing of any property of value by means of a lottery or any form of chance is unlawful and subjects the persons operating the same to a penalty. Your brief statement indicates that this automobile is to be disposed of by chance, and for this reason it appears that the scheme is unlawful.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LANDLORD CAN COLLECT RENT.

Chicago, March 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Kindly inform me whether a landlord can collect rent for his premises while there is a condemnation sign on the building, put up by the health department for repairs. A DAILY READER.

Yes; if the tenant refuses to pay rent the landlord may put him out of possession or bring suit for the rent which is due. The condition of the building might be such that the tenant could move out without further liability for rent, but so long as he stays in possession he is liable. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CAN ENGAGE IN PROFIT SHARING PLAN.

Chicago, March 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Has a business the right to engage in a profit sharing plan without prearrangements? INQUIRER.

Yes; there is no specific regulation in this regard. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEPENDS UPON DIVORCE DECREE.

Chicago, March 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a man sell his property if his wife deserted him for a good cause, and does she share in his property after procuring a divorce? E. J.

The wife has a dower interest in real estate owned by her husband. Whether or not this dower interest is terminated by a divorce depends upon the terms of the divorce decree. Ordinarily if the wife obtains the divorce she is allowed an interest in her husband's property. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

MORTGAGOR MUST APPEAR.

Chicago, March 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to have you advise me if it is necessary for the mortgagor to appear before the filing clerk in the county building or whether the mortgagor, going before a notary and having his signature acknowledged, which gives the mortgagee (or the party selling the goods) power of attorney, to have the mortgage filed without the mortgagor being present. I was advised at one time by the filing clerk that it would be necessary for the mortgagor to appear in person before the filing clerk in order to make the contract binding. A SUBSCRIBER.

The law in reference to a chattel mortgage provides that before the same is recorded it shall be acknowledged by the mortgagor before the clerk of the Municipal court. For many years the clerk has accepted mortgages acknowledged by the mortgagor before a notary public, authorizing some third person to make the acknowledgment before the court clerk. Under a recent decision of the Appellate court acknowledgments by third persons are held invalid. For this reason we advise that the mortgagor appear before the clerk, acknowledging the mortgage.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ACTING AS EXECUTOR OF ESTATE.

Chicago, March 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—What power is given me as the executor of an estate valued at $20,000? T. G.

As executor of this estate, you should retain an attorney to represent you in caring for the necessary court procedure. This attorney will be able to advise you as to your rights and duties. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SECOND HUSBAND NOT LIABLE.

Chicago, March 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man married a widow and later found that she owed a doctor's bill for her former husband's illness. Is the second husband liable for the bill? C. K.

The second husband is not liable for this bill, and his property cannot be attached for the payment of the same.

CONDEMNS MISUSE OF FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

Oskaloosa, Ia., March 5.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Some time ago I noticed an editorial in your paper regarding a misuse of the congressional franking privilege, as applied to distributing political speeches in Illinois. A more flagrant example of this misuse is in evidence at this time. There has been distributed in this community a large number of copies of a speech supposed to have been delivered by the Hon. John D. Works of California in the United States senate on Jan. 5 and 6. This pamphlet is 110 pages long and is purely a harangue in favor of Christian Science.

It does not seem to me that it would be so much a misuse of the franking privilege to distribute political opinions, as they bear some relation to the welfare of the country, but I do believe that the use of this privilege to further the interests of any religious sect at the expense of the public, as is done in this case, is certainly to be condemned, and I hope that you can bring this misuse of the privilege before the public in this light. R. W. BAILY.

APPRECIATES BOOZE ARTICLES.

Chicago, March 6.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Permit the writer to compliment you on the articles you are publishing against the liquor habit. I believe, as one of THE TRIBUNE readers, that the publishing of these articles tends to bring out more vividly than anything else the misery that ensues from a habit of this kind. I am sure that they are of great benefit to the public—particularly to the younger generation. JAMES J. OFLEY.

THINKS PRESS UNJUST TOWARDS GERMANS.

Chicago, March 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Ever since the beginning of the European war the Germans in the United States have been slandered and abused by the English newspapers. Will the people of our great nation or city allow this outrage to continue, and thereby alienate the affections of those good citizens whose veins carry the pure, red German blood, or will they discourage the publication of lies that emanate from British diplomats?

If the United States government will allow its English press to slander its loyal citizens of German origin, what good is there in loyalty? How can the nation expect to remain sound and healthy under such conditions? A READER.

SAYS GERMANY NEVER FAVORED EXPANSION.

Chicago, March 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The article signed by Parker H. Sercombe is too puerile, as far as the expression of intelligent opinion is concerned, to really deserve an answer. At the same time it struck a chord of justice within me and I cannot refrain from replying. To apply to Germany the epithet of "bully" is so contrary to fact and to the history of the last forty years that in itself no other rebuttal is necessary to an expression of opinion such as his.

Germany is the one country of Europe that has not been involved in sanguinary struggles during the last four decades. As a matter of fact, Germany has never been associated with any policy that tended toward territorial aggrandizement. The events of the last seven months have proved that if Germany had not been protected by a military organization that was strong enough to fight the whole of Europe she would now be ground under the heel of Russian despotism.

These arguments are by no means new or original, but the writer of this "bully" argument seems unversed in the elementary principles underlying the war and its issues. Covering his issues under the protest for humanitarianism does not in any way strengthen his attitude, or rather condition, of ignorance of the moral reasons that caused this war. MILTON M. MARKER.

BELIEVES IN DECATUR'S MOTTO.

Chicago, March 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have read with interest the letters of criticism on the use of Decatur's motto on your editorial page, and wish to express a decided objection to the conclusions they have reached respecting it.

When our government decides on a line of procedure towards a foreign nation it becomes the duty of every citizen to support it. The citizen has nothing to do with the right of wrong of the decision. If he opposes the action of his government and gives aid to its enemy he becomes a traitor, no matter how immoral he may have thought his nation to be in her policy. The morality of every question as between our nation and foreign countries is decided for the citizen by the action of the government, and as far as the citizen is concerned our government is always right. SENATE MAY PASS BASIC LAW BILL IN PRESENT WEEK

Success Regarded Certain in Upper Branch, but Outcome in House Is Doubtful.

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—Whether the people of Illinois are to be permitted to vote on the question of a new state constitution probably will be settled, so far as the senate is concerned, this week. Indications are that the proposition will carry in the senate by an overwhelming vote. The outcome in the house is much less certain.

Senator W. Duff Piercy of Mt. Vernon, slated by the Democratic side for the chairmanship of the senate committee on constitutional amendments, made the following statement today:

"I believe the general assembly will soon pass the resolution for a constitutional convention and submit it to the people for their consideration."

Pierson Explains Situation.

Representative Louis J. Pierson of Chicago, president of the Constitutional Convention League of Illinois, who is leading the agitation in the house, said:

"Practically a half century will have elapsed between the creation of the present constitution and the coming into force of the proposed new constitution. In that period vast changes have occurred. Contrast the Chicago of 1870 and the Chicago of today.

"Then after the constitution of 1870 was adopted Chicago was an overgrown country city. Now it is seriously handicapped through the deficiencies of the constitution which was prepared for it, as well as the remainder of the state at that period.

Tells Chicago's Difficulties.

"Under the present restrictions we are compelled to put up with the limited and inferior transportation facilities; we are away behind the times along educational lines; inefficient and unscientific in the method of valuation of property for assessment and collection of taxes; weak and inefficient in various other respects.

"Of the entire population of the state one-third now live in the city of Chicago. In the next fifty years it is likely that the per cent will increase until over one-half the entire population of the state will live in the one city.

"This Chicago population is extraordinarily heterogenous. Many problems of almost world-wide extent are bound up in the life of this wonderful city. Many of these problems have nothing in common with the remainder of the state.

Special Treatment Needed.

"Illinois is a peculiar state, stretching north and south 300 miles. The south half, in customs, habits, climate, and line of thought, is entirely different from Chicago. It is practically a part of 'the old south,' the home of conservatism, thrift, and economy; the people there are determined to limit taxation to the lowest point and willing to get along in 'the old way.'

"Every one in Chicago recognizes the immediate and urgent necessity for a shorter ballot in Cook county, for example, while it may be too short already in some of the remote counties of southern Illinois.

"It is unthinkable that the framework of the government of the state after a lapse of fifty years needs no repairs, no additions, no strengthening of its foundations or sustaining parts."

Speaker Shanahan left last night for Chicago with his work of framing the standing committees of the house so well in hand that he is confident he will be able to lay the complete list before the members when they return to Springfield Wednesday morning.

BULLET HALTS A BURGLAR.

Watchman Wounds Suspect, Probably Fatally, Breaking Into Store.

John Celak, 1311 South Jefferson street, one of four alleged burglars, was shot and probably fatally wounded early yesterday after he and three companions are said to have broken a window in the Twelfth street department store, West Twelfth and South Halsted streets. Louis Kotlarski of 1214 South Union avenue also was arrested. Albert Schmidt of 3242 South Hoyne avenue, a watchman, heard the breaking of the window, pursued and fired on the men.

Mrs. Ellithorpe yesterday said she has been aware of her husband's misconduct for some time, but has never taken any steps towards getting a divorce.

"He deserted us last September," said Mrs. Ellithorpe. "This story about the bad checks is news to me, although I have been informed of his general actions. I am not prepared to say what steps I shall take in respect to him."

'PASTOR' RUSSELL'S PYRAMID THEORY DECRIED AS ABSURD.

The Rev. Albertus Perry of Park Ridge Assails Bible Students' Association Head.

"Pastor" Russell, head of the International Bible Students' association and numerous investment schemes, was denounced for alleged misstatements and absurdities by the Rev. Albertus Perry, pastor of the Federated Churches, Park Ridge, in his sermon yesterday.

"Pastor" Russell makes much of the great pyramid of Egypt as a confirmation of his biblical theories. The Rev. Mr. Perry said that he had personally visited the pyramid and his sermon was based on the results of his personal investigations.

"Pastor Russell affirms," the clergyman said, "that the king's chamber in the great pyramid contains nothing in the way of a casket, mummy, or inscription. I measured, however, an empty granite sarcophagus there which was seven and a half feet long by three and a half feet in height and width. I also saw inscriptions of the name of Chufer or Cheops.

"The absurd claim put forth by Pastor Russell is that the pyramid reveals the time of the second coming of Christ in 1874 and the end of the rule of imperfect men in 1914. Russell fixed his dates by saying that every inch of space in measuring the passageways indicates a year in time. By a show of wisdom he is deceiving persons of good intentions who do not possess a knowledge of facts with which to refute his absurdities."

PICKS DATE FOR CONFERENCE ON SOUTH AMERICA

Wilson Selects May 10 for Trade Meeting of Officials at Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—President Wilson has selected Monday, May 10, as the date for the Pan-American financial conference in this city, at which the ministers of finance and leading bankers of Central and South American countries will meet financiers and treasury officials of the United States to discuss the establishment of more satisfactory financial and commercial relations between the nations of the western hemisphere.

Republics Favor Conference.

In a statement announcing the date tonight, Secretary McAdoo said all of the foreign governments had responded favorably when approached informally regarding the conference, and that formal invitations would be sent them immediately. Congress authorized the conference and appropriated $50,000 for expenses.

The secretary of commerce will be asked to attend the conference, and also the members of the federal reserve board. The secretary of state and all other members of the cabinet will be asked to participate in the deliberations. A similar invitation will be extended to the diplomatic representatives of the various Central and South American countries accredited to Washington, and to John Barrett, director of the Pan-American union.

Laments Ship Bill's Defeat.

"The only disappointment in connection with this conference arises out of the failure of the shipping bill," Secretary McAdoo said today. "It was a measure which had particuarly in view the establishment of suitable steamship facilities to leading South American countries.

"It is a significant fact that our exports to South America reached the lowest point for the year 1914, in the months of October, November, and December, when they were reduced to less than one-half of those for the same months of 1913. This decline is in great measure due to the scarcity of ships and the exhorbitant rates of freight now being charged."

The conference is expected to emphasize the necessity for the creation of an American merchant marine, Mr. McAdoo says.

DEFENDS TARIFF AFTER INQUIRY

Federal Expert Says New Schedules Did Not Cause Loss of Trade.

INCREASE IN WORKERS.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—Results of the first investigation ordered by the department of commerce to determine the effect of the new tariff upon industry were made public tonight by Secretary Redfield in the form of a report by D. M. Barclay, commercial agent of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, on industrial conditions in Montgomery county, Pennsylvania.

The report showed, the secretary said in a letter of transmittal to President Wilson, that the effect of the tariff on manufacturing establishments of Montgomery county was negligible, and that conditions complained of there were due to "injurious trade customs" and "unintelligent competition in some lines."

Merchants Make Complaint.

In December the Montgomery County Manufacturers' association wrote to President Wilson complaining that conditions in its section were deplorable as a result of the depressing effect of the new tariff on industry.

Mr. Barclay was sent soon afterward to make a thorough investigation. He inspected and reported on thirty plants, including textile factories, lumber mills, and iron and steel works.

More Spent on Improvements.

According to the report, there was a falling off in the number of men employed in some of the plants, but more than the average amount of money had been spent in improvements during the last year. The inspector found the banks of the community in good condition, and a substantial increase in property values was reported.

The management of half of the establishments visited, the report said, admitted that the tariff could not affect them.

Compared with 5,890 employés in the thirty plants a year ago, at the time of the investigation 4,629 were employed

CAFE FOOD SERVICE HERE CALLED BEST IN WORLD.

Swiss Caterer Investigating Methods of Feeding on Large Scale Praises Cleanliness and Food.

Cleanliness, rapidity, and wholesomeness of both food and service of Chicago restaurants and cafés were pronounced to be the best in the world by Felix Gerard of Berne, Switzerland, at the Hotel La Salle yesterday.

He says he represents a syndicate of European food manufacturers and caterers, and is in this country to investigate the methods of buying, baking, and preparing food in large quantities at the lowest possible cost.

"The service of American restaurants," he said, "has attracted the attention of European authorities, who recognize the great value of feeding cheaply and rapidly millions of noncombatants now facing short rations and hunger in war stricken Europe.

"I have inspected the larger restaurants of New York and yesterday inspected a north side comissary of a Chicago lunchroom company, a place that I find to be the last word in hygiene and economy in cookery."

first, but finally admitted the detective. Young Carlson was standing near an upper window in his night clothes, ready to jump when the detectives seized him. Springer was found in the attic of his home.

Litzinger nearly eluded the police. He was sleeping with his 6 year old brother. When he heard the detectives enter he slit the side of the mattress and crawled in. He was found in the mattress underneath the smaller boy, who was still asleep.

Sullivan sat all day in the captain's office as women called at the station to identify him and his companions. He seemed to enjoy the situation, and the other boys listened with rapt attention as he told the story of their escapades.

Story of Escapades.

"I worked in a factory until three days before we first went out robbing," said Sullivan. "We took a small car a week ago Wednesday from in front of the Blackstone hotel and drove out south. This machine was too slow for me. I like them fast. Out south we saw a bigger and a faster car, so we ditched the little car and got into the big one and took a ride over the boulevards. We got a little over a dollar that night.

"You see, I was working in a factory, and my cousin comes up and swipes me over the neck with a brush of white lead. I got sore and we had a scrap, and my cousin got me fired. It is all my old man can do to keep my mother and the rest. When I didn't have no more money I had to go out and get some, didn't I? Well, I know how to run a car, and that's how it happened, see? All the other guys are chauffeurs, too. We learned to run machines by hanging around garages. It ske natural to machinery and that's why I drove."

Robber a Gay Little Boy.

"Last Thursday morning, about 9:30 o'clock, to begin with, cap," he said, "Litzinger and Carlson and I took a run over to Thirty-fifth and Halsted streets. From there we went downtown. We went up in the Boys' court to hear some of the cases and stayed there until the bailiff chased us all out. Then we went up to room 1006, I think, in the city hall, and there we watched the moving pictures that the censor board 'guys' were looking at. We stayed there until we got chased out.

"Then we went down in an elevator and we walked around the loop and over to Michigan avenue and back until we came to the Stock Exchange building, where we saw a Franklin six. We looked around to see where the man who owned the machine was first. We thought he was in a little office in Frank's insurance place.

"We Were Off."

"I got into the machine and started her up. She was some car, cap, too. The other two fellows jumped in and we were o... We drove south and had to stop at the crossing when we came to Adams street. Then I drove west on Adams street to Canal street and over Canal street clear out to Twenty-second street, and then over to Thompson and Taylor street, where we picked up 'Jim' Springer. That was about 12:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

"Then the four of us went out Twenty-second street to Western avenue, and over Western avenue north to Belle Plaine avenue, where we started the first 'snatch' (snatching a purse).

Make First "Snatch."

"Litzinger jumped out of the car while I slowed her up, and Litzinger made a 'snatch' of 90 cents, after which we went east on Belle Plaine avenue. Some lad tried to get on the automobile, but I speeded up, cap, and shook away from him, and we went east of Western avenue.

"We went another block east to the railroad tracks and then south along a street alongside the elevated railroad until we came to the next car line, and then we turned west of the car line for a couple of blocks, and then over south on a street until we got around West Lake street, about the 3400 block. Over there Springer jumped out and made a 'snatch.'

"The 'snatch' was for a dollar in small change, and then we went over to Sears, Roebuck & Co.'s place, and then I drove out to Austin, speeding her up. In Austin we missed a 'snatch' and got another 'snatch' for $10.

Begin to "Miss."

"Then we missed another 'snatch' somewhere in Austin, Litzinger and Springer both making a miss. Then we went zigzag all the way out to the south side, 'Cap,' until we hit about Sixty-fourth street and Yale avenue, when we made a double 'snatch.' Carlson made a 'snatch' of 72 cents and Litzinger made a miss, but Litzinger tried it again and made a 'snatch' for 75 cents.

"From there we zig-zagged over to Fifty-first street and Racine avenue and then came north to about Sixty-first street, and then we turned over to Loomis street and went down that to Fifty-eighth and Loomis.

Girl Next Victim.

"Over there we made a 'snatch' from a girl, Springer making the grab. Then we went down about three blocks on Loomis street to about Fifty-sixth street, then went west on Fifty-sixth street to around Paulina street and made one attempt at a 'snatch' and missed.

"Then we went around to Fifty-eighth and Marshfield, and then we came west on Fifty-ninth street to Justine, and then went south on Justine to between Fifty-third and Fifty-fourth street, where the machine began to slow down. I guess she was getting out of 'gas,' Cap, or something, because I couldn't get the speed I wanted. Well, when she began to die out for speed we gave her up and escaped by jumping out and running through a bunch of yards."

I'm a Big Man, I Am.

"You certainly gave that machine a run, didn't you?" exclaimed the captain.

"O, I don't think there is a liver chauffeur in Chicago than me. Give me a good car, Cap, and no motocycle policeman you've got around here can come within a mile of me."

Just then Motorcycle Policeman Edward Smith, who chased the boys and fired at them until his motorcycle was put out of commission by trying to follow them over a prairie, walked into the room.

"We nearly got you, we did," sang out Litzinger, who recognized him. "If you had come any closer we'd have got you sure."

Ready to "Spill" Him.

Smith grinned and admitted he almost had fallen into the trap. He explained to the captain he was driving at fifty miles an hour when he closed in on the machine but did not take a chance of coming alongside.

"I was all ready to spill you the minute you'd get close enough," put in Sullivan. "You are sure some wise copper."

"Was you shooting to hit me, or shooting in the air?" asked Litzinger.

"I was after you," said Smith.

"Well, you almost got me when you got to that barn," returned the boy. "You thought I run inside, but I didn't. I went around to the back and was over the fence by the time you got there."

"Sure, We Know Webb."

Capt. Cronin asked them if they knew Webb, the auto highwayman now in Joliet penitentiary.

"Sure we know Webb," said Litzinger. "We used to hear him talking down at Thirty-first streeet. He was some boy, he was."

"Yes, Ray Mann, who drove Webb's car, was a friend of mine," said Sullivan. "He couldn't drive with me, though. I make 'em all look sick. He wasn't as fast as me, was he, Cap?"

Capt. Cronin confessed he was not. J. A. Gessner of 4635 Magnolia avenue, a broker in the Chamber of Commerce building, whose Franklin automobile the boys stole, went to the station. He did not see the thieves, and so could not identify them, but merely wanted to see them. He said he found the boys had driven the car so fast they had put the speedometer out of commission. He said from the amount of gasoline consumed they must have gone more than 100 miles.

The police learned the large car Sullivan told of having stolen belongs to M. B. Auerbach of 5006 Prairie avenue. It was taken from Fifty-first street and Prairie avenue and was found abandoned next morning.

Women Identify Boys.

Mrs. R. Kittel, 3423 Costello avenue.

Mrs. Jennie Hart, 1059 West Fifty-ninth street.

Mrs. M. Enon, 6025 Throop street.

Mrs. Mary Corkell, 906 North Kedvale avenue.

Mrs. Thomas Norris, 1916 Byron street.

Mrs. Louise A. Schirmer, 2140 Irving Park boulevard.

Mrs. Emma Glavin, 5522 South Green street.

Mrs. H. Orth, 6607 Stewart avenue.

Mrs. Kate Muessel, 1019 West Sixty-ninth street.

More women who reported they were robbed of their purses by auto-bandits Thursday afternoon will go to the station to try to identify the bandits today, Capt. Cronin said.

Total Loot $31.60.

Some of the women were frightened and had to be dragged back into the room. After her fears had been allayed Mrs. Norris chatted with the boys for a quarter of an hour. Mrs. Muessel insisted the boys stole $24 from her, accusing Carlson specifically, but the boy denied it. The trio said their total loot was $31.60.

"Probably where you got that black eye you was wearing last week," the boy replied.

Litzinger's father has been a member of the police force for twenty years. His uncle, the former alderman, is a member of the law firm of Litzinger, McGurn & Reid at 29 South La Salle street. Mrs. Litzinger said her son will not be 17 years old until April 27.

Blame Bad Associates.

"Virgel is a bright boy, and we are dumfounded over the affair," Mrs. Litzinger said. "He must have been influenced by bad associates. All my children have received the highest honors in school. Virgel graduated from the grammar school and until a short time ago attended the Lake High school. He told his father he would rather go to work and strive for a good position. He has been working as a shipping clerk for the Stolz Electric Phone company at 5 North Wabash avenue."

John Sullivan, father of the driver of the car, also attributed bad associates as the cause of his son's trouble.

"Garfield has worked ever since he graduated from grammar school two years ago," he said. "He kept early hours at night. Off and on until last Wednesday he had been an errand boy, and always gave his wages to his mother. He came home Wednesday and said he had been laid off, and left the next morning saying he was going to look for another job. He worked in an automobile plant at one time and knows cars thoroughly. He always was a reckless driver."

WAYWARD FRED WEEPS AT BIER

Youth, Freed from Cell, Sorrows Over Mother in Grieving Home.

The Riesen children, Arthur, Fred, Walter, and the twins, Catherine and Christine, were reunited yesterday. Fred, a pale, blonde lad of 17, was there. On Saturday Christine and little Walter had braved the austere surroundings of the criminal court. Her tearful pleas obtained Fred's release on a robbery charge. She told court officials that their mother had died that day and they needed Fred. So he was permitted to join his brothers and sisters in their grief.

The children sat weeping about their mother's coffin in the front room at 839 South Wood street until women of the Swiss Damenverein came and had the body taken to Hursen chapel at Western avenue and Madison street. When Fred arrived he threw himself across the body and begged piteously for forgiveness.

Mrs. Arnold Arn, president of the Damenverein, and several other women of the order took clothes and consolation to the children. Although Mrs. Riesen, who had suffered four years with cancer, had used all the sick benefit to which she was entitled as a member of the lodge, the Damenverein will provide for interment, a member said.

Arthur, 19 years old, supplied groceries and medicines for the family of six during his mother's illness out of his wages of $12 a week at the postoffice, he said. Until six months ago Fred had contributed a few dollars a week. Then one night a policeman came and Fred was taken to jail on a charge of attempted robbery at a Chinese laundry.

The mother grew weaker through worry over her son's imprisonment. Her thoughts constantly were of him.

"Keep the children together, Arthur, when I am dead," she advised.

Edward J. Fleming, secretary to State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, has a job for Fred, who has promised reform.

The Test of the "Pinch"

There are few things you buy and use which are not fairly good—until the "pinch" comes.

But when that pinch comes—when there is hard work and lots of it—how magnificently some things stand up to the job and go through with you.

RHEUMATISM AND BROKEN DOWN ARCHES

The pains in each of the above ailments are so near alike that even our best physicians often mistake the broken arch pains for rheumatic pains and prescribe accordingly. The medicine given of course has no effect and the patient often suffers for years before he realizes that possibly the trouble is with the arch nerves and muscles. I have seen thousands of such cases in my 31 years of experience.

If you suffer with pains in the limbs or back, come in and let me examine your arches. It may save you years of suffering. If your arches are broken I can fit you with a pair of Larson's Anatomic Sta-Right Shoes that will relieve your trouble and return your feet to health.

HEAD OF COLLEGE AND DIVINE HELD POOR MAN'S FOES

TALKS AT GRACE FORUM.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university; the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth church, Brooklyn, and every man of wealth were classed with the voluntary opponents of economic justice by Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the United States commission on industrial relations, in an address last evening before the forum of Grace Protestant Episcopal church, Wabash avenue and Fifteenth street.

Mr. Walsh was greeted with the largest audience in the history of the Grace forum, the pastor, the Rev. W. O. Waters, said. His subject was "The War on Poverty."

Urges Minimum Wage.

Mr. Walsh advocated a minimum wage of $2.50 a day for unskilled labor, the taking over by the government of all the land and the withholding of all benefits of the tariff from every employer who exploits children and women and prevents labor to organize for its own protection. He declared the greatest obstacle in the way of a minimum wage is the courts, which are affected in their judgments by the environments and the fundamental ideas of industrial justice which the members of the court possess.

Mr. Walsh's most bitter denunciation was heaped on Dr. Hillis.

"Dr. Hillis preached a sermon two months ago about the labor trouble in Colorado" he said. "It was a masterpiece of mendacity and a dastardly appeal to class hatred. It contained a falsehood in every line. As he has not corrected his statements after he has been appealed to by the dean of the law school of the University of Colorado, who pointed out to him his mistakes, he must be classed with the voluntary offenders against economic justice.

Hits at President Butler.

"Dr. Butler calls my plan of restoring the land to the government confiscation. He, too, belongs to the class of voluntary offenders.

"The root of poverty comes because men do not receive the full product of their toil. The government ought to get back the land which has been taken by fraud. This is not confiscation. It may be taken back on the principle of long leases so that the present owners or their immediate heirs will not be robbed.

"Every great fortune is a fundamental wrong. He who first gives bountifully to the poor must have first robbed them of plenty. Every man with a fortune must at some time have crossed the line of ethics and of criminal law."

Mr. Walsh praised Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, for his establishment of a $5 minimum wage and said it has almost completely banished law breaking, insanitary conditions, and irregularity of employment, but he denounced as wrong the making by Mr. Ford of $35,000,000 out of his business.

CHICAGOAN GETS INSURANCE POST

C. H. Barry Elected President of Pennsylvania Fire; Underwriters Pleased.

MANY RATE BILLS UP.

Fire insurance men in the west were much pleased with the announcement last week that Charles H. Barry, manager of the western department of the company at Chicago, had been elected president of the Pennsylvania Fire Insurance company of Philadelphia. He is one of the leaders in the managerial ranks and has won a high place as a successful underwriter.

Mr. Barry was born at Alton, Ill., and is a graduate of the University of Illinois. He entered the insurance business at Alton as manager of a local agency. Later he was special agent in the west for a number of companies, and in 1884 became state agent and adjuster in Illinois for the Insurance Company of North America and the Pennsylvania Fire.

When the Pennsylvania Fire decided in 1894 to move its western department to Chicago Mr. Barry was selected as the manager.

Show Profit Every Year.

In the twenty years Mr. Barry has been in charge his department has made a profit every year, the average being nearly $100,000 a year.

For two years Mr. Barry was chairman of the governing committee of the Western Union, and he is now vice chairman of the Union and Western Insurance bureau joint conference committee. He is also vice president of the Western Factory Insurance association, president of the Railway Underwriters, and a director of the Underwriters Salvage company of Chicago and of the Underwriters' laboratories.

He is a member of the Union league, University, Evanston, Evanston Country, and Glen View clubs. His home has been at Evanston.

D. W. Redfield will assume charge of the western department of the Pennsylvania Fire on Mr. Barry's departure for the east. He is now assistant manager of the department.

Rate Bills in Several States.

Bills for the regulation of fire insurance rates by the various states have been introduced in nearly all the legislatures now in session in the west. A model bill was framed by the insurance commissioners' convention, after several years' study, and where the model bill has been introduced it is not meeting with opposition from the underwriters. In certain cases, however, changes have been made that are objectionable to the insurance men.

The object of the bills is not only to give full publicity on rating methods, but also to prevent discriminations in rates not based on differences in hazards. The bills provide that the companies shall file with some public official not only the specific rates on the various risks, but also copies of the schedules used in making the rates.

Variations from published rates are forbidden, and the supervising official is given authority to remove discriminations between risks. It is believed the bills will pass in a number of the western states.

Texas May Change Its Law.

Considerable interest is taken in the fight now being waged in the Texas legislature over a proposed amendment to the Robertson law, which requires life insurance companies licensed in the state to invest in Texas a high proportion of their reserves on policies issued in that state. Proposals for similar laws have been made in other states, and it is said that one will shortly be introduced in Illinois.

The Texas law was passed in 1907 in the expectation that life insurance funds would be made available for the agricultural and commercial development of the state. At that time, however, the farming and industrial growth in that field was too new to furnish investments of the conservative character required by life insurance companies.

THAW IN COURT TODAY ON CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY

New York, March 7.—Harry Kendall Thaw, slayer of Stanford White, will be placed on trial tomorrow in the Supreme court on the charge of conspiracy growing out of his escape from the state hospital for the criminal insane at Matteawan in August, 1913.

Thaw passed today quietly in the Tombs. He read and smoked, but refused to see any one excepting his counsel.

Will Not See Reporters.

Ever since he was brought back to the Tombs, six weeks ago today, Thaw has declined to see newspaper men. In this respect, it is said, he has obeyed instructions from his counsel not to discuss his case, as he was formerly wont to do.

When Thaw faces the court tomorrow his counsel will include John B. Stanchfield, Morgan J. O'Brien, and Abel I. Smith, formerly assistant United States district attorney.

Opposed to these men and representing the state of New York will be Franklin Kennedy and Frederick Cook, deputy attorneys general, while James O'Malley, assistant district attorney, will represent New York county.

Prisoner More Than Eight Years.

Thaw has been prisoner or fugitive since the night of June 25, 1906, when he shot and killed Stanford White on the Madison Square Garden roof. After two trials, the first of which resulted in a disagreement, Thaw was acquitted on the ground of insanity and was sent to Matteawan.

Then began his fight for liberty. Writs of habeas corpus were obtained at various times, requiring his appearance in court to establish his sanity. These proceedings invariably resulted unfavorably to him.

Fled Matteawan Aug. 17, 1913.

On Sunday morning, Aug. 17, 1913, Thaw escaped from Matteawan in an automobile, eluded capture for two days, and finally was arrested at Coaticook, Can. He was subsequently released by the Canadian authorities and sent into Vermont. He fled to Colebrook, N. H., where he obtained counsel and prepared to fight against returning to Matteawan.

A writ of habeas corpus was obtained from a federal judge at Concord and Thaw automatically became a government charge. Argument on the writ was delayed until Gov. Felker of New Hampshire should decide to grant or deny the fugitive's extradition.

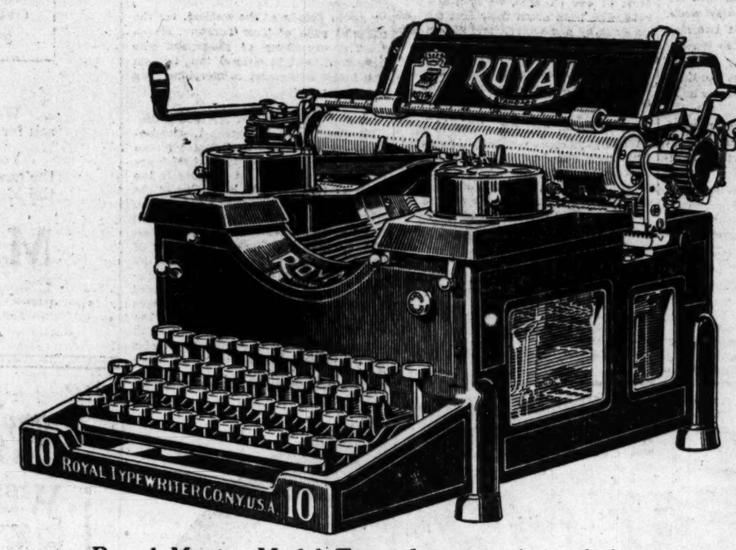

The governor finally decided that Thaw could be extradited, and then the case went back to the United States Supreme court on the broad issue that Thaw's rights under the constitution were being violated; that New York, holding him legally insane, sought his extradition on a charge of conspiracy.

Thaw was kept in custody, although allowed wide privileges, but was taken in charge by New York state officers about seven weeks ago when the Supreme court, in passing on the extradition proceedings, ruled that Thaw could be brought back to this state on an indictment for conspiracy.

LAND DIARY FORGER IN JAIL.

Oregon Police Say Robert H. Dunkirk Is Wanted in Chicago.

Portland, Ore., March 7.—Robert H. Dunkirk, alias Robert H. Duke, who was arrested here late today on information from Omaha, Neb., charging forgery, had in his suitcase, the police say, a diary detailing numerous forgeries which Dunkirk is alleged to have committed in Chicago, Memphis, Tenn., and other cities.

Royal Master Model Ten—the typewriter of the time

You'll Buy the Royal to Use not to "Trade-in"

THE history of the typewriter culminated in the Royal.

Hour after hour, day after day, year after year of use which would send oldfashioned machines to the scrapheap has proved this over and over.

They had one aim and one idea—to produce a real typewriter, which should do all that a real typewriter must do, and do it better, do it easier and do more of it in the same time.

SIMPLIFICATION was the governing thought. To create a typewriting machine which would deliver the work from the fingertips of the operator to the paper itself in the quickest, most efficient, most accurate manner—that was the end to be attained.

Right away this called for the elimination of a thousand unnecessary parts—that is, the Royal has one thousand less parts than the oldfashioned typewriter.

Think what this means—one thousand fewer chances for repairs. And that very advantage of a thousand fewer parts multiplies the excellence of every part in the Royal.

* * *

THIS means straight line key action that delivers the pressure of the fingertips direct to the typebar. No bent, twisted, jointed or involved key lever systems that diffuse power, get out of order or compel slowness.

Every part, every feature of the Royal is successfully devised for speed and accuracy.

No machine ever built combined as many exclusive money-saving, money-making ideas for you.

Look at the picture above. Study the handsomeness of the machine—and realize that in that compact, business-like body are built everything that must be in a typewriter to enable it to give 100% service every minute it is in use.

This Master Model with the adjustable touch—the little thumbscrew by which the action of the keys is instantly fitted to the personality of the operator, is fairly human in its work.

The operator simply forgets that the machine is there. From fingertips to paper there is no hindering sense of a mechanical aid.

Book Buyers— Your Attention!

A WEEK ago today we announced a great sale of books, offering a large share from the stock of an Eastern wholesale concern that discontinued its book business. This concern dealt principally in publishers' remainders and whole special editions of popular, useful books.

After a week's selling we find that more than half our entire purchase has been sold. Librarians, dealers and thousands of individuals have bought even beyond our expectations.

Some items are now out of stock and of these there will be no more. The larger lots, however, are still practically intact and offer many splendid opportunities for economical buying.

There are books for children, for grown people, and on many subjects—illustrated books, reference books, standard sets, books on art, cookery, travel and many other subjects. Prices were never so low for such books.

Are You Going to Move This Spring?

Be sure that the building to which you will move is equipped for Electric Light.

Electrically-lighted flats or residences are usually more desirable in every way. Landlords, appreciating its advantages from a dollars and cents standpoint, are installing Electric Light even in old buildings every day; the cost is very little.

Electric Light is more than brilliant, healthful and convenient; it is the most economical illuminant. The rates have been constantly reduced until today they are the lowest that they have ever been—easily within the reach of the humblest income.

Make certain too, before moving, that there are baseboard outlets in the new building—so that when you wish to use Electric Lamps or any other Electrical Conveniences, it will not be necessary to have a long cord dangling from the overhead fixtures.

The cost of installing baseboard sockets and other modern conveniences, even in old buildings, is very small—it is an investment that improves the value of the building immensely.

WE will gladly confer with any interested landlord or tenant regarding the advantages of Electric Light in modern buildings — no obligation. Write today; or, telephone Randolph 1280 — Contract Department.

THOMSON DELAYS DECISION ON RACE FOR MAYORALTY

Charles M. Thomson, Progressive nominee for mayor, returned yesterday from Washington, where he concluded his labors as congressman from the Tenth district on March 4, and some time today he probably will define his course in the mayoralty campaign.

It has been the belief among Progressives and Republicans that Mr. Thomson would withdraw from the race, but he refused to discuss the subject until after he had conferred with Ald. Charles E. Merriam and some others of his political and personal friends.

"I expect to see Mr. Merriam tomorrow morning," Mr. Thomson said, "and I also will talk with some of the boys in the Progressive party. After I learn the lay of the land I will have something to say. I probably will make my decision known before tomorrow night."

Voters' League Meets.

Mayoralty politics were considered by the Cook County Voters' league—a delegate body representing about twenty-eight civic organizations. There were fifty delegates present at the meeting, and Edward T. Lee, the president, presided. Others in attendance were Secretary C. F. Manahan, Treasurer C. E. Coleman, the Rev. M. P. Boynton, E. J. Davis, and Robert McMurdy. Representative John H. Lyle of Englewood attended, but took no part in the proceedings.

President Lee was authorized to appoint a committee to call on William Hale Thompson and Robert M. Sweitzer, the two leading mayoralty candidates, to learn their position on important civic problems, although these problems were not specified. Mr. Lee, Mr. McMurdy, and F. P. Thresher are three members of the committee. Two others, one to be a woman, are to be selected today. Another meeting of the league will be held in room 301 Portland block Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Switzer's election campaign will be opened today on the larger part of the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Sherman. A vacant room in the adjoining building, owned by the hotel management, also will be used for meeting purposes.

Going to California.

Robert E. Burke's battalion of the Cook County Democracy, happy over the victory at the primary, is looking forward to a trip to California during the summer to attend the Panama exposition. At the regular meeting a committee, headed by John McGillen, was appointed to look up the question of rates and accommodations.

There was a good attendance at the meeting, and it was noted that fifty or more Democrats who supported Mayor Harrison were present for the first time. Addresses were made by leaders in the organization, the burden of them all being to get out a full registration on March 16, which will be the only day when the unregistered will have an opportunity to register.

Boynton Comments on Politics.

Commenting on the municipal campaign, the Rev. Mr. Boynton in the Woodlawn Baptist church at night said:

"Each voter can serve well his city by keeping the campaign on high ground. Let us not allow unfounded rumors to cloud any man's name. Let us frown upon mud throwing. Let us practice as well as preach religious liberty. Let us see to it that church and state are kept separate, as they should be. Let the discussion be on the open plane of principles and politics, and not on the dangerous ground of personalities."

PLEDGES TO PAY ALL DEPOSITORS

Partner of Suicide Banker Assures Scores Who Call at Home.

"Even if it takes twenty years' hard work, I will pay every dollar due to the depositors rather than have my family dishonored."

Philip Manno, a member of the firm Meccia & Manno, bankers and steamship agents at 515 West Oak street, gave this assurance to scores of depositors who called at his home, 4044 North Parkside avenue, yesterday. At Manno's request a policeman was stationed at the house.

The agitation of the bank's patrons was caused by the death of Manno's partner, Ignazzio Meccia, who shot himself Saturday near his wife's grave in Mount Carmel cemetery. Meccia left a note saying he couldn't "locate the money" and charging Manno and his brother with being responsible.

Says Meccia Controlled.

Manno made a statement declaring Meccia had entire control of the financial affairs of the bank. He said he thought the total deposits were between $8,000 and $10,000. The assets are supposed to include the bank building and lot, valued at $9,000, with an incumbrance of $4,500, and whatever jewelry, notes, and currency may be contained within the safe. It is said the bank loaned out $6,000 on notes.

"I think there is a very good chance of the depositors getting a good part of their money immediately," said Attorney Bernard P. Barasa, who is representing Manno. "Just as soon as Meccia's funeral is held the safe will be opened in the presence of a committee representing Manno, Meccia's heirs, the depositors, and the Italian consul."

Took Charge of Bank.

"Meccia took charge of the bank June 27, 1910, when I went to Italy for six months," said Manno. "I have his receipt for $4,672 in currency. Besides this there was $4,000 worth of jewelry, 500 books, and a deposit in the Corn Exchange National bank.

"Since then Meccia has had full control of the money and accounts. None was paid out except by his order. I asked Meccia for an accounting several times. He promised time and time again to give me an accounting, but he failed to do so, and I threatened to go to court. Then he called in a bookkeeper, but after the man had done a little work he discharged him, saying he would send for him when he needed him.

"I suppose there are about 250 depositors but I have never learned the exact financial condition of the bank since 1910."

An inquest over Meccia's body will be held this afternoon at Sbarbaro's undertaking rooms, 708 Wells stret.

No Money for Doctor; Child Dead.

William Maynie, 11416 Davol avenue, Morgan Park, a negro, told the police yesterday of the death of his 3 weeks old son. Pneumonia is supposed to have caused death. Maynie said he had been out of work and had no money to employ a doctor.

Police Captain Fetches Youth Who Took Poison Tablets in Toledo.

James Madden Jr., son of Capt. James Madden of the Woodlawn police station, was brought to Chicago yesterday from Toledo, where he swallowed three poison tablets several days ago. Little hope was held out for his recovery. Young Madden took the poison in a hotel in Toledo, where he became despondent over money matters, it is said. Capt. Madden, who was at Hot Springs, Ark., brought his son to Chicago.

ANTI-DRUG LAW DRIVES TWO MEN TO KILL SELVES

the county hospital, and I believe this will be done tomorrow."

Mr. Reinberg's attention was called to the fact that approximately ten days of continuous housing is required for patients who undergo approved drug treatment.

"Perhaps we can use one of the old buildings that has been evacuated," he suggested. "The county hospital is pretty full, but I am confident that we can meet the emergency. The regular staff of the hospital is quite competent to handle drug cases."

Refused Admission.

It was impossible last night to obtain the exact number of persons turned away from the county hospital in the last week. One record there shows that two men have been refused admission in the last four days. Many others may have appealed in vain for admittance, and there are many who know the appeal is hopeless.

At the bridewell hospital, according to Dr. C. E. Sceleth, there are usually about a dozen cases a month. During February there were thirty-six cases. A half dozen have been brought in the last week. The large record in February was due to those who knew of the impending law and took the "cure" before forced to extremities. Practically all were "arrest" cases.

48 Per Cent Increase at One Place.

There has been an increase of 48 per cent in the number of narcotic patients at th Neal institute in the last week.

"Most of those who have come are persons in poorer circumstances," Dr. S. C. Beech, the superintendent, said. "The rich victims bought up a large supply of the drugs before the law went into effect, and these probably will not appeal for cures for thirty or sixty days. One drug salesman has told me that his sales of narcotics increased twenty or thirty times in volume just before the law went into effect.

"Those who have come to us recently are what we call desperate cases. They have told us they have appealed to druggists, physicians, drug houses, and to every one possible without effect. We are receiving between six and ten a day. Tonight we have fourteen.

"About 60 per cent are women, and the majority are persons around 40 and 45 years of age. We have only had two appeals from persons 20 years old or younger in the last week. The law is having its desired effect and is being enforced rigidly."

Gatlin Institute Busy.

A similar report was made by Dr. M. B. Pine, president of the Gatlin institute.

"Our patients have increased 50 per cent," Dr. Pine said. "Most of those who appeal to us are between the ages of 50 and 60 years. Many believed that they would be able to obtain the drugs from unscrupulous physicians after the law was passed, but have found out different. They find they are having great difficulty in obtaining drugs. No one is willing to risk a federal prison sentence.

"We have had reservations made. Most of our patients, we find, are persons who were given their first dose of the drug by some physician following an operation or to alleviate pain. They are high class people who have acquired the habit through no fault of their own. Most of those who have come to us are men."

Tells of Curing Himself.

While physicians generally agree that with most drug users it is difficult to effect a voluntary cure by the gradual reduction method, THE TRIBUNE has received a letter from a drug user who relates his success in curing himself. He started using morphine for heart trouble fifteen years ago, and at the time he began to break himself of the habit was taking five grain doses twice a day.

"I began by cutting my doses to four grains each," says the writer. "The following week I cut the doses to three grains each, and after the lapse of another week to two grains each.

"I have often lain on my bed with every nerve and muscle twitching and my soul crying out for more dope, but I would not give in, although I had an abundant supply on hand.

"When I got down to two grains at a dose [four grains a day] I continued reducing by half grains. For two weeks I took one and a half grains twice a day; then one grain twice a day for two weeks; then three-quarters of a grain twice a day for two weeks; then half a grain twice a day for two weeks, then a quarter grain twice a day for the same period, and finally took none at all.

"Doctors tell me that my case was one in a thousand, and due to my strong will. It is advisable to quit using coffee, tea, whisky, beer, or tobacco, during the treatment, as these things excite the nerves and counteract the sedative. The companionship of a sympathetic friend is of great value in breaking the dope habit.

"Keep your mind off the dope by going to light theatrical amusements, taking long walks with a cheerful companion, and indulging in gymnastic exercise. Above all, don't lie and brood over your misery. Try to be cheerful and look forward with joy to the day when you will be free of the habit."

Dr. Evans Commends Plan.

Dr. W. A. Evans in commenting on the foregoing experience said:

"The advice in the letter is good on most points. Exercise in the open air—and, better still, physical labor—is good judgment. So is the advice to discontinue the use of coffee, tobacco, and other habit drugs.

"As to details of the method, see the editorial page of THE TRIBUNE, March 4. The experience of physicians who have used twilight sleep is that hyoscin is a better antagonist to morphine than is belladonna."

LAW OMITS SOME NARCOTICS.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—Government experts in the United States bureau of chemistry are realizing that there are dangerous narcotics not included in the scope of the Harrison law. One of the worst of these, known as cannabis Indica, a powerful narcotic derived from Indian hemp, has been made the subject of attack by the New York City board of health. According to a report made by Dr. W. A. Bastedo, professor of pharmacology in Columbia university, the use of hashish, or "hasheesh," by East Indians and Egyptians has its chief danger in the cannabis Indica which it contains. And cannabis Indica is used in considerable quantities in a number of patent medicines sold in this country.

EAT MORE ICE CREAM IT'S GOOD FOR YOU.

The way the people are eating Ice Cream is amazing. Four years ago the United States consumed fifty million gallons. Last year we consumed TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION GALLONS. And Food Experts tell us that this is not a spoonful to what we are going to eat.

The reason is simple. People are finding out how good it is, and they are using it as a daily food instead of as an occasional luxury.

When children eat pies and heavy pastries at night they toss about like a row boat in a storm. When they eat Ice Cream they sleep like a rock. And the same is true of us grown-ups. For Ice Cream is easy to digest, and the rich pastries take hours and hours.

People eat Ice Cream on the coldest days, and soon after feel vigorous and warm. The basis of Ice Cream is sugar and cream, and these turn so quickly into heat that you are warm all over before you know it. Children have always known this and grown-ups are finding it out. Many a time you have seen children eat Ice Cream and then go romping in the snow.

The food value of Ice Cream is also startling. A quart of Ice Cream has the same food value as a whole pound and a half of round steak. This doesn't seem possible, but it's true. It has the same food value as a whole gallon of oysters; as 4 pounds of potatoes or 11 pounds of cabbage.

At the lowest cost it gives us one of the highest food values known. Its proteins and caseins are tissue builders, while its sugar and cream furnish heat and energy, and these are the things that spell—LIFE.

And, lastly, you can now be assured of its purity, of its quality and of its cleanliness. Every big Ice Cream plant is constantly under three inspections. First by the Chicago Board of Health, next by the State Factory Inspectors, and then by the Illinois State Food Commission, who are not only responsible for its purity and the sanitary conditions under which it is made, but who also must know every ingredient that is used, and who see that every gallon must contain a certain high percentage of pure cream.

And this is one of the main reasons why people are now eating Five Hundred per cent More Ice Cream than they did four years ago.

So order your Ice Cream today. You are in the center of the milk producing country of the nation, and it is the cheapest food you can buy. Eat lots of it. It is the purest food you can buy—the highest in quality.

And after you have eaten all you can because of its food value and its cheapness and its digestive quality, then order another plate because you like it.

* All facts and figures taken from the reports of the Illinois State Food Commission.

"—and he said 'Rest alone isn't enough for you'"

WHEN overwork, worry or illness have sapped your strength, rest and quiet will help you—but you still feel you need something to rouse the appetite—and above all something to strengthen the enfeebled nerves.

And it is then that many physicians will advise rest—and Sanatogen. For they know that Sanatogen, combining the nutritive qualities of a food with the invigorating properties of a tonic, will reconstruct the wasted tissues, RE-build and RE-vitalize and help the enfeebled system gather up new energy and a new fund of health.

Lady Henry Somerset, the prominent social reform advocate writes:

"Sanatogen undoubtedly restores sleep, invigorates the nerves and braces the patient to health. I have watched its effect on people whose nervous systems have been entirely undermined and I have proved Sanatogen to be most valuable."

Emerson Hough, the well-known writer, says:

"We had with us this spring as a guest a lady who was convalescent after a surgical operation and it occurred to me that she might be benefited by the use of Sanatogen. I am very glad to say that our surmise seemed well founded and that the patient steadily improved, so that she is well recovered from what bid fair to be a complete nervous breakdown."

Such has been the grateful experience of scores upon scores of others whose very names must be convincing. And remembering that over 21,000 physician's have testified in signed letters to the medical professions belief in Sanatogen, you surely can have no hesitancy in turning to Sanatogen for the help your system needs.

Sanatogen is sold by good druggists everywhere, in three sizes from $1.00 up.

BUILDING TRADES COMPACT UP TO NATIONAL BODY

Chicago Federation Calls for Official Investigation of Agreement.

The Chicago Federation of Labor, after being advised by Samuel Gompers that it was its duty to investigate thoroughly charges concerning the agreement between the Building Trades council and the employers' association, passed a resolution yesterday asking the executive board of the American federation to visit Chicago and to try to get to the bottom of the matter.

In another telegram, signed by W. H. Johnson, international president of the machinists' union, the agreement was branded as "a measure designed to deliver union labor into bondage."

Simon O'Donnell, president of the Building Trades council, was made the subject of a bitter attack by Emmett Flood, a labor organizer, for his part in the agreement.

Agreement Curbs Strikes?

The agreement which brought the protest is the new contract between the Building Trades council and the Building Construction Employers' association. Heretofore, the agreements have been made between the individual unions and contractors. The new agreement was aimed to take the power of calling strikes from business agents. It provides no strikes can be called until the trouble has been submitted to a board of arbitration.

The Building Trades council has announced in favor of the new agreement on the grounds that it clips the wings of alleged grafters in the labor ranks.

Bartenders Uphold Booze.

President Wright of Typographical union No. 16 found himself in hot water with representatives of the bartenders' union when he attempted to show what a great burden is saddled on the printers' union by the alcoholic inclinations of some of its members.

"More printers are harmed by whisky than by all the insanitary shops in the world," he said. "Every week dozens of jobless printers come to our relief committee for aid, medical and financial. Whisky is their trouble.

"Every union printer in the city gives 5 cents out of every dollar he earns to pay for this relief work. It is not fair that hard working men should be taxed for those who drink themselves out of jobs and health."

Bids Them Sell Beer Alone.

"You're attacking our union," shouted one of the bartenders' delegates. "If it wasn't for whisky our men wouldn't be working."

"How about beer?" demanded Wright.

"Beer isn't such a harmful drink, and, besides, the breweries are unionized, while there's only one union distillery in the country. Sell beer instead of whisky and you'll still have your jobs."

The report of the committee of vocational education denouncing the Cooley bill as inspired by interests inimical to union labor was submitted and referred back. Afterward a resolution was passed instructing the executive committee to visit the mayor and the city council and demand that only union members be employed as teachers of trades in the public schools.

She will have as her guests her mother, Mrs. Patrick McInerney, Mrs. Mary Mahoney, Mrs. Margaret Boland, and Miss Laurette McInerney.

SUICIDE ADVICE FAILS HIMSELF

Jailer Who Cheered Many Would Be Self-Slayers Ends His Life.

For more than twenty years Lawrence Loferski had given advice to persons in trouble. For eighteen years he was lockup keeper at the South Chicago station, and more recently had been assigned to the patrol wagon.

He had guided many prisoners back to respectability and had sent many would-be suicides away with words of comfort and warning that have kept them from attempting their lives a second time.

A year ago his wife died, leaving him to care for his two children, Thomas and Sophie, in their home at 8737 Saginaw avenue. His cheerfulness disappeared. He began to brood. He was unable to pull himself together and forget his troubles. His friends tried to cheer him up, but he was unable to heed the advice he had given to others. He was given a job on the wagon, so he would get a chance to get away from the dullness of the cellroom.

Three weeks ago he became ill with grippe, the same illness that killed his wife. At 4 o'clock yesterday morning the two children heard a shot and attracted neighbors by their screams. They found Loferski dead in his bed. There was a bullet hole in his right temple. He had failed to follow the advice he had given to others.

NEGRO FORTIFIES CABIN PRISON OF WHITE GIRL

Note of Hostage Leads to Capture of "Yarb Doctor" Who Feared Lynching.

Aurora, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—Fear that his association with a white girl might lead friends of her father to organize a lynching party, led Charles Whitlock, a negro "yarb doctor," to turn a log cabin near Oswego, seven miles south of this city, into a veritable fortress.

After, it is alleged, he drove John Grongaard, the girl's aged, feeble minded father from the cabin, Whitlock bought a revolver, a shotgun, a supply of ammunition, and a stock of dynamite.

Planned to Blast Cabin.

Apparently it was his intention to blow up the cabin and all in it, should his citadel be taken by a charge. But when Sheriff Normandin of Kendall county and State's Attorney Burkhardt appeared at his door a couple of days ago the "yarb doctor" made no effort at resistance.

Whitlock was kept for a night in Oswego and now is locked up in the county jail at Yorkville.

A note found on the outskirts of Aurora several days ago, telling of a white girl being held captive in a shack near Oswego, is now believed to have been written by Grongaard's 17 year old daughter.

Infatuated with Girl.

According to the state's attorney, Whitlock, who had been living with the Grongaards since last summer, became infatuated with the white girl and forced her father to quit the cabin when the old man showed a disposition to stand between him and the girl.

DANIELS WARNS NAVY MEN NOT TO RESIST ARREST.

Declares Department Will Refuse to Interfere Where They Have Been Disorderly Ashore.

Boston, Mass., March 7.—Enlisted men of the navy are cautioned against resistance to arrest by civil authorities, in a communication from Secretary of the Navy Daniels, made public tonight by Police Commissioner O'Meara. The letter deals with charges made before a naval court of inquiry at Charlestown that two firemen of the battleship Georgia received brutal treatment from police of this city, who arrested them on Dec. 7, 1914.

"Proper treatment," says Secretary Daniels, "will be demanded for men of the navy at all times when it is clear that they have been imposed upon. Proper punishment will likewise be enacted when they are clearly at fault.

"The department will not, however, interfere in their behalf in such cases as this, where it appears they were disorderly, some in open resistance to uniformed police officers, while others crowded around taunting and insulting them in their attempt to maintain law and order."

Cavein Traps Three Miners.

Petersburg, Ind., March 7.—Three men were entombed when a large section of the roofing of the Ayreshire mine, seven miles south of here, caved in today. It is believed the men were killed.

CHRISTIAN RULE HOPE OF CHINA

Y. M. C. A. Secretary from New Republic Tells of Miracles There

CONFUCIANISM DOOMED.

"The establishment of the republic in China spelled the doom of Confucianism," declared Fletcher S. Brockman, secretary for the Young Men's Christian association in China, who addressed the Sunday Evening club in Orchestra hall last night on "The New Situation in China." Mr. Brockman has his headquarters in Shanghai, where he has spent the last seventeen years.

"The downfall of the ancient religion of China, however, left the country without any sort of moral prop. While Confucianism was a poor religion, it was a good system of ethics. Anarchy followed. Political and social degeneration became so marked that the leaders of thought and learning became alarmed. In large degree the rapid growth of Christianity during recent years may be attributed to the reaction following the moral chaos which prevailed after the downfall of Confucianism.

Nation Needs Honest Officials.

"The great question confronting the nation is how to get trustworthy men to fill the high offices of the republic. One high official who had been converted to the religion of the occident exclaimed: 'Nothing but Christianity will do it; through its ideals only will men be developed in stability of character, political corruption brought to an end, and the life of the country made pure and strong.'

Predicts Better Conditions.

"He asked me how it was in America. I told him that in our country where Christianity is strong the people are strong and true; where it is weak men are weak, and that in China conditions ultimately will be the same."

Mr. Brockman related many instances showing the marvelous growth of Christianity in China, giving special emphasis to its acceptance by the class termed "the literati," which, he said, had been the real ruling power during centuries.

"The task in China," he asserted, "is not to convert the 400,000,000 population but only the 1,000,000 which for 2,000 years has held the hearts of the people and molded their ideals.

"Here was the Gibraltar of the non-Christian world. But a great change has taken place. You need not talk to me of miracles. I have seen greater miracles than all those related in the Bible. They have proved to me that God still is in his world; still is willing to bear us on with infinite power to greater glory."

Reports Conflict on Death Cause.

Mrs. Ida Lachner, 80 years old, died yesterday at her home, 2315 North Keeler avenue. Her death was reported to the coroner as having been caused by ptomaine poisoning, but Dr. George Koler, 2243 Tripp avenue, who attended her, said the cause of death was gastritis.

KICKS THROUGH WINDOW; SAYS ROBBERS SHOT HIM.

Offer of "Drink Reward" Starts Chase That Causes Man Cut by Glass to Fall from Loss of Blood.

This reward, offered by Jacob Katz in his saloon at 615 West Madison street Saturday night, started his customers in pursuit of Peter Sprina, 515 West Madison street, who had broken through the front window trying to kick Katz. The chase ended two miles away. Sprina evaded his pursuers and fell unconscious from loss of blood at Wells and Kinzie streets.

Sprina was found later and taken to the Iroquois Memorial hospital. When he revived he said he had been robbed by two men who had shot him in the leg.

Surgeons could not tell whether his injury was a bullet wound or cut. The facts were revealed when Katz reported the affair. Broken glass had made the wound.

MINE BLAST TOLL NOW 96; 20 MORE THOUGHT DEAD.

All of the Forty-seven Rescued from West Virginia Workings Will Survive, It Is Thought.

Hinton, W. Va., March 7.—The recovery of eleven bodies today brought the death roll of the Layland mines to ninety-six.

From best available sources it is estimated twenty more dead are buried beneath slate falls and débris.

All of the forty-seven men rescued yesterday after having lived four days and four nights without food and drink were reported to be in good physical condition and it is expected all will recover.

Inflictions.

Lillian Russell

[Copyright: 1915: By Lillian Russell.]

I ALWAYS feel like resenting predictions that women will again adopt past fashions in dress which are now so generally ridiculed. Women will inconvenience themselves a great deal to be in fashion, but I do not think they will ever again revert to the hoopskirt, the pantalet, and the whatnots which were favored by a past generation.

The sort of hoopskirt worn by our grandmothers will never again be adopted by American women. They are really impossible. Imagine hoopskirts in the present public conveyances, theaters, and other places where women appear. Imagine these same skirts in the little coops of apartments where many city women reside. Even the effort to bring the crinoline back into fashion to expand the diameter of the skirt met with little favor.

Woman is not so lacking in originality that it is necessary for her to return to obsolete and harassing fashions to find something which will impress her admirers with the fact that she is not an ordinary dresser. She may "hobble" for awhile, but not for long. There is a limit to which she will go in adopting fads and fancies.

The imputation that there is such a lack of originality in woman's makeup that she must adopt old fashions to keep the styles changing is opposed by the fact that antique fads seldom reappear in original form, although new ideas may be based on old ones.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

Have you reduced your flesh? If so, write and tell me how you reduced and how many pounds you lost. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Address Lillian Russell, "Chicago Tribune," Chicago.

ELSPETH: There is no harm, my dear, in using an eyebrow pencil, and no one could possibly think you were not a nice sort of girl because you have tried to improve your appearance. You will, of course, have to do it with such skill that it will not be noticed.

DOROTHY: By using an astringent lotion after cleansing the face with cold cream a growth of hair can be prevented. First cleanse the face with cold cream, wipe it off with a soft cloth, then bathe with warm water and a good pure white soap, preferably castile, rinse well with warm water, then dash with cold water, wipe dry, and apply the astringent lotion.

MISS MAMIE L.: I should not use peroxide on my hair if I were you. I do not approve of bleaches or dyes of any sort. There is nothing you can do to restore hair to its natural color. Leave it as it is. It will be streaked and will not look nice for a while, but just take good care of it, shampooing it about once in two or three weeks, and it will return to its natural color.

BOWLING—TEACHING THE WOMEN FOLKS.

Fashions from London

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Dame Fashion did a bold thing when she announced that the modern woman of the early twentieth century should come forth this spring attired in all the demure quaintness of her ancestors seventy years ago. She took a chance, relying on the world old lure of contrast.

I saw this same contrast the other day carried out on a pretty, up to date young girl. She wore her hair in the quaint coiffure I have sketched in the accompanying picture, and the soft muslin ruffle about her neck added to the demure effect. A diminutive bodice, a high waist line, an exaggeratedly full skirt which only a pretty figure could dream of wearing well, completed the long ago air of the whole costume. But there the old fashioned note ceased. The dark eyes flashed with anything but the demure coquetry of our grandmother's day and the tilt of the head and the smile of the lips was all so up to date that the contrast between was striking.

"This "Dutch cut" is by no means the most popular of the present day coiffures. It is merely one of many. There is the "Japanese fan" effect, which allows the hair to be drawn back tightly from the face and ending in a psyche knot in the rear. Then again there is the French twist and the crinoline curl effect, a coiffure which is meant to go with the crinoline skirts of the moment. It is old fashioned in its puffiness and charmingly quaint at the same time. Then, too, there is the low, loose coiffure which is being more and more affected by those in search of this old time demureness.

The TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

EDITED BY JANE EDDINGTON.

All recipes have been scientifically tested by Miss Eddington with current market materials and are indorsed by her.

Angel Cake Tricks,

"THIS popular cake was invented by a St. Louis baker, who kept the formula a secret a long time. A discharged employé finally made it known." Thus writes an American authority of thirty years ago on cooking, an expert who was highly informed and accurate on all food matters.

As would be expected, the recipe this man gives is largely in weights, rather than measures, of ingredients, and, of course, he gives the maximum number of eggs—all old recipes do, and all highly trained cooks do to this day. The product is finer, to be sure, and the work then has less of uncertainty.

In the diverse recipes for angel cake there is one agreement. One cup of sugar to one cup of flour is used whether the number of eggs be twelve, eleven, ten, eight, or six. Besides these three ingredients, there is but the flavoring and the cream tartar, of the latter never more than a teaspoon and often only half that.

The fact that some recipes give one cup of flour, one cup of sugar, and one cup of egg white is suggestive of how we can decide upon the egg number. Six ordinary eggs separated, and the yolks entirely peeled of white, will easily yield three-fourths of a cup of egg white. We can then use with this three-fourths of a cup of flour, but since many people use one and one-fourth cups of sugar to a cup of flour we can safely use a cup of sugar, and make our cake as follows:

Six Egg Angel Cake.

Separate six eggs and put whites into glass measuring cup to find exactly what they measure. Sift three-fourths cup of flour, measured after sifting four times, and one cup of sugar twice separated and once after combining them. Whip up egg white stiff, add sugar and flour a little at a time with folding motion, then add a scant teaspoon of almond flavoring and a half teaspoon of vanilla. This gives a macaroon flavor that is acceptable. Bake in a Turk's head or funnel pan, which has been soaked in cold water and not dried or greased. The baking is the great problem. The oven must be hot when the cake is put in, but the fire should then be moderated. Do not open door of oven for twenty minutes. Forty or fifty minutes will be needed. Considerable heat is needed to bring cake up quickly, but either too much or too little and the cake will be tough.

BRIGHT SAYINGS of CHILDREN

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The stories may be sent in either by children or their parents. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

While at a moving picture theater the other evening a good comedy was being shown. The audience had just ceased laughing and everything was quiet, when suddenly little Edward said aloud, "I very near went to bed tonight and missed all this." J. F. B.

A small girl of 5 years was interested in gardening and for the first time in her life had a garden of her own. One day her aunt came to see them, bringing the baby, who had two new teeth. Little May was excited over the two new arrivals and exclaimed, "O, auntie, two has come up!" MARJORIE REID.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND

BY MARION HARLAND

Making a Living in the Country.

"I AM a widow, born and raised in the country. I have been dressmaking to support my family until I simply can't sew any more. I am so overworked and discouraged! I am mostly working for the landlord. After all the bills are paid there is not much left to save. My only longing is for the country—to go into it and get rest. I wish some of your ever willing workers would tell me if I could make a living in the country, with my two boys, 17 and 14. I should like to rent a place at first, as I have not enough to buy at present. I could take in summer boarders, raise poultry, vegetables, and fruit. I could am industrious and capable, and I am sure within a few years I would be able to buy the place and be independent.

"JOSEPHINE K."

There is no more vital question that should engage the minds of practical lovers of their kind and their country just now than that raised by this widowed mother of two growing boys. I could tell of a family where there are two brothers, aged respectively 18 and 15, a mother and a 13 year old sister, who are making a living from a twenty-three acre farm. The mother manages the poultry houses, the boys raise vegetables and fruit, and the girl helps with the housework. They are within easy distance of a town of moderate size, and in this, the fourth year since they took hold of the farm, they see their way clear to comfort and a modest competency. It means hard work and much self-denial, wise economy and skillful management. But it has been done. I wish our readers who have made the matter a study would tell us what they think of the call "Back to the soil!" That is what this dressmaker means. Is there money in a poultry yard when run by a woman who knows the business? And what of the prospects of the boys who will tackle farming and fruit growing as pioneers attack western lands? Isn't it better than hanging around city streets upon the chance of getting places as office boys and porter? Let us have a consensus of opinion upon this subject.

Books in Bohemian Language.

"My father and mother cannot read English. They are Bohemian and can't read and other reading matter. I should like to get some books written in the Bohemian language. There are two books written by Mrs. Southworth and one by Augusta Evans. Both are novels. Could you advise me where I could get them? They do not keep them in the Bohemian language in the book stores, and I don't know where they could be bought. Can some one send me the address of some firm where I could get them? I should be grateful to you. TILLIE H."

I am sadly afraid that your quest is likely to be long and disheartening. I do not want to discourage you, for I really wish to help you in the pious work of securing good books for your parents. If the works of which you speak have been published in their language, you will hear of it from readers of like nationality. It is so improbable that I hesitate to insert your appeal. I suppose any good books prnted in their native language would be welcome to the aged pair. Referred, energetically!

Prefer an Odd Name.

"We are a party of girls who wish to organize a club and intend to make it a success. It is rather difficult for us to think of a name that would be suitable, so we would like to have your aid in naming it. We prefer an odd name. Kindly state the meaning of it. WE GIRLS."

I have suggested so many names for girls' club that invention begins to stagger. Can't you manufacture one by an ingenious acrostical combination of the initials of the Christian names of chapter members? Try it. You will be amused and amused at the combinations thus effected. If there are many members you may get a motto as well as a name. One well known club got its name, "Always merry," in this way. I should dearly like to stand godmother for all the girls' clubs within the bounds of our territory, if imagination and time would hold out until the work is done.

Real Spruce Gum.

"Will some one please tell me where I can purchase a small quantity of real spruce or tamarack gum? I can't find it here. "CLARA S."

As the tamarack and the spruce are not of the same family of evergreens, I take it that you want the spruce pine which grows luxuriantly in northern New England and in the Adirondacks, where it is known as balsam fir. It is rich in gum, commonly known as spruce gum. You want the pure article, and I refer the query, holding your address.

Borrowing and Lending.

"Do you think we should adhere strictly to the proverb, 'Neither a lender nor a borrower be'? From experience and some observation I rather believe it is more happy neither to lend nor to borrow. In spelling aloud 'spoon' and similar words, is it not better to say 's-p-o-o-n' than 's-p-double o-n.' My baby girl is delicate and I am trying to teach her what I can at home. Please tell me where is the Yorktown in which Lord Cornwallis surrendered to Washington. I think I have not asked more than the rules of the Corner permit. IVA."

"Lend to him that asketh of thee, and from him that borroweth turn not away," says the book of books. But we read a note of warning in another text: "The borrower is servant to the lender." From which we may learn a lesson. I leave you to find it. I learned to say "s-p double o-n" when at "s-c-h double o-l." In more modern days the student says "o-o." It is best to keep step with the times in which we live. Yorktown is the shiretown of York county, Va. It is situated upon York river, about fifty miles southeast of Richmond. Your queries are reasonable and in number few. It is a pleasure to receive and to answer them.

Cleaning Kid Gloves.

"I should be grateful if you could print in your Corner a formula for cleaning gray kid gloves. MRS. G. E. B."

I know of nothing better than gasoline, applied with a bit of clean flannel. Fit the glove upon the hand, buttoning at the wrist to keep the kid smooth, and wash carefully. When you have finished the glove draw it off carefully and lay in the window (not in the sun), upon a clean cloth, while you clean the other. Leave both there until they are dry and free from the odor of the gasoline. Be sure there is no artificial light or fire in the room while you are using the inflammable liquid.

Cat Has the Mange.

"I have a fine young Maltese tomcat, and he has the mange or some sort of itch. I pity him! How he scratches his head, ears, and neck! I have tried permolin, vaseline, turpentine, and other things, but nothing helps him. Perhaps some reader can suggest something that will give him relief or something that will cure him. F. O. M."

The cat is such a favorite household pet with readers and members that we pass your inquiry down the line in cheerful confidence that you will receive the help require for your fine Maltese. Time and patience must enter into any treatment prescribed. The malady is tedious and vexatious.

Love Letters

DORIS BLAKE SAYS:
"Absence may make the heart grow fonder. Intimacy doesn't."

If you know how to write a love letter or if you have in your possession a letter that has heart interest or comedy or lots of love in it send it to me at once. "The Tribune" will pay $5 for every letter published. Address Doris Blake, "Chicago Tribune."

Could You Make a Sacrifice to Convention if You Loved Like This?

"Dearest beloved: I am sending you this letter, for I dare not see you again in person. If I could only go away from here, far away, and hide my sorrow away from all prying eyes, that no one might guess my secret shame, the shame of loving you when every thought of my heart should be for another, the one who calls me wife.

"God help me to do that which is right, that which I know I must do. But, oh, dear heart, I am weak, so pitifully weak, that I shrink from the thought of the endless, dreary days that must come. How they stretch out before me, bare and desolate, year after endless year, with nothing to look forward to, no ray of sweet hope to brighten the burden which I must bear all alone.

"Of course we must meet again inpublic and day after day I must pass you by with only a smile of friendly greeting, pass on with a pain like unto death in my heart. Oh, can I bear it, this loveless life of mine? Why, oh why, did you come to me so late; why was there nothing to warn me, to tell me that I had a heart, even as others had, and that it was only sleeping; that riches would mean nothing without love? I thought to kill, with wealth, all tender feelings and enjoy life freely, with no tender emotion, no longing for the ideal life when heart meets heart.

"The sin was mine, all mine, and I shall bear my burden as bravely as I can, and perhaps, when I reach the valley which we all must cross, I shall find that sweet content which I robbed my life of here, and in the knowledge of a cross bravely born will at last find rest.

"But how my guilty heart rebels and cries out against its pain! How I long to grasp this happiness that seems so near! O, would I find any joy? Is there any true happiness built on another's broken heart and ruined life? No, it is too late; that other face would haunt me; those other eyes, so noble and kind, would always follow me, and out of the darkness of night I would start and waken in terror at the thought that this life is not all.

"So good-by, my heart, my life. I may not see you again for fear my purpose would be shattered and I lose all if I trusted my frail strength to that great test—the test of your dear presence.

"Good-by. Do not try to see me again, for I lay my past aside and face the fight alone when I lay aside my pen tonight. The shadows are deepening and my eyes are dim with the tears I dare not shed. Good-by, oh, my light, my life, good-by forever. LAURA."

Cousins and Kisses.

"Dear Miss Blake: Do you think it right and proper for a boy cousin to kiss his girl cousin or for a girl cousin to kiss her boy cousin, especially when you have gone a long distance? X. Y. Z."

It is quite right and proper if you like a cousin well enough to kiss him or her to do so, no matter whether the distance you have gone to see each other be long or short.

FLICKERINGS from FILM LAND
By KITTY KELLY

CARL LAEMMLE
CREATOR OF UNIVERSAL CITY

How Carl Laemmle Reached the Top.

THE Universal special, with 100 movie, newspaper, and magazine folk aboard, guests of Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film company, rolled out of the Dearborn station last night, bound via Santa Fe rails for the far west and Universal City, California. It will arrive on the coast just in time for the formal opening of the first moving picture municipality in the world. Stops will be made in Kansas City, Denver, and the Grand Canyon.

Kitty Kelly, the only Chicago newspaper representative aboard, will flash to "Tribune" movie fans flickerings of film life in a five car Pullman train and also of the reel center of filmland—southern California—where she will visit all the important producing establishments.

IN the main, map study is not interesting to many folk. There is only one kind that appeals to me, and that is the topography of the roads successward followed by those men who have raised themselves, regardless of physical stature, far over the shoulders of their many fellow travelers. It is interesting always to note the minuteness of guidepost that sent them from the main beaten track of ordinariness up the slopes of success.

The map of Carl Laemmle's road to success is as amazing a one as ever a person looked at. Carl Laemmle is president of the Universal Motion Picture company, the first word of which is rather adequately descriptive of the scope his pictures have. He left Chicago last night as host of the Universal special escorting some hundred folk to Universal City, to be present at the formal opening of that motion picture municipality.

A few years ago—and not so many, either, comparatively, the date being 1905—Mr. Laemmle was the discontented manager of an Osh-Koshian emporium. One of his pet diversions was the regular reading of THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE, and one day in a department called "The Worker's Magazine" he happened upon an article about the financial possibilities in motion picture exhibition. Now, Mr. Laemmle is president of one of the greatest concerns in the celluloid category.

There were some intermediate steps, of course. On a vacation trip, Mr. Laemmle stopped off in Chicago and attended the one and only picture house the Windy City then boasted, located in the Palmer building. He observed the picture procedure, then hunted up the manager—who is now one of his good customers—and fell into inquiring converse with him.

In February of 1906 Mr. Laemmle opened his first theater, a small house out on Milwaukee avenue, and the October following saw his entrance into the exchange business. He continued here in Chicago until 1909, when he began producing activities, and made New York his main headquarters. He still retains offices here.

But to go back to the road, though it seems rather like the goal. He began producing with one company, turning out one reel a week. He now has companies, in number as difficult to set down as his offices, putting out thirty reels a week. "And we could make it fifty, if we had to," declared the little power behind; "we can do anything we have to."

Mr. Laemmle told some amazing things about the Universal war situation. "Right now we are doing a much bigger business in Europe than we did before the war began. And this is confined almost entirely to England, for there is no business at all in Germany and Austria.

"A growing demand in Russia is being cultivated by the sending of films there by special messengers, who need almost four weeks to make the trip. So far, every ship sailing to England carries our films. We don't risk sending all of them by one ship, for if it were lost all would be lost. So we divide them up and send them in relays.

"And we are doing a great business, over which I am very happy. If it were not for the war we would be doing twice as much, but still I am very happy."

Miss Tempest Revives a Spirited Farce.

BY PERCY HAMMOND.

IT might have been expected that Miss Tempest and Mr. Graham Brown would be lost in the tumult and the shouting of so lively an American farce as "Nearly Married." But at the Garrick last evening they were not in the least dismayed by their alien environment, and they gave a thoroughly agreeable performance of Mr. Selwyn's dexterous absurdity.

True, the American tongue on English lips was not always congenial. Such locutions as "What d'ye know about that?" or "Go to it!" sounded a bit limp when uttered with the insular elegance of the players; but this only freshened the frayed slang and added to the fun. For it was fun from the start—even more fun, I thought, than when the original company presented it a year or two ago at the Grand. Last season's experiences seemed to bear out the theory that farce should be written by Americans and acted by the English.

There are few employments more engaging than that of watching Mr. Browne breathe his attachment down Miss Tempest's back—they are so likable and seem so genuinely fond of each other. Even in a public room of a Fifth avenue [New York] hotel their murmurings convince by their apparent sincerity. Does she remember that ecstatic day of their honeymoon in Monte Carlo—the snowy Alps, the topaz sea, the soft skies, the band in the Café de Paris playing the barcarole from "The Tales of Hoffmen"? She does, and so they forget that they are about to be divorced and away they go by motor to Mr. Browne's lodge in the wilderness to begin life anew.

Both Miss Tempest and Mr. Brown have the inestimable quality of making the lines their own, no matter how extravagant the situation. I suspect that you can get more illusion out of their performance of this preposterous contrivance than you can from most serious things played in the usual way. They manage also to abridge the embarrassments of the circumstances and dialogue, which is comforting, since the incidents of the second act are frankly of the flesh. It may be recalled that just as the reunited pair are about to retire to their chamber in a roadhouse, Mr. Brown's inimical brother-in-law arrives with the news that their divorce has been granted and that they may not do so respectably.

However remiss Mr. Selwyn may have been in flowering his inventive ingenuity with bright remarks, he is smartly on the job with cunning intricacies of plot. There are not many minor farces whose story has more diverting angles and whose manufacture is more trig and taut. All lesser rôles have competent performance in this revival.

News Notes.

Robert Mantell will reach the Garrick on April 5 for a two weeks' season of Shakspearean performances. He will follow Lew Fields in "The High Cost of Loving."

Negotiations are in progress for a spectacular summer musical review at the Garrick, with Joseph Santley as the principal figure. Miss Mollie King, Miss Ina Claire, and "Tom" McNaughton are tentatively referred to as members of the company. The words of the piece are by Harry B. Smith and the music by Silvio Hein.

Henry Kolker, indisposed last evening, gave no performance of "Our Children" at the Princess. His illness is not serious, and he will, his physicians say, be able to play tonight.

Mr. Kolker's assignment for the Actors' fund benefit is a one act play by James Kidder, called "The Banker's Wife," in which he will have the assistance of Miss Mabel Taliaferro of "The New Henrietta" and Harry Mestayer of "On Trial."

News of Guy Standing, the actor, is that he has a commission in his majesty's navy and is serving aboard the motor yacht Ytne in the English channel.

Because motion pictures of Mrs. Leslie Carter lessen her value in the variety theaters, the New York vaudeville managers have penalized her by deducting $500 weekly from her $2,000 salary.

The Belasco-Frohman all star revival will be of "A Celebrated Case," it is said, with Otis Skinner as the leading celebrity.

The Keith variety interests are said to have lured Mme. Melba into vaudeville, beginning next fall, by offering her $5,000 a week—$1,000 in excess of Mme. Calve's stipend. John McCormack was approached with a promise of $5,000 weekly, but he declined, estimating his value at $25,000.

What Hotmann Did to Frederic Chopin.

BY RONALD WEBSTER.

SO precarious is the career of many musicians that the lowly reviewer is unhappy about anything unpleasant he may have to say about them. Josef Casimir Hofmann, the pianist, is not one of these. One is not inclined to be sympathetic about his laches nor lenient toward his delinquencies. Delinquencies is not a good word at that, for in his position sins are of commission and not of omission.

Mr. Hofmann gave his only recital of the season at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. What he did to one Chopin number drove the emaciated Orchestra hall mouse from his hiding place among the ventilators, sent him speeding up and down the center aisle, to the amazement of the men and the terror of the few women who happened to see him.

Chopin is supposed to have indicated the manner in which his works ought to be played. The historical phrase is, I believe, "limpidité délicate." This convention has had sufficient force to lead musicians inclined to be sentimental into a kind of maudlin ecstasy, but it apparently had no effect on Mr. Hofmann in his treatment of the scherzo in C sharp minor.

When he finished it, it was almost demolished. It is absurd to take exception to unconventional readings—it may be that this was not particularly unconventional—but the kind of iconic ferocity which "goes through" the piano seems a bit out of place.

If Mr. Hofmann were but an automobile manufacturer with musical leanings instead of a musician with a hobby for making automobiles, one would be more inclined to forgive his displays of strength; but with him who can do anything he likes with the piano, as he demonstrated at this same recital, it is not easy to do so.

Three of the Chopin numbers on the program it would be querulous to complain of—the etudes in A flat major and G flat major, and the Valse in E flat major.

Mr. Hofmann restrained himself in the familiar Schumann numbers and did not give himself over to making an orchestra out of his piano in the compositions of Ganz or Dvorsky. "Fileuse Pensive" of Ganz was a descriptive piece with a few not unpleasant modern eccentricities, and the peasant dance a cheerful and not too exacting bit of modernism.

There was an audience of good size, demonstrative, ready to seize upon all the passing moments of enjoyment which offered themselves, in which occupation they were kept extremely busy. One might have wished, perhaps, for a less hackneyed program.

Rumor has it that Christine Miller, Paul Althouse, Arthur Middleton, and probably Florence Hinkle, are to be taken to San Francisco by the Apollo club during the summer.

Labor trouble is threatening the proposed visit of the Boston Symphony orchestra to the Panama-Pacific exposition. None of the members of the Boston orchestra belong to the union and the president of the Federation of American Musicians is now on his way to San Francisco.

Three other recitals of Sunday will receive mention tomorrow.

OBITUARY.

NOTED FRENCH SLEUTH DIES.

Pierre Fortune Jaume Gained International Reputation for Solving Murders.

PARIS, March 7.—Pierre Fortune Jaume, the detective, died here today. He was 69 years of age.

M. Jaume gained an international reputation through his solving of crimes. Among these were the murder of Bailiff Goffe, the killing of Baroness de Lard, and the slaying of five persons at Ponta-Mousson.

The authorities were on the point of abandoning the last named case for lack of a clew when M. Jaume took charge. Within forty-eight hours he had arrested the murderer through the finding of a trouser button. The detective wore picturesque disguises whenever necessary.

JUDGE WILLIAM C. HOOKER of Carthage, Ill., for sixty years one of the best known lawyers of western Illinois, died yesterday at the age of 92. He was a personal friend and vigorous advocate of Stephen A. Douglas, was active in the uprising that drove the Mormons out of Hancock county in the '40s, and was a widely known Mason.

CAPT. DIMITRI VASSILIEFF, naval attaché of the Russian embassy at Washington, died at the national capital after an illness of two months from a stomach disorder. He was 45 years old.

DEATH NOTICES.

FITZGERALD—Winifred A. Fitzgerald, nee Walsh, beloved wife of Cornelius J., fond mother of Mae, Cornelius Jr., Edward, and the late Winnie A.; sister of Mrs. Margaret McMahon, Bridget and Michael Walsh. Funeral Tuesday, March 9, from late residence, 6323 Sangamon-st., 9:30 a. m., St. Brenden's, where high mass will be celebrated, thence by carriages to Mount Olivet; member of St. Celestine court, No. 173, W. Society and Entertainments

Public Speaking Ordeal to Women.

MRS. McCORMICK BLAIR, brought up by her mother, Mrs. Joseph Bowen, to be public spirited, offered her drawing room in Astor street during lent for a class in public speaking.

Unfortunately there were not enough women wanting to distinguish themselves on the rostrum to make the class a go this year, so the idea was dropped.

Last season Prof. Nelson of the University of Chicago had a very promising class which included Mrs. Cyrus H. McCormick, Mrs. Watson Blair, Mrs. Henry Hooper, Mrs. Russell Tyson, Mrs. Dempster, Miss Virginia Chandler, Miss Mildred Blair, Miss Conger, Miss Husard Linn, and others.

Nearly all the members had had previous experience, either in charitable or social affairs, or politics, but they one and all testified that the class in public speaking was the most terrific ordeal they had ever experienced, accompanied as it was by shaking knees, quaking heart, and breaking voice.

Even Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, calm and gracious president of the Fortnightly, was not unmoved after her turn came.

Each woman provided a daily "extemporaneous" speech, either grave, gay, patriotic, or political as the lesson demanded, and delivered it facing her audience from a platform.

Prof. Nelson said he was very proud of his pupils and expected them to distinguish themselves in the future.

None has extinguished herself by public speaking so far, however, and that is quite as important.

Mrs. Carter Harrison achieved quite a reputation as a rattling speech maker during the primary campaign, and went before large audiences with so much spirit, such rosy cheeks, and so vivid a flow of language that it might have been her daily occupation for years.

But the palm for eloquence goes not to Mrs. Harrison. It goes to Miss Katherine Keith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Keith of 2110 Prairie avenue, a mere rosebud, still in her teens, who makes a speech not only extremely intellectual but fiery, that sets her hearers thinking. Miss Keith is a college girl; she is also a "society girl," having come out at one of the usual great fashionable crushes, and one sees where she would make soapbox meetings popular in Chicago, lovely as she is, and clever.

Miss Cornelia Conger is another girl exceedingly admired for her ability in the speaking line. She has poise and the finished phrase at her command, and the political candidate who has her assistance in the spring campaign is lucky.

The Florida contingent is coming home. It is cold and wet at Palm Beach, it seems, and everybody acquires a chill instead of a tan.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moore appear to have been no further than "castles in the air," Mrs. A. B. Dick is unburned, not sunburned, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Revell, who had a party at the Blackstone tea dance on Friday, and were dancing enthusiastically, were quite unchanged.

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Austrian of 5304 Prairie avenue announce the marriage of their daughter Hilda to Hugo Menges on March 1.

Mrs. Isabel Case of 920 Glengyle place, announces the engagement of her daughter Lorena to Victor Lee Huszagh, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Huszagh of 5455 Sheridan road.

Keiths of Baltimore Visit Relatives Here

AMONG the interesting out of town guests are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keith of Baltimore, who are visiting their relatives quietly owing to the recent death of Mr. Keith's mother. Mr. Keith, so well known among his Chicago friends as "Wallie" Keith, used to be one of the most active members of the polo team at Lake Forest and of the Onwentsia Hunt club as well, until he went to Baltimore, the former home of his wife, who was Miss Frances Brown, to live permanently.

Mrs. W. J. Chalmers of 1100 Lake Shore drive will give a supper party this evening at the Casino club following a theater party earlier in the evening. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Chalmers will give a tea in honor of Cyril Maude.

Redfern Corsets

Not how much we sell you, but how well we please you.

Your Model

Be assured that you will find your model in Redfern Corsets, no matter what your figure requirements may be. And you will find corsetieres who know, and who will take pleasure in helping you to select your model, whether it be a Laced-back or a Laced-front corset.

You will be surprised to discover the subtlety with which authoritative style and comfort have been combined. For instance, the new flexible top clasp which perfectly supports, yet yields just enough; the protecting shield in laced-front models which prevents even a hint of discomfort from contact of the flesh with the lacings.

And may we remind you that April Fourth will be Easter? Perhaps never before have you been so pleased as you will be with your new gown when fitted over your own Redfern model. Unusual values at $5.00, $6.00, $7.50 and $10.00.

These New Suits for Women Have Much Charm

The Values Are the Best Our Wide Merchandising Experience Enables Us to Procure. Every Woman Who Contemplates Paying $25.00 or More for a Suit Should See Our Present Assortments.

Varying from simple, braid-bound, tailored styles to elaborate models of combination silks and wools, here is a collection of models from which any woman can choose with assurance and satisfaction.

Seldom has there been such a season as this for variety! From short coatees to tunic-ed coats, from simple skirts to those whose fullness is accentuated by a flaring flounce, Fashion sponsors such diversity that women have rare opportunity this Spring to express individuality in their selection. Daily, new and lovely models are being added to our assortments.

Four Smart Models Are Sketched.

At $60.00—The handsome Suit of gabardine combined with poult de soie, illustrated at the left of the center. This Suit is beautified by hand executed stitchings in color.

At $50.00—Very effective is the Suit embroidered with "silver" threads and simply belted, illustrated at the right of the center. It comes in white gabardine as well as taupe, navy, green and French blue.

Women's Modish Coats at $47.50

From many excellent Coats we illustrate two especially attractive models.

At many prices there are many styles, colors, and fabrics, so that practically every woman can find the model here which pleases her most.

Illustrated at right is a youthful style, with its new, slightly cowl-like collar made of the same handsome coin-spotted or flower-strewn silk which lines the Coat. It is made in gabardine, gabardine serge and checked woolens.

Sixth Floor, North Room, State Street.

Beautiful New Blouses

No little part of the charm of the new suit depends upon the proper choice of Blouses. We have never before offered so many interesting models.

Many of the models have an intricacy of design, a happy combination of colors, that defy adequate analysis.

Such is the model sketched at the right. Very beautiful is the effect of colored silk tulle over metal and thread embroidered nets—mounted on shell pink chiffon lining, $16.75.

Another Blouse, charming with suits, is of colored crepe Georgette over chiffon. It has a unique vestee effect and is elaborately hand embroidered in metal and colored silk threads. Illustrated on the seated model. Price, $10.75.

A practical Blouse to accompany street suits is of irregularly dotted crepe de chine in colors, with its collar and cuffs satin faced in the same bright color that forms the dots in the fabric. Price, $8.00.

Sixth Floor, Middle Room, State Street.

Taffeta Dance Frocks—Special at $17.50

We obtained special price concessions from a manufacturer who usually supplies us with higher priced Frocks, on a limited number of particularly charming models.

Every woman will know by their excellent style and beautiful fabrics that these Frocks were made to sell for considerably more.

We suggest an inspection of them early.

NEW SPRING BOOTS AND LOW CUT FOOTWEAR revealing the finer points of style

To say that "our lines for Spring are ready" is a true but a barren phrase. It gives no idea of the really brilliant array of things new in Footwear which our displays present.

COLOR is rapidly regaining a place in women's Footwear that it has not held for generations. In Boots and low cut novelties, new shades, new blendings, and new touches of tone are worked out with wonderful skill.

In no former season (and we speak advisedly) have the lightness, daintiness, and charm of feminine apparel been so adequately reflected in her Footwear as now.

The exclusiveness of our lines of Footwear is an important point—one to which a women should give full weight in planning her Spring selections.

A visit to our Shoe Section—Fourth Floor—is the quickest way to learn what of the new is desirable in Footwear.

FOES OF SALOON MAY ENLIST AID OF THIRD PARTY

Progressives Ready to Declare for Wiping Out of All Liquor Traffic in Country.

MURDOCK IS NEW LEADER.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—An alliance between the Progressive party and the organized opposition to the liquor traffic is in process of negotiation. If it works out satisfactorily the Progressive party will proclaim itself the only authorized champion of national prohibition in the presidential campaign next year.

The plan is being promoted by former Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas, the new chairman of the Progressive national committee, and is said to have been approved by Theodore Roosevelt. Col. Roosevelt paved the way for incorporation of prohibition in the Progressive platform when he assailed the liquor traffic in the series of campaign speeches he made in a number of western states last year.

Murdock Will Divide Work.

National Chairman Murdock departed for Kansas the day after his twelve years of service in the house of representatives close, with the adjournment of congress last Thursday. He will divide his time between editing his newspaper, the Wichita Eagle, and efforts to revive the Progressive party.

On the eve of his departure he declined to discuss for publication the steps being taken to hoist the white banner of the "drys" over the third party, but admitted that it should occasion no surprise if this were the outcome of developments in the next few months.

Many Progressive leaders believe that the liquor question will be an important if not the paramount issue in the national election next year, particularly in the event that the next congress at the first regular session beginning in December next refuses to submit the national prohibition constitutional amendment to the state legislatures.

Cummins' Stand an Indication.

That the prohibition question is to be put squarely up to the political parties already is evident. The recent declaration by Senator Cummins of Iowa, a recognized candidate for the Republican nomination for president, that the "saloon must go" is regarded as particularly significant.

If, however, neither the Republican nor Democratic party should nominate a "dry" candidate or accept a "dry" platform plank, the Progressives would be able to embrace an opportunity to revive their fortunes by putting out a strong bid for the support of Prohibitionists.

Chairman Murdock is impressed with the necessity of taking heroic measures to prevent the disintegration of the Progressive organizations in the various states. For the purpose of holding these organizations together, he will encourage Progressives to participate actively in all local political contests this year and to espouse the cause of the "drys" in all fights over the regulation of the liquor traffic.

Dissension Among Leaders.

The extent of the setback suffered by the Progressive party at the congressional election last fall is beginning to be realized. According to the political gossip in Washington there has been a good deal of dissension among the Progressive leaders which has not helped to recover lost ground.

The announcement that Joseph M. Dixon, former United States senator from Montana, had resigned the chairmanship of the Progressive national committee and that Mr. Murdock had been elected his successor, came as a surprise to the politicians here and to the public. It appears that Mr. Dixon presented his resignation to the Progressive conference held in Chicago following the election, but that the fact was suppressed.

Mr. Murdock admits that the resignation of Mr. Dixon was not announced at the time, but says there was no reason why it should not have been given out. He said that Mr. Dixon resigned because he was compelled to devote his entire time to his business in Montana and felt that in that distant state he could not keep in touch with the headquarters in New York.

Delay Urged by Perkins.

Mr. Murdock was proposed for chairman by the western Progressives at the Chicago conference, and probably would have been elected then had it not been for the views of George W. Perkins, chairman of the executive committee. Mr. Perkins said he favored Murdock, but induced the conference to postpone action until after a meeting of the executive committee in January.

In the meantime the views of the national committeemen on the selection of Murdock were to be obtained by correspondence. Mr. Perkins, it appears, did not call the meeting of the executive committee in January. The national committeemen, however, unanimously indorsed Murdock, and his election to the chairmanship finally was announced ten days ago by the New York headquarters.

Other resignations presented to the Chicago conference were those of National Committeemen Medill McCormick of Illinois and John J. Sullivan of Ohio.

Some Leaders Admit Friction.

That the relations of Mr. Perkins with the other Progressive leaders are not as harmonious as could be desired is admitted by some members of the party and there is a good deal of speculation here concerning the quality of team work that will be displayed by Mr. Perkins and Mr. Murdock. One complaint frequently heard is that Perkins is too jealous of his own authority and antagonizes any move to deprive the executive committee of power.

At the Chicago conference the western members proposed a committee on program consisting of Robins, chairman; Lindsay, Murdock, Beveridge, Garfield, Bird, and Perkins. Mr. Perkins approved this plan, but never has appointed the committee. This is one of the first matters to which Chairman Murdock gave his attention upon assuming his new office. He said that he intends to see that this plan is carried out.

This committee on program, it was planned, should put forth a set of resolutions this spring for the guidance of the state organizations of the party in local political contests. These resolutions were intended to set forth the position of the party leaders on the question of amalgamation with either the Republicans or the Democrats. The failure of Perkins to appoint the committee on program, it is alleged, has promoted the further disintegration of the party.

Johnson May Aid Wilson.

It is reported that Progressive state organizations are on the point of going over in a body either to the Republicans or Democrats. One story that has reached Washington is to the effect that Hiram Johnson is likely to deliver the Progressives of California and Oregon to Wilson next year.

That there is great danger of the Democrats winning considerable Progressive support is the view of many third party members. President Wilson's appointment of two Progressives to the trade commission is interpreted by some as a bid for Progressive support. Others see in it a design to strengthen the Progressives as a buffer party strong enough to make Democratic success possible next year, as in 1912.

Mr. Perkins has the loyal support of a large section of the Progressive party. His friends say that in spite of his record as an organizer of trusts he is a militant Progressive and a valuable asset in leadership. The anti-Perkins Progressives say that his convictions on the virtues of combinations of capital make him a burden to the party in these days. His views of trust regulation are alleged to be diametrically opposed to the drastic proposals contained in the Progressive anti-trust bill introduced in the house by Mr. Murdock.

FAKE I. W. W. PARADE TIP SPOILS MANY A SUNDAY REST

Police, Reporters, and Photographers Gather for Expected Fray, but Gospel Singers Only Appear.

Saturday night somebody telephoned newspapers and the police that an I. W. W. demonstration would be led by W. D. Haywood yesterday at Madison and Desplaines streets. According to the informant, a parade would be formed and proceed to the scene of the Haymarket riot for a second demonstration, and would wind up at St. Patrick's Catholic church for a third demonstration as the congregation was coming out from mass.

For the fifth successive Sunday the police assembled reserves and newspaper reporters and photographers assembled for the expected fray.

But the worst that happened was the acquisition of bad colds by a quartet of gospel singers at Desplaines and Madison streets who tried to interest an audience consisting of a score of lodging house habitues who had heard nothing about any parade.

Martin Wirtz, 6 years old, 1319 North Halsted street, stood gazing longingly at the posters in front of a 5 cent theater near Clark and Madison streets last night when Policeman Timothy Haines accosted him. When questioned he said that he and his brother, James, 10 years old, had walked downtown, intending to steal their way into a 5 cent theater to see the "injuns," as he expressed it. He said his brother had succeeded in getting past the doorman, leaving him outside. He was taken to the station, where his father got him.

EXAMINE BOOKS; ACCUSE CLERK

Harry Moylan, However, Denies Realty Firm's Charge.

Until two weeks ago Harry Moylan was rent manager for the real estate firm of Regelin, Jenson & Co. at 4003 Broadway. His employers regarded him as a "model young man." He was at the office early and late and attracted attention for his remarkable lack of "bad habits."

At home he faced the problem of keeping his wife and two children happy on his salary of $100 a month and his occasional commissions from renting deals. His wife is the daughter of a wealthy south side family, and has been accustomed to "having things." Moylan was accustomed to collect rents from people who pay $150 a month for their apartments.

Glance at His Books.

Just before he left them Harry's employers suspected that he was solving his financial problems too easily. They dropped in one evening and glanced at his books. Then they took them to their downtown office and looked into them more thoroughly. They are still loking, but a warrant has been issued for Harry's arrest on a charge of embezzlement and it may be served today.

"It will be a long time before we find out how much is missing," said William J. Jenson, a member of the firm. "We have found a shortage of about $600 so far and have simply sworn out a warrant on one item, as we felt we should do, but we're only at the beginning of our investigation."

"Moylan did his work well. He had access to all the cash and checks that came in from people who were paying their rent.

"Some of our tenants who made payments were given their receipts, the checks were sent to the bank, but the cash disappeared. If three people came in and paid $100 cash and a fourth gave a check, for example, the amount of the checks was distributed over the four accounts and the cash kept. Then the check would go through the bank without a hitch.

Hard to Check Up.

"Now most of the people concerned have moved or left the city, and it's going to be a long, hard job to check up, for we are writing to all these people. Some of the receipts that are unaccounted for are dated as far back as last August. Some are deposits on apartments in buildings not ready for occupancy.

"When Mr. Moylan found we were examining his books he said he 'didn't like that sort of thing' and resigned."

"All Hot Air."

Moylan, who lives at 4330 Vista terrace, was at home in the evening. He said there was "absolutely nothing to it."

"It's all hot air," he insisted. "No, no, there's no warrant for my arrest. You'll know all about this tomorrow. I'm not going to talk to you now. That's sufficient!"

The police have told Mr. Jenson that Moylan will be arraigned in the Sheffield avenue court today. Mr. Jenson said the warrant had been issued Saturday by Judge Fisher. Mr. Jenson could not understand why Moylan had not been arrested immediately.

MADDEN DEFENDS NEGROES.

Illinois Congressman Addresses Massmeeting in Boston, Protesting Against Discrimination.

Boston, Mass., March 7.—Discrimination by congress or by state legislatures against negroes was condemned at a massmeeting at which Moorfield Storey of this city and Congressman Martin B. Madden of Illinois were speakers today.

FOILS BAD TIMES BY 'AD' CAMPAIGN

Makes His Business Increase from 19 to 70 Per Cent by Using Newspapers.

East St. Louis, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—The results of a remarkable campaign of newspaper advertising that brought in the midst of the business paralysis following the outbreak of the European war a maximum gain in business of 70 per cent over the trade for the same period a year ago, were announced today by George M. Brown, president of the General Roofing company, which has its parent manufacturing center here.

Has Spent $150,000.

Of the $200,000 that Mr. Brown, to the consternation of "conservative" associates, scooped from the treasury last August for the publicity venture that was to transform disaster into increments of benefit, a little more than $150,000 has been spent thus far, and even were the campaign to end now its consequent results would continue to arrive during the coming months, Mr. Brown says.

While other manufacturers were bemoaning the "depression," Mr. Brown's concern broadened its scope until, completely outstripping even the record of its most prosperous era, it is exhibiting for the months of January and February, just ended, a series of colossal gains.

Gain in Every Department.

For these two months, Mr. Brown says, minimum gain in any department was 19 per cent over the corresponding period in 1914, when conditions generally were at or above normal.

Not one of the company's 1,600 employés has been laid off a minute since the campaign started.

BURNS MEN SEEK CACHE OF STOLEN CANADIAN BILLS.

Information Obtained as Result of Westminster Arrests May Reveal Hiding Place of Dominion Money.

Operatives from the Burns Detective agency are quietly working to locate the supply of Canadian money which was stolen in the $271,000 robbery at the Bank of Westminster four years ago.

It was reported that the arrest of Webster and Bingham in Chicago has given the agency a lead which may result in the recovery of the money. The agency denied this, but it was learned that in trailing the two much information as to the hiding place of the stolen bills was uncovered.

Webster and Bingham will be held here on a charge of operating a confidence game. It is unlikely that any charges in connection with the bank robbery will be made against them.

Bingham was released on bonds of $3,000 signed by Frank Dean, who has offices at 121 North La Salle street.

ACTRESS TRIES TO END LIFE.

Florence Russell Said to Have Taken Poison at Hotel While Despondent.

Through an anonymous call the police received a report last night that Florence Russell, an actress living at the Jackson hotel, Jackson boulevard and South Halsted street, had attempted to commit suicide by swallowing poison. The informant said he was Dr. Henry R. Krashnow of 1346 South Halsted street, and that he had been attending her. Detectives questioned Miss Russell and, it is said, she admitted taking poison while despondent. She refused to divulge the reason.

Pastor Shocked by Costume of Women Dancers

"BEAR CAT" STARTLES

Club women investigators went into the dance halls again Saturday night. But they went with new purposes. Mrs. Charles E. Merriam and her party were interested particularly in one thing. This was whether Chief Gleason's order about the no sale of whisky in the dance halls was obeyed. They were satisfied the order and "beer and wine only" was generally enforced.

The Rev. Stuart B. Edmondson of the Broadway Methodist Episcopal church and his companion assumed the quizzical role on another angle. They sought local color in a campaign for civic righteousness. The minister and his companion got what they sought in "quantities." Dr. Edmondson preached about his observations last night.

Did the "Bear Cat."

Dr. Edmondson and his companion had spent the early morning hours at the Coliseum. The Collins Athletic and Benevolent association had staged a night of dancing and drinking from 7 p. m. to 8 a. m., according to the minister.

"I never saw costumes so indecent," said Dr. Edmondson, "and such bad dancing. Many didn't dance at all. They just went on the floor and put their arms around one another and wiggled. The young women and men went around throwing their arms about one another in indiscriminate embraces and nobody raised any objection.

Costume a Shocker.

"A girl told me that was the approved mode of introduction there. This girl wore the most shocking costume I ever saw. Yet she did not appear to be enjoying herself particularly in it. I asked her why she dressed as she did, and found that she was more in need of sympathy than censure—as, in fact, all of the young people at the dance were.

"She wore a tight chemise and no stockings—just slippers on her bare feet —a poor little working girl seeking to be amused.

"She told me she could not afford a more attractive costume, and she wished to wear something that would attract male attention to her. That is why she dressed herself in the scant white slip for the ball and discarded her stockings.

"A man reached over and fondled her in a suggestive manner, but she showed no resentment. She explained that was his way of being introduced to her. All of the introductions were after this mode, she said. I left the Coliseum very sad."

Mrs. Treadwell "Spotted."

But while Dr. Edmondson and his companion were busily observing Mrs. Harriet Taylor Treadwell, president of the Chicago Political Equality league, was conferring with the manager of the ball. Mrs. Treadwell was "spotted" as an investigator ten minutes after her entrance into the ballroom.

The first thing she did was to order more ventilation for the dancers. The ballroom assistants vainly tried to open the windows in obedience to her command, but were more successful in stopping the objectionable dancing, she said.

"Three times as many women as men were at the ball," Mrs. Treadwell said. "The women's costumes were most objectionable. Modesty is one of woman's virtues. But when a woman will appear in a baby's costume and a small child's jumpers before a large crowd of men this modesty is lacking. It is a crime to permit them to wear such costumes and the costumes of boys.

Girl Drinks Ten Beers.

"I objected to a girl's approaching a young man, so a policeman stopped her advances on my request. Between the hours of 12 and 3 one girl drank ten glasses of beer. I saw four fights at the bar. A boy who was probably 17 was shut out from the bar after older men had taken his dollar and ordered beer for themselves. He had a right to be angry."

Mrs. Merriam and her investigator and Mrs. Howard Ray succeeded in remaining unidentified as "spotters" in another part of the Coliseum. The investigator almost bought a "whisky," Mrs. Merriam said.

Almost Got a Whisky.

"The investigator ordered a whisky and the waiter told him that he might bring one in a port wine glass," said Mrs. Merriam. "But the waiter returned to say that the whisky had all been sold out at 1 o'clock. 'Then, you see the investigators,' he said, pointing to Mrs. Treadwell.

"The runners about the hall announced that the publicity on dance halls was good for business. More people attended dances now than ever before, they said. I was amused to hear Mrs. Merriam's name frequently," said Mrs. Merriam.

"All were convinced that the investigators should be 'shot before sunrise.'

"Closed for a While."

"At Walhalla hall, 3700 Wentworth avenue, there was a very pretty dance," said Mrs. Merriam. "A woman in a costume of peace and a dove for a crown won the first prize. She carried a banner showing that Norway, Sweden, and Denmark are at peace with the world.

"But the one thing that was objectionable was the winner of the first prize for men. He rolled a screen about with a buffet attached. On the buffet were arrayed whisky bottles and the sign, 'Closed for a while.' None applauded the award of this prize, however, showing the disapproval of the award. The meaning is significant—that the next chief of police will not object to the sale of whisky in ballrooms.

Scalds Fatal to Child.

Joseph Lang, 3 years old, died at the home of his parents, 456 North Peoria street, yesterday of scalds from a pitcher of hot water the child upset three days ago.

'RAFFLES' WORKS AS RIVER FOREST FILM FANS REVEL

NEW CASES REPORTED

River Forest has one dissipation. It is going to the "movies." Some one—it may be a gentleman "Raffles"—has taken advantage of this fondness for film drama.

Within the last two months there have been nearly a score of burglaries in the west side suburb. In almost every case occupants of the houses were diverting themselves at moving picture theaters. The robber apparently was acquainted with the habits of the residents.

Saturday night there were two more burglaries. They occurred between 8 and 9:30 o'clock, while the residents were at the "movies."

Village Particular About Visitors.

Few suspicious characters ever get into River Forest. A shabbily dressed stranger usually is required to give an explanation of his mission. Consequently the series of depredations in the suburb seems to point to the theory that they were committed by a resident of the locality—possibly a respected citizen afflicted with kleptomania.

The most recent robberies occurred at the homes of Harry De Joannis, 315 Williams street, and Eugene H. George 272 Park avenue. Mrs. De Joannis and daughter returned from the theater to find $100 worth of silverware and jewelry missing. The intruder had entered by breaking open two rear doors. Mr. De Joannis is in Bridgeport, Conn., where he is publishing a trade paper.

Mr. George, who is commercial agent of the Wabash railroad, had been at the movies with his family. Their loss was about $50. A "jimmy" had been applied to the front door.

These Homes Also Robbed.

Other residents who have suffered in like manner include:

Frank W. Swett, 335 North Franklin, lawyer; loss, silverware and jewelry.

Some residents have banded together and employed a private watchman to supplement the activities of the regular "force." According to one account, the watchman has not gone on duty till 10 o'clock.

Two or three weeks ago a "suspect" was taken into custody. He was wearing a suit identified as the one lost by Mr. Brashears. The village police admit there is still a "raffles" at large.

SCHUETTLER TO BUY HOME IN SUNNY CALIFORNIA.

No Intention of Resigning as First Deputy of Chicago Police Now, but Looks to Future.

This was the bulletin that flashed over the wires into THE TRIBUNE office last night:

Los Angeles, Cal., March 7.—"Southern California is the most beautiful country in the world and I will make my home here," declared Herman F. Schuettler of Chicago, here on a vacation trip with Mrs. Schuettler.

"I have just learned former Lieut. Victor Schumacher, the man who was, in a way, my guide and adviser when I was a youngster on the department, is on a ranch in Fullerton. I have not seen him in twenty years, and I am going straight to him in the morning. I am preparing to buy a home right here in Los Angeles."

Mr. Schuettler denied he had any intention of resigning from the Chicago police force at the present time, saying the intended purchase would be for later years.

Indianapolis Federal Court to Take Up Case of Mayor and Twenty-seven Others.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 7.—The stage was all set tonight for the beginning here tomorrow in the United States District court of the trial of twenty-eight men of Terre Haute on an indictment charging that they conspired to corrupt the election of Nov. 3, 1914, in Terre Haute.

The list of defendants includes Mayor Donn M. Roberts, Dennis Shea, sheriff of Vigo county, Judge Eli H. Redman of the Circuit court, and a number of other city and county officials.

This will be the first case in which the federal government has undertaken prosecution of alleged illicit election acts on the ground that it has jurisdiction because a United States senator and a member of the national house of representatives were being elected.

Pail Upset; Scalds Kill Baby.

Bessie Rosner, 16 months old, of 1913 South Troy street, died yesterday after having been scalded accidentally by her mother, Mrs. Bessie Rosner. The mother was carrying a pail of boiling water and spilled part of it on the child.

Gould's Career as a Rail Chief Ends This Week

WINDS UP LONG FIGHT

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—The passing of George J. Gould from the management of the last of the old Jay Gould properties is expected this wek.

If the men named by Otto H. Kahn are elected directors of the Missouri Pacific at the annual shareholders' meeting on Tuesday—and this is considered a certainty in financial circles—the fight begun by E. H. Harriman in 1905 and continued by Kahn, who was Harriman's side partner, will have attained its object, the complete elimination of Gould as a controlling factor in railway affairs.

The directors named by Kahn, it is said, include only one representative of the Gould interests. This is George J. Gould's brother-in-law, Finley J. Shepard, the former Chicagoan who married Miss Helen Gould.

A Ten Year Old Fight.

It was exactly ten years ago this month that George J. Gould startled Wall street by the announcement that he intended to extend the Denver and Rio Grande, the Missouri Pacific's western arm, to the Pacific coast through Southern Pacific's territory, and then push the Wabash eastward to the Atlantic.

Immediately after that announcement was made Gould was dropped from the directorate of Union Pacific, a position he had inherited from his father. Wall street knew then there was a fight on between the head of the house of Gould and the executive head of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific system.

Gould succeeded in buying the Western Maryland; he connected that road with the city of Pittsburgh, and then the Wabash railroad, and he built the Western Pacific from Salt Lake through to the Pacific coast. Then things began to happen. The Western Maryland, the Wheeling and Lake Erie, the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal company, and the Wabash railroad, one after another, were all thrown into the hands of receivers.

Last week the Western Pacific defaulted interest on its bonds and a receiver was appointed.

The Men Behind Kahn.

In the Missouri Pacific election Kahn has behind him A. J. Hemphill, chairman of the Guaranty Trust company; Seward Prosser, president of the Bankers' Trust company; James N. Wallace, president of the Central Trust company; and Robert Winsor of Kidder, Peabody & Co.

According to a statement, the foregoing group of bankers has succeeded in obtaining proxies for a majority of Missouri Pacific's stock, and those proxies will be voted on Tuesday for the following directors: Nicholas F. Brady, B. F. Bush, Newcomb Carlton, E. A. Faust, and W. H. Lee of St. Louis; A. J. Hemphill, Edgar L. Marston, Edwin G. Merrill, Finley J. Shepard, Cornelius Vanderbilt, R. Lancaster Williams, W. H. Williams, and C. Minot Weld of Boston.

While Gould has lost control of all of the old properties that were left in the Jay Gould estate, he probably has more ready money than any man in Wall street. From now on Gould expects to travel most of the time.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SNOW NEMESIS OF BURGLAR GLOOM

A light snowfall early yesterday proved to be a "first aid" to policemen chasing burglars and enabled them to effect the capture of one of four alleged robbers who had broken into the Central Leather company, North Sangamon street and West Chicago avenue.

The men were surprised by J. D. Hertz, the watchman. He telephoned to the police and then attempted single handed to capture the burglars. They fled as Policemen Dirken, Dunba, and Wiedbusch approached. The burglars separated and one of them ran into a residence in the vicinity.

When the policemen followed him by footprints in the snow they found Stanley Gloom of 900 West Chicago avenue taking off his coat. He was taken back to the leather plant and when they found his footprints identical with the tracks in the snow he was locked up.

William Walker, 18 years old, of 346 East Thirty-fifth street, and Welcome Peterson, 2404 South Wabash avenue, negroes, were arrested on suspicion of having committed a number of robberies on the south side.

Taken to the Stanton avenue station, they were identified by Hugh Butlin of 63 East Thirty-sixth place as the two who had held him up at Thirty-sixth street and South Michigan avenue Saturday night and robbed him of $18.25.

The negroes are suspected of having committed robberies in the Stanton avenue, Twenty-second street, and Thirty-fifth street police districts. They are held for identification.

Two men entered the saloon of John E. Murphy, 217 West Van Buren street, and after backing the owner into the icebox took $25.80 from the cash register and escaped.

Timothy Morrissey of 4414 Emerald avenue reported that two negroes robbed him of $12 and a gold watch early yesterday while he was walking through the subway of the Rock Island railroad at West Thirty-fifth street.

Carl Salvo, 16 years old, of 864 Orleans street, and George Carson of 1015 Milton avenue were arrested three hours after they are alleged to have robbed the home of Mrs. J. G. Jabo of 1151 Milton avenue and escaped with jewelry valued at $50. They were taken into custody while acting suspiciously in front of 1032 Milton avenue. The stolen jewelry and a loaded revolver are alleged to have been found in Carson's possession.

BURKE ENACTS NIGHT SLAYING BEFORE WITNESS

POLICE ENTHUSE OVER TEST.

Aurora, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—A man in a long gray overcoat stood in the shadows on the east side of North Lake street, near the Cedar street corner, tonight. At a word of command, slouching and grumbling, he made his way across the pavement, passing through a circle of light from a neighboring arc.

In the second story window of an apartment house a couple of hundred feet away sat a woman, reading. She glanced up as the man entered the lighted area. Her eyes followed him until he had disappeared into the shadows on the opposite side of the street.

Presently the man reappeared, this time coming toward her across the street. The woman ran to another window and watched him until once more he had been swallowed in the gloom.

No Slaying This Time.

It was a repetition of something that had happened in the same street a week ago last Thursday night, only this time no murdered girl was left lying on the sidewalk.

The woman in the window was Mrs. Elizabeth Calkins, who heard Emma Peterson's dying scream and saw the murderer. The sullen man who paraded for her benefit on the pavement, apparently master of his own movements but in reality surrounded by a cordon of police and obeying their orders, was Clarence Burke, the ex-convict drug fiend, held in connection with the most recent of the mysterious Aurora woman murders.

Cannot Trust Her Eyes.

"It was too far away—I wouldn't want to send any man to the gallows on the evidence of my poor eyes," protested Mrs. Calkins when Chief Michels asked her if Burke was the man she had seen the night of the murder. "It did look like the same man, though. The gray overcoat, the black felt hat, the man's height and build—all were about the same. I won't say positively. I can't."

The police, attaching even more importance to Mrs. Calkins' words than if she had not qualified her identification, said they believed their case against Burke materially strengthened. When he is arraigned tomorrow on a technical charge of vagrancy they will ask for a continuance, that they may have opportunity to weave additional strands into the net of circumstantial evidence in which he is enmeshed.

Burke Not the Man.

During the afternoon Mrs. William Henderson, the wife of a wealthy real estate man, failed to recognize Burke as the man whom she saw two blocks from the scene of the murder half an hour earlier.

"No, that is not the man," she said. "Of that I am sure, for he passed me on the sidewalk and I am positive I would know him if I were to see him again."

Mrs. Henderson's statement was considered significant by Chief Michels.

Edward Utterback, who identified Burke as the man he had seen fifty feet from the spot where Mrs. Henderson saw the man believed to have been Burke, was again questioned by the police. He repeated his statement and said there could be no doubt but the person he saw was Burke.

Two Other Witnesses.

Two other witnesses, a man and a woman, whose names the police chief did not divulge, will be asked to identify Burke tomorrow.

"I am convinced that Utterback's statement is correct," said Chief Michels, "and that Burke and his relatives and friends were mistaken when they said he could not have been in the neighborhood of the murder at the time. Burke's alibi has broken down completely."

A point in Burke's favor, despite the destruction of his alibi, is the fact that the clerk who sold the gloves believed to belong to the murderer said positively that Burke was not the man who bought them.

The mystery which has surrounded the slaying of Miss Peterson and the gossip which resulted from the arrest of the scores of men, many of them believed to be "good suspects," has kept Aurora at fever heat. Offers of reward have brought several dozen self-professed "detectives" to the city, many of them odd characters.

English Cap, Raincoat, Pipe.

One of the amateur detectives who has loitered about the city hall for several days evidently uses Sherlock Holmes as a model, as far as outward appearance is concerned. Daily he is seen wearing an English cap and raincoat and smoking a pipe with curved stem.

"I am convinced, my dear sir," he said in answer to a question, "that the murder will be solved if I find a negro who pressed a pair of pants the night before the murder."

Another of the reward seekers, an old man, with whiskers of the well known James Hamilton Lewis style and with a bright red nose, declared with conviction, "I have solved the murder. It was committed by a woman, and if the police chief wants to find her, let him look in northwestern Iowa. That's all I can say about the case."

Two Italians recently employed as night watchmen in Chicago are also convinced they have a clew.

The atmosphere of suspicion which has cloaked the city caused the temporary arrest of a TRIBUNE reporter when he was talking with 8 year old Helen Burke, the daughter of the suspect. A grocer telephoned for a policeman on the belief that the reporter was attempting to kidnap the girl. Explanations followed.

WHALES REACH TRAINING CAMP; OVERCOAT WEATHER

Tinker Will Send Charges Through First Practice Today.

NATIVES GREET TEAM.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Shreveport, La., March 7.—[Special.]—After traveling southward for twenty-seven hours, Joe Tinker and his school of Whales arrived at the Shreveport training camp tonight and found that an overcoat was almost as great a comfort here as it had been in Chicago. The air wasn't of the sort to make a fellow yearn for baseball. The sizzle of the steam radiator sounded good.

Regardless of the wintry conditions, the boss sent all the Whales to bed at an early hour and left a 7:30 o'clock call, so they might be prepared for an early start of the long siege of training tomorrow. The practice field is said to be a bit heavy, but work of some sort is to be had at once, regardless of conditions.

Fans Out to See Whales.

Although it was nearly bedtime when the athletes reached their destination, there was a big crowd of townsmen at the station to greet them. Rooms had been reserved at the hotel, and Secretary Williams had arranged on the train the little matter of "roommates," so all a fellow had to do upon arrival was get his key and go to the hay.

Leslie Mann, Hanford, McGowan, and Warner were here when the Whales arrived. Hendrix and Brennan are at Hot Springs, but will join the local colony in a week.

George Stovall and his squad of ten Newark players stayed here for the night. They will go over to their camp at Marshall, Tex., in the morning. It was damp, cold, and cloudy all day as the Chicago party rambled through the cypress swamps of Arkansas.

Ham and Egg Movies.

There wasn't anything interesting to look at except an occasional razorback hog when the train happened to be passing a bit of high ground. The movie man, who is a part of every spring trip now, caused a bit of excitement early in the morning. He managed it so all or nearly all the Whales assembled in the dining car for breakfast at the same time. Then he set up his machine and caught the squad in the act of eating ham and eggs. This he thinks will be quite the thing for the movie fans back home. It will be absolute proof that ball players do not eat with their knives.

The first injury of the season occurred before any one had a chance to put on a uniform. "Little Aleck" Zwilling grew over-enthusiastic in a game of hearts. While in the act of leading his deuce he banged it on the table in such a pronounced fashion that he sprained his wrist. "King" Brady, the ever ready trainer, had the ointment there in a jiffy and "Little Aleck" will be ready to peg a few from the outfield in a day or two.

Brownie Second Team Pilot.

Mordecai Brown, who is one of us once more, which the latter said the famed three fingered helped pass away the weary hours by showing the recruits a lot of card tricks he had learned in his long experience in baseball. Brownie also had a bit of a talk with Manager Joe, after hurler would be in charge of the second team on the trip, as well as chief instructor for all young pitchers.

FEDS REFUSE TO SIGN BILL JAMES

When Manager Tinker led his school of Whales out of Chicago Saturday night he could have taken with him one of the greatest pitchers in the country, but President Weeghman refused to do business with a man whom he considered legally bound to a club in organized baseball. Bill James of the Boston Braves, one of the three slab heroes in the wonderful climb of the Tribesmen last season and a star in the world series, was in Chicago ready to start for Shreveport with the Whales, and Bill was sadly disappointed when he was left behind.

James got into the city Saturday morning and immediately sought out Weeghman to talk contract. There had been previous negotiations between the two, and at Weeghman's request James brought with him the contract he holds with the Boston club. James signed last year for three seasons with the ten days' clause stricken from the document. The salary stipulated is far below what James considers himself worth after his wonderful work of last year. He has been offered a good increase, but not enough to satisfy him, and he has been holding out on Manager Stallings.

"James came to Chicago prepared to go south with my club," said President Weeghman last night. "I looked over his contract, and to my sorrow found the ten days clause had been removed. As far as I know his Boston contract is legal, and I have not made a practice of signing contract jumpers. I told James we could not do business with him, much as I would like to have him on my club. He left for the east at noon today, undecided as to what he would do this season.

"It is my opinion that I had just as much legal right to take James as Charley Somers had to grab 'Rip' Hagerman off me after the pitcher had signed to play for our club this season. Possibly I should have signed the Boston star, but I still have some respect for the law, even if I am a baseball club owner."

SUIT OF KANSAS CITY FEDS AGAINST LEAGUE UP TODAY.

Legal baseball will be resumed this morning before Judge Baldwin in the Circuit court, when the suit of the Kansas City Federal club to restrain the league from dropping it from the circuit will come up for hearing. Director Haff and former President C. C. Madison of the Kawfeds arrived yesterday and went over their case with Attorney Clarence Eldridge. Stockholders Gordon and Black will be here today in time to take in the proceedings. President Gilmore visited Indianapolis last week and arranged the league's defense with Attorney Gates. The Kansas City men are confident they cannot be ousted, but Gilmore and his lawyer are equally certain that the court will O. K. the transfer of the franchise to Newark.

CUBS TO BATTLE PHILLIES TODAY

Recruit Pitchers Will Face the Quakers in First Real Game of Season.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—[Special.]—Florida's anti-Sunday baseball law gave the Cubs a rest on the seventh day of their spring training trip and they welcomed it in advance of a strenuous series of combats with the Phillies and Athletics of Pennsylvania.

Early tomorrow morning the intrepid athletes who have been picked for the fray will journey to St. Petersburg to inaugurate the playing season of 1915 against Pat Moran's protégés, alias the Philadelphia Nationals. Manager Bresnahan was compelled to make a slight shift in his choice of pitchers for this game because of a telegram calling Ed Schorr home to the deathbed of his mother. The tall recruit left for Lancaster, O., immediately. He was to have been tried out against the Phillies.

Three Recruits to Pitch.

The team assigned to the task of trimming the enemy now consists of Standridge, Adams, and Robbins, pitchers; Tyree and Hargrave, catchers; Saier, first base; McLarry, second; Fisher, short; Zimmerman, third; Schulte, left field; Williams, center, and Good, right. Corriden and Phelan will be taken along as substitute infielders and Knisely as extra outfielder in case any one gets seasick on the train going over.

Lavender and McConnell will be taken along to pitch to the batters in practice and also for life savers if the youngsters get into deep sea and call for help.

Archer Manager Pro Tem.

Jimmy Archer will go along as manager of the outfit. Bresnahan will remain here to keep the rest of the squad peppered up in practice. The trip to St. Petersburg will be made by rail instead of by boat, which is the usual way. A special train has been chartered for the Cub party to guard against injury to any squeamish stomachs.

The natives who have been over the land route express the opinion that it is less conducive to seasickness to travel by water between here and Florida's Coney Island. It takes two hours to go thirty miles by rail, and they do say that it requires a regular Casey Jones in the cab to make the schedule.

The weather prognostications and the indications are against good climate for the pastime tomorrow, so the trip may be called off at the last second. It will be the first miscue of the stay here if that happens.

Rube Cooke Is Disappointed.

The Cubs slept late this morning and were entertained in the afternoon by an automobile trip out into the country twenty-five miles or more to attend a "poultry exhibition." Secretary Cooke, who was attracted by the sound of the expedition, donned his swellest Palm Beach suit and went along. But he was doomed to disappointment. After seeing a couple of the birds killed by their opponents the Cub secretary felt ill in the pit of his alimentary canal and wanted to go home. He allowed that he anticipated a different kind of exhibition.

The players are in fair condition barring the usual crop of lame muscles, and are anticipating hanging the "23" sign on the Phillies, who have had only half a week's training to get in shape for this game. Pat Moran, however, may shoot some of his veteran pitchers into the scrap against the youngsters of the Cub slab outfit, and you never can tell what will happen in such cases.

BARRY WINNER IN 12 INNINGS

Commodore Barry council was forced to battle twelve innings at St. Francis' hall yesterday to defeat St. Patricks in the game that gave the winners another sectional championship in the west division of the Knights of Columbus indoor league. The score was 4 to 1.

Frank Halas and Dillon hooked up in one of the prettiest slab battles seen this season, but the latter "broke" in the twelfth, and a battery of two doubles and as many singles drove around three runs for Barry.

Corcoran and Morrissey started the rally with singles, and Hale and Moore banged out doubles in quick succession. St. Patricks were helpless in their half of the round. Halas hung up twenty-five strikeouts during the long battle and yielded only seven hits. Score:

ANGELS HUMBLE WHITE SOX, 12-2, IN LAST COMBAT

BY SAM WELLER.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Joe Benz and Tex Russell were pounded all over the lot by Los Angeles today and the White Sox dropped the last game of the series to the Angels, 12 to 2. After the damage had been done, Rowland sent in Ellis Johnson to finish the slab work, and the coast sluggers found the youngster for three runs and two hits in four innings.

Some 5,000 fans saw the Sabbath engagement and cheered joyfully as their favorites combed safe hits in all directions. It was the first defeat of the season for the Sox.

Benz Goes Three Innings.

Benz insisted on taking a crack at the slab job, although he is still weak as a result of the attack of typhoid through which he struggled last winter. Joe lasted only three rounds, during which time five hits netted six tallies for the Angels. Russell stayed just long enough to get into the box score. He was swatted for four safeties and three runs in the fourth frame, and Rowland derricked him in favor of Johnson when the fifth started.

Rowland had a good alibi for the defeat, as two of his regulars were unable to perform. With the stars missing the whole team "went bad," and five unseemly errors by the Hose helped the Angels pile up several unnecessary tallies.

Schalk Unable to Play.

Bell time found Schalk out of commission with a crippled pegging paw, the result of having been hit yesterday by a pitched ball. The little backstop will grace the bench for at least four days, and Mayer will fill in behind the plate. Weaver reported with a case of tonsilitis, and his berth was assigned to Howard Baker, who fanned three times in a row.

With these topliners out of the fold, the Sox made a sorry showing against the veteran Tom Hughes and three other flingers. The clouting Coast leaguers mobilized twelve hits of assorted calibers. One "Irish" Meusel, with a triple, two doubles, and a single, was the sticking rascal. Dillon's four hurlers held the Sox to four drives.

Play at San Diego.

Weaver and Schalk are billed to accompany the squad to San Diego tomorrow morning for a series of three games with the Venice Tigers, but it is hardly likely that either will be able to resume play until Thursday, when the Hose return to tangle with the Angels again.

"Doc" White, former Sox star, ran up from San Diego this afternoon and saw his old pals in action. According to the "Doc," his brother Venetians are pulling for the return of Joe Berger to the Coast league, and the deal which will make the German a Tiger is expected to be closed within a few days.

SOCKLETS DRAW; ALSO DROP GAME

Oakland, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Oakland tied the Sox Seconds, 4 to 4, in ten innings this morning, and San Francisco won in the last of the ninth, 3 to 2, in the afternoon. Both were tough games to lose.

Against the Oak pitcher Lathrop had a lead of 4 to 0 up to the ninth, when Berger and Roth were chased by Umpire Phyle for disputing decision. Ed Walsh went to center field and Sammy Bohen replaced Berger. The Oaks started hitting, and Scroggins replaced Lathrop. Bohen erred badly, letting Oakland tie the score with four runs. Neither side could score in the tenth. Oakland's pitchers were Prough, a former Sox; Ables, Pruett, and Christian.

At Frisco in the afternoon "Lefty" Scroggins showed lots of stuff and pitched the whole battle. With better support he would have breezed in. Charley Smith, former Cub, went three innings for the Seals nicely. Colwell relieved him, and the Sox got a run in the fourth. In the seventh Heilmann tied it with a homer over the short fence. Fournier's third hit was good for a Sox run in the ninth. Then two hits and two errors let Frisco win in its half.

FOUR CONTESTS IN CUE TOURNEY

Play in the world's championship three cushion tournament will be resumed today, four games being carded in the arena at the Inter Ocean building, Monroe and Dearborn streets. Joe Capron, the St. Paul veteran, and August Kieckhefer, the young Milwaukee southpaw, who holds the Interstate league championship, will meet in the opening match at 1:45 o'clock and will be followed at 3:30 o'clock by George Moore, the veteran New Yorker, and Charles Ellis of Cleveland, who is at present in front in the Interstate race.

George Sutton, former world's balkline champion, will oppose William Huey of Chicago at night. While Sutton has not specialized at balkline in some years, his recent games in the Champion Billiard Players' Balkline league have forced him to do a lot of open table play. His long trips have put him in excellent condition. Despite his greater experience, Sutton is by no means a favorite over Huey, who is a brilliant and nervy performer. They will start at 7:45 o'clock and be followed by John Daly and Fred Eames, if the latter player arrives. If not, Daly will meet one of the previous losers.

The brilliant opening games Saturday night presage a wonderful tournament. In Hahman Minneapolis has sent a clever and attractive performer, who always is worth watching. Morin, who defeated him, had to go at top speed to win, sixty-four innings being exceptionally fast on a new table in a championship event.

Champion De Oro was off stroke in the opening stages and made an unusual number of misses, but in the later stages he performed up to his usual standard.

In the final game of the week in the three cushion tournament at Mussey's, Ward and Thomas [50] defeated Halliday and Carr [43], 50 to 36. Harris and Cone [50] are billed to play Ward and Thomas [50] tonight.

LEW RITCHIE'S HEALTH GOOD

Williamsport, Pa., March 7.—[Special.]—Williamsport folks were surprised to read a report from Kansas City that Lew Richie, former Cub, was suffering from tuberculosis. Ritchie has spent the winter here, and never at this time of year was he in better physical condition. About two weeks ago, while playing cards in the Elks club, Ritchie was seized with an attack of acute indigestion, and was under the care of a physician for just a few days. Within a week he had entirely recovered.

RITCHIE TO MEET WELSH THURSDAY

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

Local fistic fans and fighters who aspire to the lightweight championship are taking a keen interest in the ten round bout between Champion Freddie Welsh and Willie Ritchie, former holder of the title, which will be decided in Madison Square garden at New York on Thursday night.

This will be the first clash between the pair since Welsh dethroned Ritchie in England. Ever since the former champion has been after a match with his conqueror, and on Thursday night his wish will be granted. Ritchie can regain his title only by knocking out Welsh, and he should put up a rattling good fight.

Ritchie claims he was robbed in London. He asserts he won the fight all the way and should have been given the decision on points. Thursday night he will have a chance to prove his claims. It is certain he will try for a knockout, but few persons expect him to reach any vulnerable part of Welsh's anatomy.

Expect Welsh to Win.

Close followers of the game look for Welsh to win off by himself. The general opinion is that Freddie is practically unbeatable over the ten round route. He has met the best boxers in this country over that distance, and has shown conclusively that he is a past master of the game.

Charley White, the local lightweight, who has boxed Welsh and Ritchie, thinks Welsh will win easily. White says the Englishman is in a class by himself over the ten round distance, and that unless Ritchie should happen to connect with a solid punch Welsh will win easily.

"Gunboat" Smith, the eastern heavyweight, who is matched to box ten rounds with Jack Dillon of Indianapolis in Milwaukee on March 16, is expected in Chicago this week. He has sent word to Harry Forbes that he will do his training at the Forbes gymnasium.

Johnny Ritchie, the local bantamweight, under the management of Harry James, will start training today for two important matches. On March 16 he will meet "K. O." Krause of Milwaukee in one of the preliminaries to the Smith-Dillon match, and two days later he will step ten rounds with Jimmy Walsh in Kenosha.

Eddie McGoorty, the Oshkosh middleweight, yesterday was matched to box six rounds with Buck Crouse in Pittsburgh on March 17. On March 29 he is slated to clash with "Young" A'Hearne in New York over the ten round route. The weight for both contests will be 160 pounds at 3 o'clock.

Azevedo May Meet Mandot.

According to Tommy Walsh, manager of Joe Mandot, the southern lightweight, Joe Azevedo will be Mandot's opponent in a twenty round bout in New Orleans on March 22 if he holds Johnny Griffiths to a draw in their eight round clash in Memphis tonight. Walsh asserted Griffiths is too heavy for Mandot to meet in a long fight.

George "Knockout" Brown and "Fighting Billy" Murray have been matched to meet in one of the all-star bouts to be held in Kenosha early next month.

Charley Scully, the west side boxer, will leave tonight for Milwaukee, where he will meet Ritchie Mitchell before the South Side A. C. tonight.

In all probability Charley White and Steve Robideau will be the principals in the windup of a show to be staged in Philadelphia on March 17 in opposition to the Johnny Kilbane-"Kid" Williams bout. Nate Lewis, manager of White, has accepted terms, and he announced the match will take place.

JONES ACCEPTS HAVANA GO.

El Paso, Tex., March 7.—Manager Tom Jones sanctioned the proposed bout between his protégé, Jess Willard, and Jack Johnston, to be staged in Havana early in April. It is understood that Jones was given a substantial guarantee when he received a cable from Promoter Jack Curley today. Willard, who went to Los Angeles last week, is expected to return within a few days. He then will leave for Cuba as soon as definite arrangements have been completed.

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

WHEN BABY'S GOT A COLD.

A ONE ARMED piccoloist has
As much as he can do;
A bee is always rated as
A busy person, too.
They're hustlers, both, I won't deny.
Nevertheless, I hold
That neither's busier than I,
When Baby's got a cold.

There are five pockets in my vest,
And in my coat five more;
Of trouser pockets I am blest,
As most men are, with four.
They usually hold all the stuff
That I would have them hold.
But fifty wouldn't be enough,
When Baby's got a cold.

CUTLER'S CLAIM DRAWS ROLLER

Physician Athlete Says He Will Cover Forfeit After Rest.

Dr. B. F. Roller is interested in the challenge launched by Charley Cutler in support of his claim to the heavyweight wrestling championship. Roller indicates that he will be prepared to dispute Cutler's pretensions to the title and will cover the forfeit now posted with the sporting editor of "The Tribune."

"I understand Cutler has put up a forfeit to wrestle any man claiming the title," said Roller last night. "I am not ready right now, but before the season ends, when I can get time to lay off a couple of weeks, I'd like to cover anything he can produce and show you who is the real champion since Gotch retired.

"I can't win everything on one night stands, but I can rest two weeks and beat any American wrestler as sure as the sun shines. I beat Cutler the last time we met, and have never been beaten by an American since. I beat Americus of Baltimore on Nov. 23 in Springfield, Mass., and I assure you I am ready to prove any time, on proper notice, that I am the American champion."

Dr. Roller was assured that Cutler's forfeit is still posted and ready to nestle against the forfeit of any other disputant of Cutler's title claims.

BILL HOKUFF VS. PLESTINA.

Bill Hokuff, who forced the "Mystery," John Freiberg, to unmask when he defeated him two weeks ago, will grapple with Marvin Plestina tonight in the feature match at the Casino theater. The wrestlers are evenly matched as to weight, and both have passed through several years of experience in local bouts. Two other matches will fill the card. Emil Bruggillo will tackle Carl Schulz, and Victor Soldad will oppose John Freiberg.

NEW WEST SIDE GOLF LINKS MAY BE LAID OUT THIS YEAR.

Long suffering west side golfers, who have spent many weary hours waiting at the small Garfield park course, are to be given relief. President Grower and Supt. Shrader of the west parks board, in company with Tom Bendelow, made a tour of inspection last week over Warren Woods, the new park at Austin.

Although no appropriation has been made for the installation of the proposed course, the superintendent wished to ascertain if it were not possible to open up the park for play this summer. This would give the players temporary relief.

Bendelow found that by cutting the grass and rolling the ground it would be quite possible to give the players a fairly good layout. He mapped out a nine hole course, 3,466 yards in length, the distances of the holes being 400, 333, 532, 166, 218, 566, 448, 394, and 408.

JOLIET SOCCERS DEFEAT M'DUFFS

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Facing a deficit of one goal at the end of the first half, the Joliet Steel team came back strong in the second and defeated the McDuffs, 7 to 1, in their match in the Association Football League of Chicago at Forty-eighth avenue and Sixteenth street yesterday.

Although the visitors added two points to their total, they still are tied with the Bricklayers in games lost and drawn, each having one draw and one loss. Considering the fall of snow, the ground was in better shape than was expected, but the cold wind which blew from the north was a source of discomfort to both players and spectators.

Browne Helps Scotch Offense.

For the first fifteen minutes the McDuffs were minus Browne. The Scotch defense was good, but the forwards were unable to get the ball far into McDuff territory. Browne then arrived, and from this point on the Scotchmen showed to better advantage, making several good attacks on the wings.

After twenty-seven minutes of play Kelly stopped the ball with his hands and the McDuffs got a penalty. Alec Paul took the kick, and although Vilt partly stopped the shot, the ball went into the net.

With the wind favoring the Joliet team in the second period, the steelmen pressed hard, scoring seven times. One of the goals came when Smith of the McDuffs hooked the ball into his own net. Lineup:

Races in Pin Leagues Closest in History.

FINAL standings before the National tournament were issued yesterday by the secretaries of the various bowling leagues and show that never before in the history of the game has league competition been so keen, especially in the larger organizations.

The Randolph, in which the Hamilton Rackers led until last week all season, has a new leader in the Taylor Trunks, who came from a lowly position. The Chalmers five has forged its way to a position near the top in the City league much in the same way as the Taylors did in the Randolph. The Hotel Planters hold that position by a small margin.

The leadership in Bruck's league has again changed hands, the Prodie & Baers having been passed by the Grossmans, former leaders, and the Saxes, who are tied for the lead. Littaus Ryes have again opened up a two game gap between themselves and the Halperins, and the Sir Ciftons appear to have the edge for the run down the stretch. Averages in this league are the highest in the city, with five teams over the 950 mark. Standings:

SHOOTING TEAMS MEET AT TRAPS

BY JACK PROCTOR.

A. C. Davis and J. W. Keller of Chicago yesterday won the sixth monthly distance handicap interstate two man team shoot of the Chicago Gun club at the Kensington traps with a total of 175. H. Stade and H. Wehmhofer of Beecher, Ill., were second with 170 and R. Chisholm and P. H. Clarke and H. C. Wolfe and C. E. Shaw, all of Chicago, tied for third place with totals of 163.

J. W. Keller, O. P. Goode, and A. H. Winkler tied for first place in the first weekly club event at 50 targets from 16 yards with scores of 45. A. H. Winkler won the second club event at 25 birds from 16 yards with a 24 score, and Dr. P. H. Lewis won the third contest at the same number of targets from an equal distance with a score of 23.

Stade Wins Pairs Contest.

The twelve pairs contest from 16 yards was won by Henry Stade, who turned in a score of 18. H. Wehmhofer and W. A. Davis tied for second place with totals of 17 each. In the final contest, at 25 targets from 20 yards, H. Cadwallader made a perfect score. J. Lino was second with 23, and O. P. Goode and C. E. Shaw tied for third place with scores of 21.

The intercity telegraph shoot was postponed until next Sunday, because of the inability of shooters in New York and Pittsburgh to compete yesterday.

COAST MAY GET AUTO CLASSICS AGAIN IN 1916

Vanderbilt and Grand Prize May Be Run Over the Santa Monica Track.

San Francisco, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Will the Vanderbilt cup and the Grand Prize of the Automobile Club of America be contested over a California course in 1916? That is a question Chicago motorists are asking since the Panama-Pacific exposition people recovered from the farce of a week ago Saturday and scored a brilliant success with the Vanderbilt on Saturday. There are many who think the classics will stay on the Pacific coast, but they believe that if they do, some other month than February or March will be chosen.

California has had these twin attractions twice now, and inasmuch as the Long Island course can no longer be used by the New Yorkers for road racing purposes because of the inability to secure military protection, it would seem as if the westerners had fallen heir to these classics. But there will be no exposition in San Francisco next year, so it is thought that the plum may be sent back to Santa Monica.

War Starts Grand Prize.

The Vanderbilt and Grand Prize usually are spoken of in the same breath, because since 1910 they always have been run off at the same meet, but the history of the sport shows that the Grand Prize came into being as a war measure that fairly rocked the sport on its foundations in 1908. The Vanderbilt had been run three times and laurel wreaths had crowned Heath, who drove a French Panhard to victory in 1904; Victor Hemery, who piloted a French Darracq in 1905, and Louis Wagner, in another Darracq in 1906.

There was a wrangle over the control of the sport of road racing, with the American Automobile association fighting to hold what it had started, while the Automobile Club of America sought to gain the upper hand. The result was that the A. C. A. promoted its own race, offering what it called the Grand Prize cup. The Vanderbilt was put on Oct. 24 over the Long Island course and was won by George Robertson in a Locomobile. The other side retaliated by going to Savannah, Ga., with its road race. By spending a small fortune to get foreign entries it staged a big event on Nov. 26, which was won by Louis Wagner, the Frenchman, in a Fiat.

Continue Races by Truce.

Then an armistice was declared. The warring factions found that the sport was being injured by their quarrel. The peace pact into which they entered brought about a division of the spoils. The Grand Prize was declared to be an international event, to be run under the sanction of the Automobile Club of America, which also would have the final say so in all other international racing, while to the American Automobile association was given control of annual national races, in which category the Vanderbilt was placed.

But each race was so big that there were few promoters who cared to handle either one, so it was decided to make them twin attractions. It was attempted to run the first of these dual meets on the Long Island motor parkway in 1910, but there were so many accidents in the Vanderbilt, which was won by Grant in an Alco, who also won in the same car in 1909, that the Grand Prize was sent to Savannah, where it was won by the late David Bruce-Brown in a Benz.

Both Classics at Savannah.

The following year, 1911, the two races trotted in double harness for the first time, and Savannah handled them. Again Bruce-Brown, this time in a Fiat, won the Grand Prize, while the Vanderbilt went to Mulford in a Lozier. Milwaukee took over the classics in 1912, and De Palma won the Vanderbilt in a Mercedes and Caleb Bragg the Grand Prize in a Fiat. At Santa Monica, in 1914, De Palma repeated in the Vanderbilt, while Pullen in a Mercer won the Grand Prize.

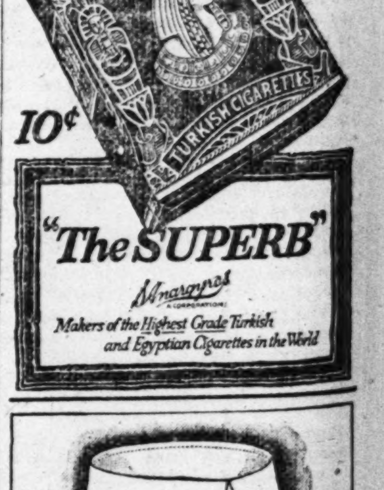

SWIMMING RACES FOR COAST; LOCAL CLUBS LOSE AWARDS.

Chicagoans, hopeful of seeing some of the National A. A. U. indoor swimming championships in local tanks next month, will be disappointed by the announcement of President Fred W. Rubien of the A. A. U. from New York.

When the new A. A. U. régime went into office the awards made by the late James E. Sullivan to the San Francisco exposition were overlooked and attention was called to the fact by the western officials. Both the Illinois Athletic club and the Chicago Athletic association were given events for April 15, 16, and 17. New York, Pittsburgh, and Brookline, Mass., also were given contests. Now both the indoor and outdoor championships will go to San Francisco, to be decided from July 19 to 24.

HAGEN PLAYS GOLF AT TAMPA

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—Walter Hagen, open golf champion, won an exhibition match at the Tampa Automobile and Golf club links today with a score of 142, defeating J. M. Barnes, western open champion, 144; Thomas McNamara, Philadelphia, Florida open champion, 154, and Thomas Kerrigan of Boston, 156. Hagen lowered the thirty-six hole record for

EXPORT DEMAND CHECKS SELLING

Wheat Liquidation Heavy; Foreigners Buy; Country Stops Marketing.

CROP CONDITIONS FINE.

Peace rumors, progress of the allied fleets at the Dardanelles, and big Plate shipments caused renewed liquidation of wheat last week, and there were big reductions in prices. But for all the bear news there was no increase in country offerings, cash prices were decidedly strong, and there was apparently no abatement in the foreign demand.

Export sales were liberal practically every day, and on Saturday bids for shipment via the gulf were higher relatively by 2c than on Friday. Reports from all points indicate little hard wheat offered in any position. St. Louis and Kansas City sold considerable red winter for export at the highest premiums on the crop and local sales were fair at high premiums. No 2 hard sold as high as 4c over May on track.

Primary Receipts Light.

With the decline in prices farm sales were small, and the light marketings were reflected in the small receipts. Primary receipts for the week were 3,698,000 bu, against 4,370,000 bu for the previous week and 4,936,000 bu a year ago. That remaining country holdings are in strong hands is unquestioned, and farmers have not yet been disturbed in the view that ultimately they will be able to sell their remaining surplus at high prices.

If foreigners are not alarmed at the prospect of getting Russian wheat, there appears to be little reason for domestic wheat holders to be alarmed. Liverpool prices were relatively steady. The success of the Dardanelles operations will mean a changed situation in the July, as the grain from the Black sea, if the allies' program is carried out, would come in active competition with the offerings from our 1915 crop, which promise to be extremely large.

Argentina Ships Freely.

With the clearances of 5,193,000 bu from Argentina for the week, there was an increased anxiety on the part of speculative holders and offerings increased, stop loss selling being heavy. The farm reserves report to be issued today undoubtedly will be bullish on stocks. It is estimated exports during the remainder of this month and the first half of April at least will be heavy. Thereafter, with small country receipts, there will be an increasingly tight position.

Seaboard exporters say there is no letup in the foreign demand. Bradstreet's reported clearances for the week of 8,433,000 bu from this country and Canada, mostly from this country. Late cables from Petrograd said expectations of big shipments from Russia were unfounded, as supplies were small.

Choppy Market in Corn.

In corn there has been a choppy market. The smaller receipts increased the buying demand materially, but, on the other hand, there was some disposition to go slow on the bull side owing to the big stocks. The export demand has not been insistent enough to indicate the absorption of the big stocks, and with the approach of warm weather the disposal of the grain will become more of a factor. Liverpool has shown a weaker tendency, due to the liberal surplus of old corn in Argentina, with an enormous new crop approaching maturity. The Plate crop is estimated at 335,000,000 bu, or about 10,000,000 bu more than a year ago.

Weather conditions have been unfavorable, and this has increased the farm feeding demand, and has also militated against free country marketings. Receipts at primary points for the week were 3,675,000 bu, or about half as much as a year ago for the corresponding week. Clearances for the week were 2,615,000 bu.

Export Oats Sales Big.

Export sales of oats have been enormous and there has been no letup in the demand. It is estimated 20,000,000 to 25,000,000 bu of oats have been sold for export and not yet shipped, which should indicate heavy clearances a little later on, as charters have been heavy. The domestic situation is tightening up a little; all eastern demand is still limited. Stocks are large, but the primary movement is at last dropping off, and, for the week receipts were 4,467,000 bu, or a trifle less than a year ago.

Receivers reported extremely small country offerings. The speculative trade is fair and there is an excellent class of buying on all the breaks. The cash houses have been heavy buyers on the declines, reflecting the big cash sales at the seaboard. Outside markets are being well cleaned up.

Investors Buy Products.

There has been a tendency to regard provision prices as discounting the bearish features of the situation. There has been considerable investment buying on the dips, and there is a widespread belief the big western run of hogs is nearing its culmination. With warmer weather, receipts are expected to be lighter, while the prices are right for a big consumptive demand to develop.

The cash trade is still moderate, but conditions in the south are somewhat better and the general situation appears fairly well balanced. Western receipts for the week were 568,500 hogs, as against 608,000 head for the previous week and 429,000 head a year ago.

BAROMETER OF THE WHEAT MARKET.

FRENCH LOAN IS ALL SUBSCRIBED

Finance Minister Now Seeks Extension from $700,000,000 to $900,000,000.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, March 7.—The interesting financial event of the week just past was the announcement by the finance minister that the issue of national defense treasury notes decreed by law had been fully subscribed. The amount was $700,000,000. Now the finance minister asks parliament to vote a measure extending the issue to $900,000,000.

So great is the success of this loan with the public that the government proposes to let subscriptions in short term treasury notes run concurrently with the big ten year loan in the new 5 per cent treasury bonds just opened for subscription.

At present the value of the total amount of small bank notes in France of 5 and 20 francs equals $300,000,000.

It is said that the German commissary general in Belgium has placed all branches of the great French credit banks established in Belgium under an embargo. These include the Credit Lyonnais, the Banque de Paris, the Comptoir Des Compte of Paris and others, besides the Belgian credit banks.

Stock Market Active.

The stock market has been more active, notably during the last few sessions. The French national funds were eagerly sought. There were few offers except some by insurance agencies, which caused fractional momentary declines in the 3 per cent rentes.

The good market sentiment is fully maintained. Activity and firmness are more visible in industrials. A better tendency has been manifested in the Ottoman group, following the naval action of the allies in the Dardanelles. Several Turkish loans improved, including the unified, which rose 5 points in one session. Ottoman Tobacco also was in upward movement.

Position in Britain.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, March 7.—There were some rather considerable movements in the money market last week, which resulted in a weakening of the position of the Bank of England. Its return shows a loss of $2,100,000 in reserve, which is the largest decrease in any one week since the first week of last August.

At the same time there is a loss of $20,000,000 in the stock of gold and a decrease is reported of $70,000,000 in "other" deposits, while "other" securities rose $80,000,000 and public deposits increased $125,000,000.

But money remains so plentiful so far as the general public and business demands are concerned that discounts hang at the extreme low point reached since the war began.

HIDE MARKETS ON DECLINE.

Hide prices are falling of their own weight, assisted materially by a lessening of the demand on buyers' part, according to the weekly review of the hide markets by the Chicago Daily Hide Report. Leather prices are not on a parity with hide values for domestic consumption, and as no further orders are coming from abroad for military use, hide rates will have to be reduced to where tanners can operate with only the domestic outlet in view.

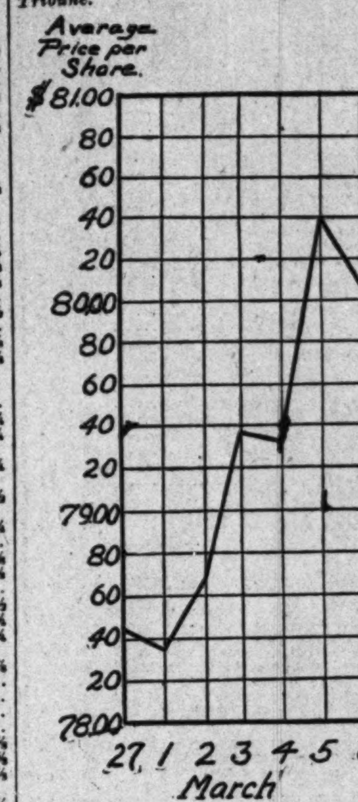

Country heavy hides which sold at 20c within the past ten days are now freely offered at 19c, and bids are solicited. It is generally accepted that bids at 18½c would secure hides in heavy cow and steer varieties over 60 lbs in weight. Buff hides 45@60 lbs are offered at 19½c, and bids at 19c would be accepted. Extreme light hides are held up to 20c for best qualities, but current arrivals can be gotten as low as 19c with a firm bid. Bulls retain most of their strength on account of their scarcity and cheapness. These hides are available at the last sale rate of 15½c. Branded cows are slow at 15½@16c flat nominal here. Hides in the originating sections are wanted down to 17½c here, and generally held at 18½@19c delivered Chicago basis.

Packer hides sold off sharply when 10,000 Coloradoes moved at 19½c, and 7,500 butt branded steers brought 19⅝c. Several lots of native steers moved at 22½c, a reduction of 1c from top notch rates of a month or so ago. Texas steers are quoted in a range of 19¾@20½c as to weight and seller. Some native cows sold at 22½c, a reduction of 1½c from prior trading rates. Bulls continue firm in tone.

Calfskins were sharply lower. Local city varieties dropped to 22c from 23½c, and best bids now are not over 21c. Kipskins are quiet at 19@20c as to quality. Horse hides are also dull and quoted not over $5 for common country descriptions.

BAROMETER OF THE STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON COPPER NEWS.

The knowledge that Copper Range is now running full time, coupled with the declaration of two dividends of $1 a share by Champion—which brings to Copper Range treasury $100,000—has raised the question as to the possibility of resumption of dividends by the parent company. Reflecting the improved outlook, Copper Range shares have advanced to 35⅞ from the low of 29 touched last December.

Never before in the history of Lake Superior Copper has there been such insistent demand for immediate shipment at this season of the year. As a rule, local smelters begin to accumulate refined copper in March, to hold until navigation opens, to take advantage of water freight rate. But now smelters are shipping daily to New York, and 200,000 pounds left in one shipment from the Calumet and Hecla smelter, following a shipment of 300,000 pounds the day before. Report has it that this company is selling direct to the French government.

Probably in the spring a railroad will be built to Calumet and Arizona's New Cornelia mine at Ajo, Ariz., forty-four miles from main line connection at Gila Bend. New Cornelia's history in recent years has been interesting. The Lewisohn interests, through the General Development company, acquired stock interest of 20,000 shares in the company's 1,200,000 shares about five years ago, for which $20,000 was paid, and this money was expended on the property under supervision of J. Parke Channing. An option on stock control was held by the General Development company, but was forfeited in 1910.

The property was then leased to its former manager, H. C. Chamberlain, who shipped 800 tons of 4 per cent ore to the Copper Queen smelter at Douglas, which is also the location of Calumet and Arizona's smelter. The latter company's engineers were attracted by the ore, and investigations were begun, with the result that in 1911 an option for a year was taken on control.

Present price of copper is high enough to warrant resumption of mining at Lake, but it is deemed prudent to wait until the future is more fully assured. This does not convey any serious doubt that copper is in a strong position; but in starting up Lake will assume responsibilities of overhead costs and providing steady employment for men, and the management wants to be sure of its ground, without undue risk, before taking this step. It is felt that within a reasonable time the situation will show itself permanent enough to start work.

Lake first became idle at the beginning of the strike in 1913. Efforts to resume were made in November and December of that year, but violence was so great that these were abandoned. Following the strike settlement in the spring of 1914 arrangements were well along toward resumption when the outbreak of war put a stop to them again.

The pumps are not kept running, but the workings fill very slowly and the mine can be drained quickly.

BRIDGE PLANT AT NORMAL.

Gary, Ind., March 7.—[Special.]—The Gary works of the American Bridge company has received a 40,000 ton order for structural steel, which includes the 9,000 ton order recently received from Portland, Ore. The local plant of the company, which has been operating about 60 per cent capacity, will go on full time on April 1. All former engineers and draftsmen have been ordered to report for work. Marked improvement is also shown at the American Sheet and Tin Plate and Indiana Steel company plants.

CHICAGO COAL DEALERS VISIT WEST VIRGINIA MINES.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., March 7.—After a tour of inspection that occupied the whole of last week, a party of seventy coal dealers of Chicago and the operators of mines in the New river district of West Virginia have arrived here and attended a farewell banquet given by several officials of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, who were members of the party.

The party came on a special train from Chicago and went immediately to the coal fields to make a personal tour through the mines and obtain a more intimate knowledge of the processes of mining. Over seventy mines were visited and inspected.

Harry M. Hall, general freight agent of the Chesapeake and Ohio, was the manager and conductor of the tour. In an address at the banquet he said the meeting and trip would do much toward regulating the coal prices in Chicago and the remainder of the middle west.

Butter, Eggs, Potatoes, and Cheese Cheaper During the Week.

LIVE POULTRY IS UP.

Produce trade at Chicago last week was marked by further recessions in prices of butter, eggs, and potatoes, and a slight upturn in the value of live poultry. The changes in dairy products were seasonal and had been expected. The slump in potatoes was less popular, as it brought the market value down to a level where country shippers found it almost impossible to make a profit on their operations after paying country costs and freight charges.

Further increase was made in the movement of eggs from the interior and the quality of the offerings at distributing points was exceptionally good. This, along with the reductions in prices, had a tendency to increase consumption, and the trade was the most active experienced in many weeks. The market closed with a downward tendency, however, and the expectancy is that prices will seek a still lower level before any advance can be permanently maintained.

Butter market is in a congested condition and prices probably will have to go lower before the situation is improved. The talk of export buying fails to instill much confidence in the market and holders of fresh and cold storage butter appear anxious to unload, even though they have to make concessions.

Cheese values sustained slight losses last week and the market closed in an uncertain position. The local demand for all makes is said to be exceptionally narrow and unsatisfactory. Some buying is being done by Canadian firms for export and this is said to be about the only support the market is receiving.

Potatoes, although about the cheapest food product available, are not meeting with a satisfacory demand. Closing sales of good sound stock were made here last week at 30@36c a bushel, compared with 40@45c a bushel a week ago. It is not expected values will go much lower, but dealers do not look for much better values unless the demand improves materially.

WOMEN'S WEAR.

The business which has been done this season in dress goods has been of a steady, but not spectacular character. It will probably wind up as it has started. By some strange twist of conditions color has been playing an increasingly important part in the demand, and less than the usual attention has been given to the fabric itself. This probably may be set down to the fact that the fabrics which have sold well have been few. Gabardines, poplins, and serges about make up the list. In colors a strange tendency is noted. Dark ones seem to predominate, and the condition becomes more marked as time goes on. Where Copenhagen was the choice of the buyer earlier in the season, a darker blue is now being asked for. The same holds good in tan, which was bought in light shades at first, and now inquiry is being made for bigger brown.

The improvement predicted some time ago by prominent makers of corsets is apparently at hand, though the season's business to date is still quite a bit subnormal on the whole. The bulk of the retail demand is for four and five inch bust effects, principally the latter. Buyers are still showing a tendency to avoid such models as have a tendency to permit bulkiness at the hip line, they having found that, despite the advent of the fuller skirt, most of their customers are not yet ready fully to abandon the slender, willowy appearance imparted by the corsets of several seasons past. The demand for the better grades of corsets is one of the features of the market. Even in the cheaper goods the buyers are taking the best they can get for the money they have to invest.

The Textile Color Card association, which was incorporated recently for the purpose of getting out a standard set of colors, is busy sorting out and arranging the samples which have been sent in. The variance shown between colors that go under the same name is a surprising one. In some instances as many as twenty-one different shades are being sold under one name. It will be the task of the association to adopt standard colors from the samples submitted, so that when the card is finally issued there may be no confusion when a customer asks for one of the popular colors. In the samples received so far tan, for instance, ranges from what is very nearly an all white to the deepest brown. There is the same dissimilarity shown in the sand shades. The directors of the association will select what they believe is the best color of its designation and place it in their card.

A noticeable lull in the buying of ready to wear garments for women has come about and the indications are that the initial buying of spring lines is rapidly coming to a close. With Easter only a month off it behooves the retailer to do more selling than buying, and many of them report that they are doing a good business so far.

MEN'S WEAR.

Various manufacturers of clothing in New York, who were interviewed recently on the prospects for the coming fall season's business, took different views regarding the outlook. It was agreed that conditions since last the salesmen took to the road have improved materially, and that there is less uncertainty. The mild weather, on the other hand, has not given the retailers much of an opportunity to move out goods, and the fact that they must carry over more than the usual amount of merchandise will not make it any easier for the manufacturers to get orders for the next heavy-weight season. During the month past there was a more active demand for spring merchandise than is normally the case, and this is regarded as a good sign.

As the confirmations begin to come in to the men's wear selling agents, they find that revisions and cancellations are not as heavy as they thought at first would be the case. In a good many instances the sellers have their own wisdom to thank for this, inasmuch as they advised caution and did some revising on their own account when they had reason to believe that the buyer was speculating. On the whole the results attained so far this season have been satisfactory. The serge business fell off as it was predicted would be the case. But, on the other hand, the goods of less staple nature have done very well, and, in some instances, exceptionally so. The clothing salesmen will not take to the road very much later than usual, and the firm tone of the woolen market should help rather than hinder them in getting orders.

THE TRIBUNE

SIMULTANEOUSLY today with the April Delineator the Butterick patterns for April will be placed on sale.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO.

The New Silks, Including Especially Striped Silks—

Are more charming if possible than in many seasons past and this augurs a really extraordinary season for silks. A splendid showing of striped taffetas and fleur de soie is featured today.

They are of a soft finish and dependable quality—white-and-black and black-and-white stripes in an assortment of various widths. $1.50 yard.

Black-and-White Striped Chiffons, Specially Priced, $1.50 Yard.

These are 40 inches wide and come in striped effects, in various sizes. These chiffons are priced to denote unusual value at $1.50 yard.

Second Floor, North Room.

A Special Showing of New Spring Suits

GUIDED by the dictates of the foremost fashion creators, we have assembled these collections of new spring suits.

Today we specialize upon two groups—

Cloth Tailored Suits at $37.50

In this suit of gabardine the coat with full vest of white pique shows an entirely new idea at the back—a short peplum of "ruched" box-plaits. The skirt has the new frill top and bretelles. $37.50.

Other cloth suits priced $25 to $50.

Silk Poplin Suits at $52.50

The silk poplin of a fine lustrous weave creates the elegance of this suit—fashioned in the Empire mode as to coat and mid-Victorian as to skirt, short and full. In all the new shades. Priced, $52.50.

Other silk poplin suits at $50, $55 and $60.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Women's New Spring Coats of Silk Faille at $40

Graceful in line, rich in the texture of the soft silk fabric, effectively trimmed in velvet and handmade ornaments, comes this most attractive new silk coat.

The sketch shows the new flowing sleeve, the flare held at the sides, the clever collar of velvet.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

A Beautiful Display of the New Lace Novelties

Among the most interesting just now are the new soutache and braided effects on net bands, flouncings and allovers, which are very much in demand for trimming this spring. These are shown in black, white and the popular sand shades.

Very Special—

—At $3.95 Yard

New net lace flouncings in many different and pretty designs, 18-and 27-inch width, at 95c and $1.45 a yard.

A special assortment of 27-inch filet net flouncings, now so much in demand, also wide bands to match.

Gold and Silver Tinsel Laces and Bands

Colored net and chiffon trimming laces,
18-and 27-inch Oriental lace flouncings,
18-and 27-inch embroidered net flouncings,
Gold and silver embroidered net all-overs,
Fine shadow lace all-overs

—All at 50c Yard

First Floor, North Room.

Cream-Colored Dress Fabrics

That Are Prominent in Our Present Dress Goods Displays Are Priced at

$1.50 a Yard

54-inch French serge.
50-inch poplin.

Interesting, individual hats are these—wonderfully graceful in contour, artistic in coloring—hats that are seldom offered at so low a price as this.

Fifth Floor, South Room.

Babies' Spring Coats of Covert Cloth at $8.95

There Are Two Special Styles at $8.95

One—sketched here—has a smart little tab-held belt of brown suede cloth, and buttons high to the collar.

The other is belted high at the back and has tiny tailored revers and low collar.

Third Floor, North Room.

Blouses of Two-Tone Georgette Crepe at $5.75

Fourth Floor, North Room.

New Crepe de Chine Negligee Robes at $8.95

There is something of a charming dignity in the long line of the jacket, so exquisitely hand-embroidered.

Third Floor, North Room.
